JACK ANDERSON SAYS: U.S. Fumbles Administration Of 2,000 Pacific Islands; Islanders Unhappy; Many Would Rather Japan Rule Again; Americans, Not Natives, Enriched By Spending Millions

Posting Of Drug Prices Brings Wide Controversy

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The head of the Iowa Board of Pharmacy Examiners, Paul Crews, says his department is "definitely going to get involved" in a plan by a nationwide drug store company to post prescription prices on store counters.

The Chicago-based Osco Drugs, Inc., has ordered the prices of 100 best-selling drugs posted Monday in all 176 Osco stores in 16 states—including Iowa. Richard G. Cline, president of the firm, said the move was to aid the consumer in getting the best prescription deal.

Cline released a letter Tuesday that he said he received from the Justice Department commending his company's plan.

Roland Sorum, store manager of Osco Drug in Sikeston, Mo., said many people have difficulty obtaining prescription price information.

"I definitely think it will be a great thing for the customer to see what the prescription will cost," Sorum said, "and this has been a long time mystery for the customer."

He said the store will display price lists today of the 100 most frequently prescribed drugs in the pharmacy and the 100 items represents approximately 40 per cent of the total prescription drug volume.

"The whole idea is for the customer to know the cost of the prescription," Sorum commented. "It is not a price war or anything like that."

He said the main objection to the posting of prices comes from the pharmaceutical association.

"I personally feel it (the objection) is purely economic," he said.

He added that the reason all the prices for nearly 4,000 drugs are not posted "is simply a matter of space" but said the store would be glad to give price information on any drug price not posted.

Pharmacy control officials in several states have been investigating the project.

The letter was signed by Richard W. McLaren, an assistant to the U.S. Attorney General in the antitrust division.

McLaren wrote, "We are pleased to learn of the initiation of a program with the apparent potential to effectively provide much-needed price information in this area."

In a postscript, McLaren noted, "We should point out that in at least two states, restrictions on drug advertising have been invalidated by state courts."

Spokesmen for pharmacy boards in Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, South Dakota and North Dakota said regulations in their states prohibit such advertising and that action is planned against the company. In Arkansas and Minnesota, spokesmen said investigations are planned.

Originally For Asst. Fire Chief

Federal Funds Given City

But City Has Asst. Fire Chief | Now Wants Police Detective

BY MIKE JENSEN

The city may be on the verge of hiring a police detective investigator apparently as a result of protest against the police force. The possibility of obtaining the detective is confused.

Hiring of a detective apparently would involve a request for a rechanneling of federal funds originally sought for an assistant fire chief.

The confusion began in mid-September when city manager Raymert Miller applied for and received preliminary approval of $8,000 in federal money for the hiring of an assistant fire chief.

Miller had submitted nearly 20 different requests to the Regional Planning Commission asking for part of the $160,000 in federal money made available under the emergency employment act.

The preliminary approval apparently backfired - leaving Miller in an embarassing position.

Miller said the assistant fire chief was "probably the worst choice and least needed" of the positons submitted for consideration.

The Federal money granted to Sikeston was made available under the emergency employment act, which offered nearly $650 million nationally to finance the hiring of needed personnel for cities and counties.

The program would finance 90 percent of the salaries for the new personnel for one year and the cities would be obligated to continue the program after the federal money was exhausted.

With the strong possibility of receiving final approval for an assistant fire chief, Miller apparently was in doubt as to his next move. The city was nearly certain of final approval of $8,000 for the assistant chief, but at such a high salary, the assistant would be making considerabley more than the fire chief, and also, the city already has an assistant chief.

If an assistant fire chief were hired at the $8,000 salary, he would be among the highest paid city employes, including the city manager, police chief, city collector and clerk.

Fire Chief Dolph Webb's salary is $4,850 plus housing and utilities and his assistant, Sam Melton, earns $3,870 plus housing and utilities.

Webb said yesterday he had never received official notice that the city was considering hiring an assistant chief. He said the first time he had heard money was available for an assistant was from a newspaper reporter. Soon after reading the newspaper account of the federal funding notification, Webb went to the city administrative building where Miller reportedly told him to "pay no attention to the story."

"I could use two or three firemen," Webb said, "But $8,000 a year would be way out of line with our salaries. I don't even make that much money."

Miller said Monday the city had not received final approval for the funding but Phillips Shelton, director of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, said Monday night that the final approval had been received and the cities and counties could begin hiring their new personnel immediately.

Officials in Jefferson City confirmed Shelton's statement and said final approval was "merely a formality, once the cities have sent in their contracts."

Miller's choice to modify the city's earlier request from an assistant fire chief to a detective was apparently for two reasons. First, the city could not possibly hire an assistant fire chief at substantially more money than the fire chief or other personnel within he fire department, and a protest of problems within the police department have apparently brought pressure on Miller to strengthen the department. The city manager is investigating charges of a lack of leadership and lack of law enforcement against Chief of Police Authur Bruce.

Miller would not say whether the choice of the detective would come from the existing force or whether someone outside of the force would be considered. Miller again declined to comment on his investigation into the department."

Hill Bound On Robbery Charge

Lim Hill, 22, of Sikeston was ordered bound over to circuit court Tuesday, following a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Judge Lloyd "Jerry" Briggs on a charge of armed robbery.

Hill is charged with the Aug. 28 armed robbery of four Morehouse men in Sunset Addition. Larry James Johnson, charged with Hill, was convicted on two counts of assault last week and sentenced to one year in the county jail.

Odis Norris, a third man accused in the case, was arrested soon after the alleged assault, but was released by police.

He failed to appear in court last week and remains unapprehended.

Bennie Newton, 23, of Morehouse was the first witness called by prosecutor Tom Gilmore Tuesday. Newton said he, with Charles Wilson, 25 of Morehouse, went to the Sunset Community Club in the early morning hours of Aug. 28 where they could purchase beer after hours.

Newton said he and Wilson drank several beers at the Community Club and walked across the street to the Bugaloo Club where they also drank beer. They returned to the Community club where Wilson entered a dice game with several of the blacks in the club, he said, including at least one of the accused. Wilson and Newton are white.

Newton said a dispute erupted among participants in the dice game and Wilson reportedly was struck in the face by one of the blacks. The dice game ended and Newton and Wilson left the club to return to their car.

Once outside the club, Newton testified the blacks involved in the dice game dispute ordered Wilson and Newton to halt and demanded their money. Wilson agreed, and gave an undisclosed amount of money to the blacks and began to resume his walk to the automobile.

The blacks began to follow the two and when the Morehouse men began to run to their car, Newton said, the blacks caught them and Hill allegedly pulled a knife, placed it to Newton's throat and ordered him from his car.

Wilson and Newton got from their car and the blacks took their watches, billfolds, and a carton of cigarettes from the glove compartment of the car, Newton said. The blacks also took Newton's automobile ignition keys and opened his trunk. A tool box was taken from the trunk.

The blacks then assaulted the men and fled, Newton testified.

Wilson confirmed Newton's testimony and said he had identified Hill, Johnson and Norris from police mug shots.

Donald Stroud and Garrell Lee, both of Morehouse, were then called by Gilmore. The two had been outside of the Community Club when Wilson and Newton had first been stopped by the group of blacks.

When Wilson and Newton fled from the blacks, Lee and Stroud gave chase in an attempt to give assistance, but also were assaulted by the blacks, the two charged. Stroud was struck in the face and Lee said a knife was put into his back by an unidentified black.

The four men reported the incident to police and Newton required medical attention for a cut to his throat apparently by the knife, which Hill allegedly held.

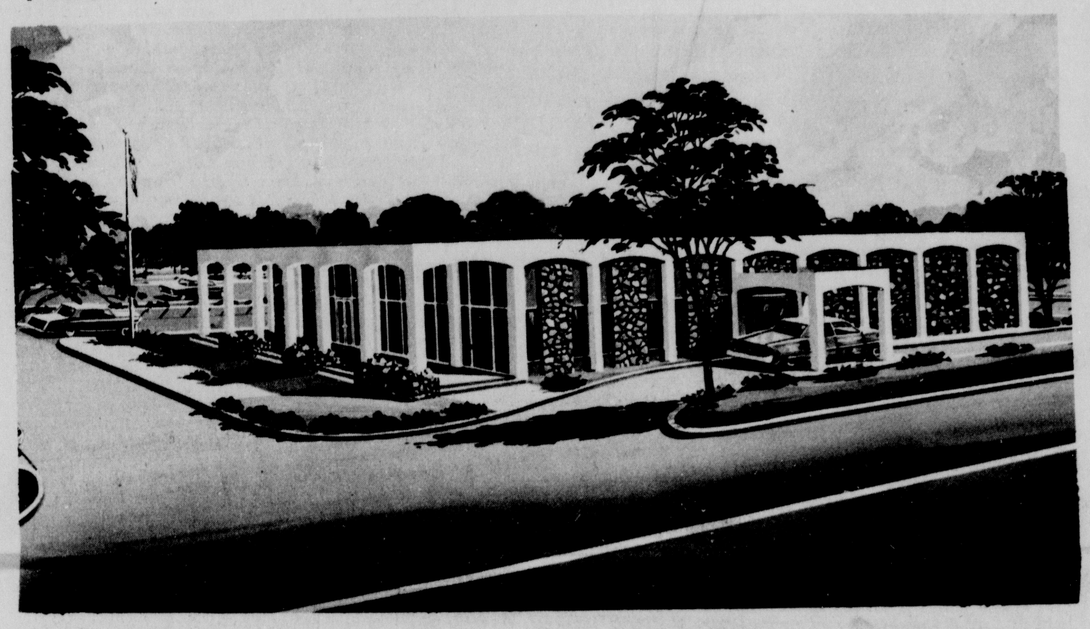
Defense attorney James Green asked for a dismissal of Hill's charges, but Briggs refused and ordered Hill bound over for an Oct. 28 appearance date.

Hill's bond was first set at $25,000 but later reduced to $15,000.

Briggs said the bond was set at a large amount because Hill "has a tendency to depart without leave." Hill walked away from the police station two weeks ago, but was later recaptured by Deputy Sheriff Gerald Inman.

The armed robbery took place one week before another dice game incident claimed the life of 22- year- old Ken Ellison of Sikeston. Ellison had been a participant in a dice game when he was shot in the chest.

Police have charged James Herrington with murder but he has not been apprehended.



AN ARCHITECT'S DRAWING of the new Security Federal Savings and Loan Association building under construction at 820 North Main.

New Loan Office Here

Brown Construction Company of Dexter was awarded the building contract for construction of a new Security Federal Savings and Loan Association building at 820 North Main, James Beaird, executive vice president of Security Federal, announced today.

The new building has been in the planning stages one year, Beaird said, and according to Architects Patrick Donnellen and Harold Porterfield of Poplar Bluff, construction should be completed in 11 months.

"The construction people may begin site preparation today," Beaird said.

Having more than 13,000 square feet of total employe customers area, the building will have four private offices, board room, kitchen, lounge and a wide expanse of secretary and teller space on the main floor. The finished basement will have a large community room and a smaller meeting room as well as a larger kitchen for group functions.

Security Federal employes 15 and has the three branch offices at Dexter, Malden and New Madrid. The home office is at 124 East Center.

Beaird said the staff may be increased after the new facility is completed.

Tavern Keeper

Accident Fatal

CHARLESTON — A ruling of accidental death was returned Tuesday afternoon by a coroner's jury at the inquest into the shooting death of Theodore Rogers, 51, of route three, Charleston.

Rogers was killed Monday afternoon in Brewer's Lake Taver. He was part owner and operator.

Mississippi County Coroner Elgin McMikle said Rogers died instantly when a single shot from a 12 gauge pump shotgun struck him in the left side of the chest.

Dennis "Butch" Burgess, of Charleston, who was loading the gun when it dischrged, identified the gun as belonging to Rogers and testified he and Billy Ray Nolen had been outside the tavern target shooting to see who would buy the next round of beer. They had gone back inside to buy more targets cards and two shells.

Burgess demonstrated how he was loading the gun and said:

"I did not intend to shoot him."

Witnesses, who were present at the tavern and testified at the inquest, included Barbara Stone of Wyatt, part owner of the tavern, Nolen, and Marilyn Easter of East Prairie.

Also testifying were Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons and Wyatt City Marshal John Pearson.

Members of the coroner's jury were Bill Owens, Fred Bevil, Herbert Borwn, Marvin Baker, Oscar Tiby, and Don Daughhetee Jr.

Services for Rogers were at 2 p.m. today in McMikle Funeral Home chapel with the Rev. Rodney DeGroot, pastor of the First Christian church, officiating.

Burial was in Oak Grove cemetery.

He was born Jan. 14, 1920 and had no known survivors.

Juvenile Arrested

A 15-year-old juvenile boy has been charged with the July 15 burglary of the Shae Keuhle home at 405 Clayton. Sheriff John Dennis said the juvenile was arrested Tuesday and turned over to juvenile authorities.

The Keuhle home was entered in July and a clock radio, camera and other small items taken. Keuhle's car, parked in a drive of his home, was entered twice during July and a stereo tape player and two stereo speakers were removed. The stereo tape player, valued at $120 was recovered.

Dennis said three and possibly four more youths were involved in the thefts.

The juvenile boy was arrested when he sold a stereo tape player for $15.

Charleston Community Award

JEFFERSON CITY — Charleston won $700 first place award at the Community Betterment banquet Tuesday night. The city placed first in its population category of 5,000 to 10,000.

Other communities in the Sikeston area winning cash prizes were East Prairie, Malden, and Caruthersville.

In the over 10,000 population category no cash prizes were given but Cape Girardeau was one of five communities receiving a plaque. Charleston was one of six communities to be awarded a youth plaque.

Mrs. Olivia Lee, mayor of Morley, and wife of J. R. Lee and Dr. Lowell Nicholas of Charleston, were two of 10 individuals receiving the governor's leadership award. Mrs. Lee is office manager of the Sikeston Daily Standard.

Others receiving the award were Mrs. Roland Epperson, Sumner; Mrs. Dougan Jones, Lee's Summit; Miss Judy Plunkett, Monroe City; Mrs. Joe Phillips, Hughesville; Robert W. Segi, Golden City; Larry Webb, Drexel; Fred Wilmot, Nevada; and Mrs. Earl Zieler, Osceola.

East Prairie won second place in the 2,500 to 5,000 population category. Malden won second place in the 5,000 to 10,000 category and Caruthersville was third in that group.

Four other communities besides Charleston won $700 first place awards for their population categories. Sumner, under 500 class; Birch Tree, 500 to 1,000 class; Cabool, 1,000 to 2,500 class; and Mountain Grove, 2,500 to 5,000 class.

The small Chariton County community of Sumner flew off with top honors.

It is located at the edge of Swan Lake waterfowl refuge and calls itself the Canada Goose Capital of the World.

Olivia Lee

Three cities — Jackson, Lee's Summit and Monett — were given five -star recognition for having completed standards in education, transportation, utilities, community services and community planning. That brings the number of five -star communities to 21.

Other communities awarded cash prizes of $600 for second place to $100 for fifth place were:

under 500 - Hughesville second, Maitland third, Summersville fourth, Lock Springs, fifth.

500 - 1,000 — Fairfax second, Bourbon, third, Drexel fourth and Osceola fifth.

1,000-2,500 — Albany second, Glasgow third, Brunswick fourth and Monroe City fifth.

2,500-5,000 — Marshfield third, Bethany fourth, Harrisonville fifth.

5,000 -10,000 — Perryville fourth, Webb City fifth.

Other communities awarded plaques were Carthage first, Florissant second, Lee's Summit third, and Mexico fifth

Other communities receiving youth plaques were:

Under 500 Graham, 500-1,000; Lowry City, 1,000 -2,500 Albany, 2,500-5,000 Mountain Grove, over 10,000 Florissant.

The Beckoning Trails tree planting program is administered by the state conservation department. Communities receiving this year's awards were Eldon, Fulton, Glasgow, Shelbina, Steelville and Viburnum.

Bently Mackey of Mountain Grove received the Governor's Youth Leadership award and the city of Springfield received the Governor's Merit award.

Recipient of the 1971 special leadership award was Glenn Smith of Mountain View. The state's first recipient of the title of MCB Ambassador went to Mrs. Viola Blechle of Perryville.

Commission Talks Of Doctor Shortage

A shortage of doctors in the city was the topic of planning and zoning commission discussions last night as Commission Member Chuck Grant proposed the commission initiate plans to increase the number of doctors.

Grant said the doctors in the city are performing excellently but added "We just can't get enough doctors." "it's not a matter of replacing the doctors who retire, we need more."

The commission said the waiting period to see a doctor was too long and said it was often faster to drive to Memphis to see a doctor than it was to get an appointment in Sikeston.

Grant pointed out that new arrivals in the city often find it difficult to get a doctor's appointment and once they arrive at the doctors office they were required to wait for hours before receiving attention.

The commissioners said they would investigate the shortage before making any recommendations to the city, but added that the Chamber of Commerce possibly will be consulted for their assistance in beginning a campaign to bring doctors to the city.

There are 21 medical doctors in Sikeston and commissioners last night said at least four are expected to retire soon.

DOES MOM HEAR MY HEART?

The following article was issued recently by Poland's fighting Cardinal Stefan Wyszynski when the Communist government in Poland tried to force the Church there to give up its opposition to abortion. He is one of the few churchmen who has fought the Reds all the way, yet is still free. The story was used by pastors throughout Poland, defying Communist opposition.

October 5: Today my life began. My parents do not know it yet. I am as small as a seed of an apple, but it is I already. And I am to be a girl. I shall have blond hair and azure eyes. Just about everything is settled though. Even the fact that I shall love flowers.

October 19: I have grown a little, but I am still too small to do anything by myself. My mother does just about everything for me. And what is odd — she still doesn't even know that she is carrying me here under her heart, and that she is helping me already, that she is even feeding me with her own blood. She is so good.

Some say that I am not a real person yet, that only my mother exists. But I am a real person, just as a small crumb of bread is yet truly bread. My mother is. And I am.

October 23: My mouth is just beginning to open now. Just think in a year or so I shall be laughing, and later talking. I know that my first word shall be — mama.

October 25: My heart began to beat today all by itself. Without ever stopping to rest. And after many years it will tire. It will stop, and then I shall die.

November 2: I am growing a bit every day. My arms and legs are beginning to take shape. But I have to wait a long time yet before those little legs will raise me to my mother's arms, before those little arms will be able to gather flowers and embrace my father.

November 12: Tiny fingers are beginning to form on my hands. Funny how small they are! I shall be able to stroke my mother's hair with them. And I shall take her hair to my mouth and she will probably say: "Oh, nasty!"

November 20: It wasn't until today that the doctor told mom that I am living here under her heart. Oh, how happy she must be! Are you happy, mom?

November 25: My mom and dad are probably thinking about a name for me. But they don't even know that I am a little girl. They are probably saying Andy. But I wanted to be called Cathy. I am getting so big already.

December 10: My hair is growing. It is smooth and bright and shiny. I wonder what kind of hair mom has?

December 13: I am just about able to see. It is dark around me. When mom brings me into the world, it will be full of sunshine and flowers. I have never seen a flower, you know. But what I want more than anything else is to see my mom. How do you look, mom?

December 24: I wonder if mom hears the whispering beat of my heart? Some children come into the world a little sick. And then the delicate hands of the doctor perform miracles to bring them to health. But my heart is strong and healthy. It beats so evenly - tup-tup, tup-tup ... You'll have a healthy little daughter, mom!

December 28: Today my mother killed me.

We noticed in the paper where Manual Drumm, the efficient City Attorney for many years, has handed in his resignation to the City Manager. We believe that the citizens of Sikeston owe Manuel a debt that will be impossible to pay. He has worked right along with Raymert Miller and saved the City many dollars. I don't always agree with him and neither does he always agree with me, but that's one of the things that this country is made up of. We don't expect people to agree with us. We think that it would be a hell of a country if everybody had the same ideas and thoughts and did things the way we do or the way we would like for them to do. But we will say this much, we believe that Manuel's successor, Kenny Dement, will be very efficient, but we still think that many times in the future we will wish old Manuel was back there doing sometimes what we think was wrong, but most times doing what we thought was right.

CANADA'S MOODY PROVINCES

This is not a good time for the establishment in Canada. In the past two and one-half years, the voters have dumped six incumbent provincial governments. In Alberta last August the Progressive Conservatives ousted a Social Credit government that had been in power since the Great Depression -- 38 years. Two months before that, a socialist New Democratic Party deposed the Liberal government in Saskatchewan. A year ago, in October 1970, the Conservatives defeated the Liberal government in New Brunswick while the Liberals defeated the Conservative government in Nova Scotia. And in April 1970, the Liberals defeated the incumbent Union Nationale in Quebec.

Now an election has been called for Thursday, Oct. 21, in Ontario, the wealthiest and most populous (7.8 million) province. The Conservatives have been in power for 28 years and that may be their greatest liability, given Canada's wish to throw out the old and welcome in the new. The Conservatives have a brand new leader, however, in Premier William Davis, a 42-year-old lawyer who took over when John Robarts retired last March. He is opposed by Liberal leader Robert Nixon, 43, a farmer, and Stephen Lewis, 33, a former teacher who leads the New Democratic Party. When the legislature was dissolved on Sept. 13, there were 68 Conservatives opposed by 27 Liberals, 21 New Democrats and one independent.

The Major issue in Ontario, as it is throughout Canada, appears to be unemployment. The jobless rate is 5 per cent, less than in most other jobs. But at the same time, the environment and the quality of life are catching on as issues. "Overall economic growth is cruical for all of us," editorialized the Toronto Globe and Mail (Sept. 14). "But it isn't much comfort if you haven't got a job, if you can't get a doctor when you need one, or if your kid has just been busted for smoking pot."

Sensing the demand for change, Davis extended the vote to 18 year olds earlier this year. They will make up an estimated 400,000 of the four million eligible voters in the province. On the day he called the election, Davis also announced free health service for pensioners and the poor, and said medical insurance costs would be reduced. His opponents have described these moves as old-fashioned political husting. In Canada's change-seeking mood, being old-fashioned is the most damning of all political slurs.

SPANISH- AMERICAN UNITY

A National Spanish-Speaking Coalition Conference planned for Oct. 23-24 in Washington aims to make the nation's second largest minority group difficult to ignore. Its cochairman, Reps. Edward R. Roybal (D Calif.) and Herman Badillo (D N.Y.), says they are tired of waiting for the government to take an interest in the problems of their people. They have invited representatives of 500 groups to "develop a national strategy and to explore the possibility of a national coalition of Spanish-speaking groups to deal with social, economic and political problems" of Spanish-Americans.

A Census Bureau report released last March supports the Congressmen's contention that "recent statistics indicate our expectations over the last decade in terms of social justice have not materialized." The average family income of citizens who identify themselves as of Spanish origin is $5,600 -- about 70 per cent of the national average. Their unemployment rate is almost twice that of the nation's, and they are the most poorly educated of the seven major ethnic groups surveyed.

Estimates of the Spanish-speaking population vary widely, and accuracy is impossible because untold numbers of immigrants enter the country illegally. The Census Bureau estimates they are 9.2 million, or five per cent of the nation. Antonio Rodriguez of the Cabinet Committee on the Spanish-Speaking says the correct figure is closer to 12 million, and others have put it as high as 16 million. Since 1960, Spanish-Americans increasingly have supplied the decisive balance of electoral power in districts where their numbers are substantial.

The task of creating a powerful and unified coalition of Spanish-Americans is complicated by their diversity. Members of La Raza, or Spanish-American race, stem from a dozen or more separate national origins, and live in nearly every state. The largest group is Mexican-Americans, followed by Puerto Ricans and Cubans. Cultural differences may make progress even more difficult than it has been for blacks.

"I visited Europe shortly after World War II. The devastation in Germany, England, France, and other countries was astonishing. In London, in a block where 20 buildings once stood, only one remained. In Germany, entire cities were flattened. In those days, when I was riding in an elevator, the operator would stop between floors and ask me if I had any dollars to sell. I was also approached any number of times by people on the street with the same mission in mind. Depending upon what country I was in at the time, these people were willing to offer a premium in their currency over the official market varying between 20 per cent and 100 per cent ... I have recently been in touch with several people who have just returned from extensive trips to the Continent. They have related numerous incidents where hotels, restaurants or stores refused to accept their dollar in payment for merchandise already ordered. It mattered little if the individual offered to pay them extra. The dollar was not wanted at any price. I was amazed to read that some of the major European airlines would not accept dollars for payment... Times have changed." --

A POLITICAL ISSUE

For several years, the protracted "strike" of table grape workers against grape growers in California has periodically been highlighted in the news. The public has been urged to support a boycott of California table grapes. The true facts of the whole sad story strip away the misleading appearance of a righteous cause carried forward against odds in the grape fields.

The grape boycott is a political, rather than an economic, issue through which consumers have been deprived of the right of free choice in the marketplace and a number of grape growers forced into bankruptcy. Moreover, calling the action in the grape fields a "strike" is a misnomer. Very few workers have rallied to the cause--perhaps only two per cent of the total work force. During the years of the "strike," table grapes have continued to be picked. The provisions of those contracts that some of the grape growers have signed with the organizers are chilling--contracts that incidentally were not submitted to a vote of the grape pickers. Among other things, a closed shop is imposed, no provision is made for elections or worker determination of any kind, and no one can be discharged for incompetence. One clause requires continuation of the union contract as a condition of selling, leasing or transferring the owner's property. There is much more in a similar restrictive vein.

The threat to agriculture and to the future of food and fiber production, posed by the pressures exerted against California table grape growers, is beyond calculation. In recognition of the threat, a spokesman for the American Farm Bureau Federation declares,"We will work towards legislation that will protect farmers against political boycotts and strikes at harvest time; and that will protect farm workers in the selection or rejection of union representation in federally-supervised secret ballot elections." It is time that millions of consumers knew the facts about the California table grape "strike."

ABSOLUTE AS TO LIBERTY

The retirement of Justice Hugo L. Black from the Supreme Court, because of ill health, deprives the public of one of its greatest judicial champions of individual liberties. This was so, it should be noted, because Justice Black has been a "strict constructionist" —the very kind of justice that President Nixon has always claimed he wanted on the court.

In the 1960 James Madison Lecture in New York, Justice Black said: "I believe that our Constitution, with its absolute guarantees of individual rights, is the best hope for the aspirations of freedom which men share everywhere." And as those who saw the memorable television interview with him observed, he often referred to a dog-eared copy of the Constitution that he carried in his coat pocket.

His belief that the Constitution and its Bill of Rights meant just what they said ruled his judicial career. It made him the spokesman for free speech, press and assembly and vindicated his idea that the Fourteenth Amendment requires these freedoms of states. It led him to oppose the congressional witch-hunts of the McCarthy period, to uphold separation of church and state in behalf of the right of conscience, and to support the one man, one vote principle making government truly representative. His belief induced this former police judge to combat confessions forced by police, and obliged this son of rural Alabama to stand strongly for civil rights.

Passing the temptation to quote from his decisions, which combined a forceful grasp of American language with deep knowledge of American history, we offer one example of his impact. In 1942 he dissented bitingly from a ruling upholding the conviction of a man too poor to afford counsel. In 1964 he spoke for the high court in requiring counsel for indigents.

In later years the elderly justice seemed to move to the right in terms of political ideology, by upholding states' rights in some cases. But he did not change in his own view of constitutional principle, for he could refer to a strict construction of powers left to the state or denied to the Federal Government and its courts.

Nowhere did Hugo Black alter his firm conviction that speech, associations and conscience must be unalterably free. Political ideologies change, but the nation will always recognize Justice Black for his contribution to its freedom. —Post-Dispatch.

WE HOPE IT WILL, BUT BELIEVE IT WON'T

President Nixon announced last week that he would end the wage-price freeze when the original 90-day period is up.

He added that an attempt would be made to set up "stabilization measures" (he doesn't call them controls), on a voluntary basis so that economic conditions would be improved and inflation defeated.

We will be happy if such controls are put into effect and operated on a voluntary basis by everyone.

But—perhaps we're too pessimistic—we seriously doubt that voluntary controls will work now or ever. Human nature being what it is, some of us are not going to pass up the opportunity to make more money than the other fellow if all we have to violate is our own conscience—and not a federal law.

All of which reminds us of a friend who was violating a principle, not a law, and when we asked him if his conscience did't hurt, he answered:

"What conscience?"

And—while we're on the subject, the Appeal along with most other middle income folks in the nation, hope that any new controls will include limitations on both interest and profits. It is not right to control wages and prices without also controlling these two, especially interest. It gives too much advantage to the "haves," to the disadvantage of the "havenots." ——Paris Appeal.

PRIVATE FUNDS BACK MODEL $200-MILLION 'DOWNTOWN SUBURB'

A $200-million redevelopment project in Kansas City, Mo., that is transforming 85 blighted downtown acres into a model business, residential and recreational community willl cost taxpayers not one cent.

Crown Center, a vast new complex of office buildings, apartments, shops, theaters, parks, hotels and underground garages, is being financed without federal or local subsidies by a private firm, Hallmark Cards, Inc.

The project, conceived by the greeting card company's founder and chairman, Joyce C Hall, got under way less than two years ago. Now the first phase is nearing completion, with a 3,700-car underground garage already operating, five office buildings comprising 660,000 square feet renting to tenants for summer occupancy, and construction of a 750-room luxury hotel already begun.

The intention at Crown Center is to create a "downtown suburb" or city-within-a-city that will eventually have more than 50 new buildings and a daytime population of 50,000 people. There will be more than a million square feet of office space, a special computer center, 2,240 apartments, two motor inns as well as the de luxe Crown Center Hotel, a landscaped 10-acre park and sculpture garden and facilities like restaurants, theaters, cinemas, cafeterias, specialty shops and boutiques. All this, when completed by 1983, will replace what was once a seedy, decaying neighborhood.

"We believe business corporations should interest themselves in this kind of renewal of our cities," said Donald J. Hall, Hallmark's president. "Our prime consideration in the Crown Center project was to rehabilitate a badly run-down urban area. However, we are approaching it as an undertaking that will ultimately bring us a fair profit on our investment. We think civic improvement can also be good business."

Collecting for a local charity, a teenage girl was given a check by a famous actor. Telling the fund director of her good fortune, she said, "And here's his check for $500."

"That's fine," said the director, looking at the check, "But where's his signature?"

"Oh," the girl explained, "I cut it off and pasted it in my autograph book."

LADDER OF SUCCESS?

The husband and wife were having an argument and angry words flew thick and fast.

"You moron!" exclaimed the wife heatedly. "I wish the ladder had slipped the night we eloped!"

"Huh!" retorted her husband. "There was no danger of that. Your whole darned family was holding the ladder!"

What do you give a man who has everything?" the pretty teen-ager asked her mother.

"Encouragement, dear," she replied.

NEW YORK (AP) — "People like to spread wings," said singer Dionne Warwicke, whose last name last year lacked its present last letter.

"I don't believe in putting people in pigeonholes and expecting them to stay there. It stunts their growth."

That's why the vibrant and versatile young Negro vocalist doesn't like to be classified as any single type of singer. She doesn't want to be confined to any type of music—such as blues and rhythm, folk, rock folk, pop, middle of the road, straight blues, jazz or acid rock.

"I don't categorize myself, and I don't like to be categorized by anyone else," said Miss Warwicke. "I simply sing to the listening ear."

A strong individualist in anything she undertakes, Dionne added a final "E" to her name this year because of her interest in numerology, the occult science of the significance of numbers. 2

"The name Warwick carried good vibrations," she said, "but putting an 'E' at the end should produce even better vibrations, numerologically speaking, and speed sooner to me the things promised."

There may be no connection with the changed spelling of her name, but the latest album by Dionne, issued three weeks ago, has already sold more than 300,000. That means $1 million in sales.

Her latest hit is no surprise to the industry. Since she hit the big time with "Don't Make Me Over" and Anyone Who Had a Heart," Dionne has been regarded as the most consistently successful feminine recording star since Patti Page.

Miss Warwicke, now winding up an engagement at the Copacabana night club here, started singing gospels at 6 in the church of her grandfather, a Methodist minister.

She began her professional career in a Miami night club at 20 for $325 a week. In a peak week last year she earned $100,000.

She gives more than 100 college concerts a year now, sings six to eight weeks in Las Vegas, four weeks in Miami, and four weeks in New York.

"My schedule would put a lot of people in the grave," she remarked, "but it keeps me trim and alert. Between my schedule and taking care of my son David — he's 2½ now — I'm in better shape than any football player."

Deeply religious and quite generous, Dionne donates some $50,000 a year to a scholarship fund for both black and white music students who are "economically unable but academically inclined.

"It isn't only the black child who needs education," she observed quietly. "It's every child."

In a world of anxiety, what is her greatest fear?

"I'm a nut," she laughed. "I'm not afraid of anything." Here are the things Dionne likes:

"Good food of any kind -- shoes and boots -- dressy clothes and jewelry -- Every minute of every day I'm alive -- cities, because that's where people are – occult novels, such as 'The Exorcist' -- hues of lavender, purple or blue -- gardenias -- the sound of laughter -- the feeling of soft things like fur, velvet, silk and babies – making hooked rugs -- contact sports -- and honest people who are themselves."

And here are her dislikes:

"Phonies and liars but not all thieves, because some are honest thieves -- being rushed or hurried -- snails and oysters and steak tartare -- the color red because it means stop to me -- insomnia -- the smell of a city, because it smells like an overworked horse -- mididresses – yelling or being yelled at -- the sound of acid rock music -- baseball, badminton and people who paw you."

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON– The smell of scandal is blowing in from Micronesia far out in the Pacific. The ugly odor could forebode serious trouble on islands where Americans fought some of the bloodiest battles of World War II.

More than 10,000 islands are scattered like dust specks throughout the Pacific. Exactly 2,141 of them, known collectively as Micronesia, are ruled by the U.S.

These islands, like idle volcanoes, have been quiet since World War II. But now that the U.S. is pulling back from Asia, military leaders are quietly eyeing the Pacific islands as a forward line of defense. Secret proposals are already under study to establish new bases in the Pacific.

But the U.S. tragically has botched its trusteeship of Micronesia. A succession of political hacks from the States have governed the islands, often in the manner that Northern carpetbaggers ruled the South after the Civil War.

Today, many islanders who hailed their liberation from the Japanese nearly three decades ago would prefer to have the Japanese back.

The Interior Department, which administers Micronesia, has gotten wind of the distant scandal and has sent investigator Ivan Kestner to find out what's brewing. He has received an earful of charges. Here are just a few of them:

-GROSS IRREGULARITIES

Since the end of World War II, the U.S. has spent hundreds of millions of dollars throughout the trust territory. However, the money has been largely squandered, and the Micronesians have received only minimum benefits. "Gross irregularities" have been alleged in the administration of government contracts.

These include illegal change orders that have benefitted favored contractors. There has also been too little monitoring of construction contracts.

High Commissioner Edward E. Johnston, formerly a Republican hanger- on in Hawaii, allegedly "has used his office to support his various business interests and the business interests of his friends and associates." he has also been accused of neglecting his duties and lording it over the natives.

Both the high commissioner and his top law officer, Richard Miyamoto, have been charged with violating the basic principles of contracting. One contract inspector, Robert Meyer, reported several serious contract violations, but he was ignored or overruled so often that last month he resigned in disgust. Cited as "typical" of what's going on in the islands is the case of a procurement official who three years ago was a low-paid clerk but now allegedly owns three expensive houses on Guam.

These are just a few of the charges Kestner is investigating -- charges of course, that haven't been proven and that Johnston and Miyamoto have denied. Yet something evidently is amiss in Micronesia. The natives, once passive, are becoming restive, and the islands no longer seem as remote from the world's hurly-burly.

-WASHINGTON WHIRL-

Ecology Be Damned -- House Interior Chairman Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo., is asking the taxpayers for $133,995 to show that strip mining and oil drilling is good for the environment. He hired New York lawyer Edward Weidenfall as a committee consultant to help mastermind the campaign. In a confidential, 12-page memo, Weidenfall proposed holding hearings on oil, gas, coal and other sources of energy. This is a subject that has been neglected by Congress. But Weidenfall's memo is heavy on how the public should swallow the demands of the energy industry and short on what strip mining and oil spills will do to the ecology. Weidenfall also proposes press conferences and off-the- record briefings: for the old Colorado pepper pot to promote the oil-gas -coal side of the ecology issue.

Money for Mills -- House Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., grumped to friends the other day that he was "going broke" traveling around the country to make speeches. With an eye on the White House, he has been accepting just about every speaking engagement he can get. He has received "thousands of offers" of financial help, he said, to finance his unannounced presidential campaign. But so far he has turned down all contributions. Sitting in his shirt sleeves, he quickly leafed through a newspaper as he chatted with his friends. He paused briefly at the comic section. "I might have to start taking some financial help from somewhere," he allowed.

Reverse Discrimination -- Some contractors feel President Nixon is doing too good a job for minority businesses. Nine small contractors have protested to Rep. Joel Broyhill, R-Va., that they have been discriminated against by the federal government in favor of black firms. They have cited construction contracts that were awarded to minority-owned businesses without bids by various government agencies. The white contractors claim they could do the jobs, in some cases, for half what the taxpayers are paying the minority firms.

Peace Prize To Brandt

OSLO, Norway, (AP) — West German Chancellor Willy Brandt today won the 1971 Nobel peace prize.

The 57-year-old Socialist head of the Bonn government receives the equivalent of $88,000 from funds endowed by Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite. The peace prize is awarded annually by the Norwegian parliament.

Danish Socialists and fellow German Social democrats had recommended Brandt for the prize, saying his efforts to improve his country's relations with East Europe were the most important initiative for relaxation of tension in the last decade.

Last week Dr. Earl W. Sutherland Jr. of Vanderbilt University won the Nobel Prize for medicine and Dr. Simon Kuznets of Harvard University won the award in economics. The prize for literature will be awarded in Stockholm on Thursday and the final prize, chemistry-physics, Nov. 2.

Brandt this year signed nonaggression treaties with Poland and the Soviet Union. While the treaties have yet to be ratified, their signing improved the East-West climate and made possible a tentative four power agreement on Berlin. Details of the latter agreement have yetto be worked out.

Brandt has said an agreement to improve the situation of West Berlin, a chronic EastWest trouble spot, is a precondition to submitting the treaties for ratification by his parliament.

Brandt also has made efforts to achieve a modus vivendi with Communist East Germany. He took an unprecedented trip to East Germany for a meeting with the East German premier, Willi Stoph, in the city of Erfurt. Stoph repaid the call by journeying to Kassell in West Germany later.

Brandt took office as West Germany's first Social Democratic chancellor Oct. 21, 1969. This ended 20 years of Christian Democatic rule. He immediately declared that his aim was to be the leader "not of a defeated Germany, but a liberated Germany."

He had been among the favorites for the prize.

Two Bound To Circuit Court

NEW MADRID -- Two were bound over to circuit court on felony charges my magistrate Leo Hedgepeth.

Ira Foster waived preliminary hearing on a charge of molesting a minor. He was bound over to circuit court under $2,000 bond. Foster is charged with exposing himself Sunday to a 12 year-old-girl.

Tommy Resonno, charged with exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon, a .22 rifle, against Buster Gray of Lilbourn, was bound over under $1,000 bond after waifing preliminary hearing.

Ronnie Barton Frame paid a $130 fine on charges of driving while intoxicated, operating vehicle with no inspection sticker and careless and imprudent driving. Florelle Ovie Slavens paid a $120 fine on a driving while intoxicated charge.

Charged with two counts of cheat and defraud by insufficient funds, Thomas Flippo was assessed $32.50 on each count, and given a one-year suspended jail sentence.

Walter Resonno, charged with peace disturbance was fined $45 was given a six months jail sentence andplaced on probation for oneyear.

Charged with operating a vehicle with stolen or borrowed operator license, stolen or borrowed vehicle license and careless and imprudent driving, Willie George McElrath was levied a $61 fine and given six months jail sentence with probation.

Robert Joseph Miller paid $40 fine on careless and imprudent driving charge and improper registration charge. Will Mason Morris jr. and Charles Michael Thomas each paid a $35 fine on a careless and imprudent driving charge and improper

Irene Wilson was assessed $20 fine on a charges of operating vehicle with no operator license and careless and imprudent driving.

Charged with speeding and forfeiting bonds were Ellsworth E. Finnell and John E. Kiersey, $50 each; Russell Craig, Jessie Grayton jr., Wanda M. Echols, Jessie T. Simpson and Demere McCarthy, $35 each; Richard Robinson paid $25 fine and Gary David Bird, $15.

Fined $15 each were Lester Lee Moore, operating a motorcycle without an operator license; James Henry Jones and Frances Ella Johnson, each charged with operating vehicle with having no operator license; and Lesley Paul Reed, operating vehicle in violation of restriction on instruction permit.

American National Stores Inc. was awarded a $597.38 judgment against Eddie R. and Evelyn Webb in a civil suit. Sears Roebuck Co. was granted civil suit judgment for $357.91 against J. C. Pierce.

Tank Car Explosion Kills One, Injures 38

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — "It was instant holocaust. The whole damned world turned orange," says Houston Post newsman Jim Bishop.

One man died and 38 other persons, including Bishop, were injured Tuesday when a fireball from an exploding tank car enveloped firemen, newsmen and bystanders.

Flames shot 200 feet into the air.

Fifteen Perish In Nursing Home Fire

HONESDALE, Pa. (AP) — Fifteen elderly persons, most in their 80s and 90s and many of them bedridden, perished Tuesday night in a fire that swept rapidly through a private nursing home near this tiny northeastern Pennsylvania community.

Wayne County Coroner Robert Jennings said he would ask for a state investigation.

All of the victims, trapped in their rooms on either side of a corridor, were believed to have died of smoke inhalation, Jennings said.

Only a licensed practical nurse, on duty alone at the time; escaped the blaze as it filled the residential wing of the Geiger Nursing Home with thick, black smoke.

"I intend to request the state Department of Labor and Industry and the Department of Welfare to conduct an immediate investigation at the state level," Jennings said.

"If there is any criminal negligence involved here it will be brought out in the investigation," he said.

"The entire area was engulfed with smoke, there wasn't too much flames," Jennings said. "It was very dense smoke and you could see it for a mile."

Jennings said the fire was believed to have started shortly before 8 p.m. in a laundry room at the rear of the residential wing of the L-shaped, one-story frame structure. "There's almost no question of that," he said. "Physical evidence shows that."

The fire was discovered by the nurse, Vaudine Lyon, 41, of nearby Hawley.

The corner said Mrs. Lyon reported she had gone to check clothes in a dryer and found they were still damp.

"She said she then went back to the office area and a little later heard a noise like glass breaking," Jennings said.

"She then started down the hallway and that's when she saw the flames in the laundry."

"When she discovered the fire it was too late," he said.

"She couldn't get down a hall. When she tired to use the phone it was dead. She went outside and tried to yell for help but .it's in a rural area and when firemen arrived all they remember seeing was a person in a white uniform outside. She couldn't even get back inside because of the intense heat and smoke."

She was taken to Wayne County Memorial Hospital suffering from burns. The hospital listed her condition as satisfactory.

Jennings said all but one of the bodies were found in their rooms, in bed, in chairs and on the floor.

Another wing-jutting off to he right of the rooms and containing the dining room and kitchen, offices and the apartment of the owners - was virtually untouched by the flames.

The owners, Harvey and Joyce Geiger, were out when the fire began.

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — The elevation on the Navajo Reservation in Arizona, New Mexico and Utah ranges from 4,500 feet to 10,416 feet.

The reservation consists of nearly 16 million acres of land or about 25,000 square miles, an area almost the size of Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts combined.

The reservation comprises 1,503,693 acres of wildlands, such as canyons and mesas.

An estimated 135,000 Navajos reside on or near the reservation.

Laborer Wanted In Sex Slaying Of Boy Arrested In Illinois

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — A 30year-old laborer wanted in connection with the brutal stabbing and sexual assault of a 12-yearold Omaha boy was arrested Tuesday in Rock Island, Ill.

Fletcher Thompson, special agent in charge of the Omaha division of the FBI, said that Robert Julian Jacobs was taken into custody by local authorities in rock Island.

The FBI had obtained a federal warrant charging Jacobs with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution earlier in the day.

Omaha police earlier had traced Jacobs trail to Davenport, Iowa, after Harvey L. Avis of Council Bluffs, Iowa, who works at a Treynor, Iowa, service station reported that a man believed to be Jacobs had boarded a Des Moines-bound Continental Trailways bus at Treynor Monday evening.

Avis said a man matching Jacobs description had inquired at the service station about where he could catch a bus to Davenport.

Raymond Grim, a Continental Trailways driver, said he started his run at Des Moines and a man he thinks was Jacobs was on the bus and wanted to go to Davenport, but didn't have a ticket. Grim said he sold the man a ticket.

The bus arrived in Davenport at 12:25 a.m. Tuesday.

Davenport police had told Omaha police they received word from Rock Island, Ill., police that the suspect left the bus at a street intersection in a "slum area" at Davenport.

Douglas County Attorney Donald L. Knowles told a news conference Monday night a complaint had been filed against Robert Julian Jacobs, also known as Anthony Ruiz. Jacobs was described by Knowles as a Mexican male, 6feet tall, weighing 175 pounds, with black hair, brown eyes and a tatoo on the upper left arm reading "Bob."

Jacobs was charged with the first-degree murder of Allen Dale Schmidt and kidnaping and stabbing with intent to kill, wound or maim Leslie Schmidt, Knowles said.

He also told newsmen the search was continuing in the Omaha area but refused to disclose any of the evidence leading to the filing of the charges.

"I think at the proper time these matters will be brought to the attention of the press," Knowles said.

Bruce Hartford, Omaha Police Detective Captain, said a car, believed to be the one used by the murderer, was in possession of the police Monday night. Hartford would not reveal where the car had been found.

Hartford said Jacobs is believed to have a record for minor offenses in Omaha, but he said none of the offenses involved sex.

The boy's stabbed and sexually assaulted body was found along the bank of the Missouri River near the South Omaha bridge.

Attendants at St. Joseph Hospital reported that Leslie, who was stabbed about the head, was listed in serious condition.

The reports tell of three fingerprints that could be the killer's. They were found on a card-type holder upon which the apparent murder weapon, a 49-cent knife with a white handle, was mounted at the time of purchase.

The bloody knife, found near the body, was described as a fruit and vegetable slicer with a serrated stainless steel blade.

Investigators also have some auto paint scrapings from a pole in the area where the body was found.

The biggest single hope of solving the case appears to be the account given by Leslie, who suffered about eight knife cuts and had several teeth punched in.

The killer, who lured the boys into his car late Saturday afternoon as they sold candy for the Bancroft Junior High School, "threw me into the trunk" of the car, Leslie told a policeman.

Leslie said the man offered the boys $5 to help find the man's dog. The man said the animal had wandered while he was fishing along the river.

The boys were driven to a wooded area near the bridge, Leslie said. As they reached a closed gate, Leslie said, the man tried to swing the car past the gate but the car hit a post, breaking the mirror.

The man stopped the car at a point beyond the gate and Leslie said the man asked him to get a dog leash from the trunk. But when Leslie opened the trunk lid, the man shoved him in.

About five minutes later, the man opened the trunk. Leslie saw Allen "standing in water"—apparently along the river bank. The man slammed the lid, hitting Leslie on the head.

Leslie lost track of time. Then the man opened the trunk and Leslie said the man's hands and arms were covered with blood.

Leslie did not see Allen's body.

Suddenly, the man tried to strangle Leslie, using Allen's shirt. Leslie said the man hit him in the face. Leslie broke free and ran into the woods. Where he collapsed.

Dr. Blaine Roffman, a pathologist, said Allen's body had 29 stab wounds and a long, deep cut across the throat.

When Police Sgt. Emil Slama found the body, Allen's gray socks were the only item of clothing on it. Nearby were his shoes, his shorts and his glasses. His shirt was between a road and the body.

Slama found the body after an anonymous caller telephoned police saying he was fishing when he saw a "little boy's body" under the bridge.

The boys' father, xLoyal Schmidt, a supervisor of maintenance at Grace Bible Institute, said the boys left home early Saturday on the candyselling mission. Neighbors and police searched until 3 a.m. Sunday for the youngsters.

Leslie stumbled from an area some 200 feet southwest of where the body wa found and collapsed more than an hour after Allen's body was found.

Suspect Got Out Of Prison In April

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A 31-year-old man wanted in Omaha on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the knife-slaying of a 12-year-old Omaha boy, was released from Missouri's penitentiary last April 19 after serving almost exactly five years of a seven-year-sentence.

Robert Julian Jacobs was arrested in Rock Island, Ill., Tuesday.

Jacobs was convicted in St. Louis Circuit Court in April, 1966 on charges of first degree robbery and second degree burglary. His sentences of five years and three separate ones of seven years were to be served concurrently.

In 1954 his fingerprint record was started when he was captured as a runaway. Thereafter he had several arrests in connection with vagrancy, robbery and assault charges.

During his time in prison he had a home address of Pleasant Hill, Calif.

More than 9,000 overnight guests can be accommodated in Yellowstone National Park's inns, cabins and lodges.

Securities' Sale Barred

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick today ordered Gossett Oil Co. of Longview, Tex., to stop offering its securities for sale in Missouri because it is not registered here.

Kirkpatrick said the firm has been offering undivided interests in undrilled oil and gas wells in Venango County, Pa.

National Business Women Recognized This Week

Mayor Lee Shell has proclaimed this week for observance of National Business Women's Week.

National Business Women's Week was initiated in 1928 by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs to focus on the thousands of career women, who are working together to solve the nation's problems.

The 1971-72 theme of the more than 3800 BPW clubs is an "Era of Responsibility" with a strong focus on legislative action, action to insure a quality society, action to bring world peace, action to promote productive change and action to raise the status of women.

Betty Cole, president of the Sikeston BPW club, has announced that a coffee will be held at the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company building front lobby Saturday from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. in observance of National Business Women's Week.

Mrs. Nixon May Not Go To Peking

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Moscow is a definite yes but Peking is a question mark in Mrs. Richard M. Nixon's future travel plans.

The first lady told newsmen Monday night she would accompany the President on his planned trip to mainland China, saying, "I'm getting all my Chinese clothes ready."

Tuesday, however, Mrs. Nixon backed off a little.

WELFARE DECLINES

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) -- Kentucky reports its welfare rolls down by 4,300 persons from April 1970 to March 1971. Spokesmen said part of the decline is due to a program under which private citizens help find work for qualified welfare clients.

Unanswered Door Bell Too Much For Gabby Neighbor

Dear Ann Landers: I took your advice and it sank. For years I have been bothered with a pesty neighbor who used to come over in the morning and follow me around from room to room --gabbing and interferring with my housework. Then I read in your column about another woman who had the same problem. You told her to keep her door locked and not answer the bell. It sounded like a sensible approach so I tried it last Monday.

Do you know what my neighbor did? She broke open my basement window with a hammer and a crowbar and came upstairs. I was shocked when I saw her. Her first words were, "Thank God you're all right! I thought something terrible had happened to you when you didn't answer the bell."

So, you see, when a person has neighbors like mine she is defenseless. Any more suggestions? ---Sitting Duck

Dear Ducky: Yes. Tell your neighbor you appreciate her concern but when you don't answer the bell it means one of two things.(1) You are not at home or (2) you are at home and too busy for company -- so will she please not take it upon herself to break and enter.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a high schooler (a non-smoker, by the way) who did not agree with your advice against setting up smoking rooms in high schools for kids who smoke. There's another side to the story which you obviously don't know.

The break between classes is about four minutes. A person barely has time to use the bathroom. The student who needs the bathroom can't get in because all the stalls are filled with kids who are grabbing a cigaret. Another problem is that the kids who smoke have wrecked our school bathrooms. There are cigaret burns on the toilet seats, the floors, the walls, on the towel racks, and once someone accidentally set fire to the place.

I envy the students whose school has a smoking room. It's better not only for the smokers, but for the non-smokers, too. I know you will print this letter because you are fair about presenting both sides.---Burned In Schenectedy

Dear Burned: Your letter does indeed, present some valid arguments infavor of smoking rooms in high schools. I have received several other thoughtful rebuttals---an especially good one from Arthur N. Pierce, Superintendent of Schools, Hanover, New Hampshire. However, I am still against the idea.

Cigaret smoking has been proved unquestionably harmful to health. Facilities for smokers, in my opinion, condone and encourage smoking. As an alternative, I suggest monitors in the bathrooms at class-break time, with penalties for those who break the rules. The notion that you have to permit students to smoke is nonsense. Nicotine addicts can work on their lung cancer before 9 a.m. and after 3 p.m.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married nine years. When we were going together he used to tell a few lies but since we've been married he.s been a lot better at that sort of thing.

Last week he called me "Rose" in his sleep. I thought I was imagining things because it was sort of a mumble. Last night I heard him plain as day. "Move over, Rose, " he said. This morning I asked what it was all about. He said Rose is the nickname of a fellow he works with - - - Rosenheim is his real name. I have heard him talk about this guy before. Should I phone up the personnel director? Would it get back to him if I did? Please advise. - - - No Rose

Dear No: Don't start poking around your husband's place of employment. Trust him. If he's playing around you'll smell something sooner or later and it won't be a rose.

Drinking may be "in" to the kids you run with ---but it can put you "out" for keeps. You can cool it and stay popular. Read "Booze And You --For Teen-Agers Only. " Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Peeling Can Remove Fine Wrinkles

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) -- A Miami surgeon has described a method for removing fine face wrinkles that cannot be treated easily by conventional plastic surgery.

Dr. Thomas J. Baker Jr. told a session Tuesday on "The Aging Face" at the 57th annual clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons that "chemical peeling off" of the skin successfully removes the fine wrinkles.

The treatment dates back many years and has been practiced in studios run by laymen in the Miami area, Baker said.

In recent years, this treatment has been refined by trained surgeons, he said.

The treatment is relatively simple but painful and only for carefully selected cases — mostly persons with light, fair complexions because it permanently bleaches the skin.

"It is not fun to have done," Baker told reporters, giving this description:

A chemical -- usually what is known as carbolic acid, which is actually an alcohol -- is applied to the face and the face is covered, except for the eyes, nose and mouth, with waterproof adhesive tape.

It is applied in small strips to fit the contours of the face.

The procedure requires about five to seven days of hospitalization. For the first day or two, the patient is "rather uncomfortable" and narcotics are used for the first six to eight hours.

The chemical causes a burning that is "quite severe" at first he said. When the tape is removed, the patient is tranquilized, but in 21 to 28 days new skin is generated that has "a fresh look," Baker said. The patient must avoid sunlight for six months.

On the basis of a 10-year followup of more than 1,000 cases, Baker said, the changes in skin "are quite permanent." He said the procedure "may actually prevent skin malignancy."

Of the 150 or so procedures he does a year, Baker said the number of men is increasing from one to two or three a month.

Most of those seeking operations are average people, Baker said, not the wealthy despite his charge of $1,000 plus hospitalization costs which push the total to $1,300 or $1,400.

Asked if he would have the operation himself, Baker said he did not think he would need it, but if he did, "I'd be damn selective about who operated on me."

Tipton-Shipley

Mrs. Gary Lee Shelton

POINT PLEASANT — On Sept. 17 Point Pleasant Church was the scene for the wedding of Miss Linda Darlene Shipley and Lynn Edward Tipton, with the Rev. Floyd Grindstaff officiating.

The double ring candlelight ceremony was performed before an altar adorned with arch candelabra and yellow and white chrysanthemum floral arrangements. Miss Judy Bock of Sturdivant was the pianist and soloist.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Omar Shipley of Fenton, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tipton of Lutesville are parents of the bridegroom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of Chantilly lace with sequin trim. The dress was fashioned with a high neckline, bishop sleeves and a chapel-length train. A headpiece of petals and pearls held her veil, and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses and yellow and orange chrysanthemums.

The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Mary Stone of Cape Girardeau was matron of honor and Miss Dorothy Eaker of Patton was the bridesmaid. They wore yellow formal gowns styled along empires lines. Matching veils topped with yellow gladioli were worn in their hair, and each carried a long-stem yellow rose.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Null of Sikeston were candlelighters.

Larry Stone of Cape Girardeau was best man and Jay Boyer of Glen Allen was groomsman.

A reception followed at the bridegroom's home, where Mrs. Stone, Mrs. Pat Parson and Mrs. Linda Shiverdeck, all of Cape Girardeau, served. Miss Barbara Conrad of Grassy was guest book attendant.

The bride graduated in 1968 from Zalma high school, and in 1969 from Ozark Beauty School in Poplar Bluff.

Tipton graduated from Woodland high school in 1969, and completed two years at Three Rivers Junior College, Poplar Bluff.

He is employed by Cape Vending in Cape Girardeau where the couple lives.

Shelton-Karnes

DEXTER — The Crowder Church of Christ was the setting for the Sept. 14 wedding of Debra Yevonn Karnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Karnes of Essex, and Gary Lee Shelton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Shelton of Dexter.

C. G. Lemmons, minister of the Crowder Church of Christ, officiated at the double ring ceremony preformed before a basket of white mums and blue carnations and an arch candalabra.

Escorted down the aisle by her father, the bride wore a gown of bridal satin and chantilly lace. The gown, designed by the brides mother, featured and empire waist line, a scooped neck on the underbodice of satin and an overbodice of lace. The wedding ring collar and bishop sleeves were also of chantilly lace. The A-line skirt of satin featured an overskirt of taffetta. A chapel length train of lace highlighted the back. The veil of illusion was accented with a loop bow of satin. The brides' bouquet was of white carnations and blue baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Miss Patricia Shelton, sister of the groom. Diana Shelton, sister of the groom, and Darla Kay Karnes, niece of the bride, served as the bride's maid and junior brides maid.

Serving as best man was Steve Shelton, cousin of the groom. Lloyd Hyten and Danny Shelton, brother of the groom, served as groomsman and junior groomsman.

A reception was held at the Vanduser city hall. Brenda Allen cousin of the bride, presided at the guest book. Becky Karnes and Geraldine Karnes, sisters-in-law of the bride, and Brenda Allen served at the reception table.

After a wedding trip, the couple made their home at 319 Fannatta in Dexter.

Karla Guttenfelder

Guttenfelder Nielson

Karla Guttenfelder of Lakewood, Colo., and Jeff Nielson of Wheatridge, Colo., will be married Saturday at 10 a.m. in the Mountain High Chapel near Morrison, Colo. Her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Vernon Guttenfelder, will attend the wedding.

Miss Guttenfelder, a 1970 graduate of Sikeston high school, is a teacher in a nursery school at Lakewood. She attended Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau one year.

Nielson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clint Nielson of Sioux Falls, S. D., is a police agent at Lakewood. He is a graduate of Anderson College in Anderson, Ind.

After their marriage they will live in Wheatridge, Colo.

Meetings and Things

MONDAY

The Scott County Democratic Women's Club will be host to the Scott County Democratic Central Committee, county officials and their families at 6:30 p.m. at the C. E. Felker lodge, south of Benton.

SATURDAY

Business and Professional Womens Club will serve coffee and doughnuts from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. in the lobby of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company building in observance of National Business Womens Week.

Wife Dons Hard Hat

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Where regulations call for a two-man crew on crane operations, the B&B Construction Co. gets away with one.

But it's all legal, because the pilot of the lit truck which holds steel joists for Bernard Ellinger's crane is Bertha Ellinger, his wife and the other "B" in the company title.

The two have been operating as a steel construction team for three years, mainly as a result of Bertha's desire to save money—and her family's laughter when she first suggested donning a hard hat.

Now that she's there, she'll be hard to get rid of. "I own the equipment," she said as she pulled a stool up to a drafting table at the Westwood Shopping Center construction site.

Nurses Aide Class To Start At Dexter

GRAY RIDGE — The Gray Ridge Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation Center will begin a nurses aide class Nov. 1.

The class will give Stoddard county residents an opportunity to receive training to assist registered nurses and licensed practical nurses.

The class will be taught in Dexter by Mrs. Betty Parsons, a registered nurse.

For application and class schedule contact Mrs. Joan Peters, Gray Ridge DAEOC Center at 283-5490 before Oct. 30.

Prep Grid Coaches Comment On Games

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Coach Gary Lynch's Tigers will be seeking their third northern division win against the ever improving Sikeston Bulldog football team Thursday night.

The Bengals trail the Perryville Pirates by a half game in the standings and the Pirates are 3-0 against the Tigers 2-0 record. Sikeston is in third place with a 2-1 record.

Cape Girardeau Central opened defense of their northern division title two weeks ago as it shut out a fighting Jackson team 8-0. Last week the Tigers beat an unpredictable team in the Poplar Bluff Mules, 21-6.

Central uses a two-platoon system. It is the deepest team in talent in the area.

It has good, quick linebackers and the front four are strong against the rush.

Last week the Tigers stopped the Mules rushing and held them to only four first downs.

Cape Central has two big strong backs that it likes to run at its opponents behind a strong charging front line.

Willie Colon and Paul Schermann are the men who do the bulk of the running. Last week they scored one touchdown apiece in their win over the Mules.

The Tigers will try a few tricky plays that the Bulldogs will have to be on the guard against like the touchdown they got off a fake field goal. Quarterback Don Zimmerman passed to Gary Slattery for the touchdown.

Coach Lynch is aware of the team he will be facing Thursday night. "They're a real good team," said Coach Lynch. They haven't been beaten bad by anyone."

PORTAGEVILLE — The Bulldogs of Coach Jim McKay put their perfect 5-0 record on the line against their greatest rival Caruthersville in a southern division football game Friday night.

There's nothing the Tigers would like better than ending the winning streak the Bulldogs have built up this season.

"They look as good as anybody we've played," commented Coach McKay.

EAST PRAIRIE — The Eagles will be going into the Friday night football game against rival Charleston without their leading scorer and number one threat Annise Davis.

Davis, who is tied with Mark Amick of Illmo-Scott City for the scoring lead in Southeast Missouri with 50 points, suffered a shoulder separation and will be operated on Wednesday.

The Eagles lost their quarterback Larry McCutchen with a broken finger.

Coach Ed McWilliams will replace McCutchen with senior Halfback Larry Gross and Freshman Jeff Johnson will take over the halfback spot.

"We hope to get through the game without anyone else getting hurt," said Coach McWilliams.

MALDEN — The Greenwave with a 2-1-1 record in southern division football play and 3-2-1 overall will be host to the Chaffee Red Devils, who have yet to win a football game this season in six tries and are 0-3 in conference play, Friday night in a southern division contest.

Coach Jack Phillips started the season with hopes of repeating as the conference champs but injuries have about destroyed his starting team.

The Greenwave will start eight freshman against Chaffee. Coach Phillips has 17 freshman on his squad.

All the Greenwave can do now is prepare for the future. "We have two natural receivers," said Coach Phillips. "This is something that we've never had before," he continued. Concerning the game Friday night Coach Phillips said, "We'll just try to hang in there."

CARUTHERSVILLE — The Tigers of Coach Ron Wene will try to improve their 2-1-1 southern division football record when they go to Portageville to take on the undefeated Bulldogs.

"We feel that we will have to score three times to win", commented Coach Wene.

The Tigers will be without George Carr, a middle linebacker and Jeff Boyd, who is doubtful. Both boys injured their knees.

The Tigers have Chris Hoskins to run at the Bulldogs along with Joe Cagle at quarterback to do the passing.

CHAFFEE — "We're hopeful of a good game and we're about due for one," said Coach Terry Glenzy referring to the Friday southern division football game between the Red Devils and the Malden Greenwave at Malden.

Chaffee hasn't won a game this season but the team has played better ball than the record would indicate.

POPLAR BLUFF — Coach C. E. Wyatt's Mules travel to Dexter Friday night to play the Bearcats in a non-conference football game.

The Mules have several bruises from last weeks loss to Cape Girardeau Central in a northern division game.

"We will have to be really up for the game," said Coach Wyatt.

STEELE — Coach Joe Pritchard's Bulldogs are looking for their first football victory of the season Friday night as they play host to the Delta C-7 Chargers in their homecoming game.

The Bulldogs will be without one of their starters. Richard Jones has a knee injury.

"We're planning on winning our first game," said Coach Pritchard. "They're the only team in our class that we will play."

DEERING — The Delta C-7 Chargers will try to spoil the homecoming of the South Pemiscot Bulldogs and win their first Bootheel division game. They take on the Bulldogs in Steele Friday night.

At stake will probably be last place in the conference for the losers. So both teams will be playing as if first place were at stake.

"We hope to play our best game of the year," commented Coach Bob Andrews of the Chargers.

"Our young team has done an excellent job and we're looking forward to next year," said Coach Andrews.

The Chargers will be without Guard Wayne Lair due to an ankle injury and Center Keller, who has a kidney injury.

SHS Freshman Lose

POPLAR BLUFF – Speedy Tyron Blackman scored four touchdowns, each on long runs, to lead the Mules frosh to a 32-18 football victory over Sikeston Tuesday night. It was the third straight loss for the Bulldog team.

The game started to be a high scoring affair. Each team posted two touchdowns in the first period.

Blackman started the scoring when he raced 37 yards and John Casey ran for two points to put the host outfront for good.

The speedy back used the option around end to race for scores of 43 and 65 yards in the second quarter and had a 13-yard scoring jaunt in he fourth period.

John Casey scored the Mules only other touchdown running 54 yards for the second touchdown in the first period.

Ray Shaver hat the Bulldogs on the scoreboard in the first, plunging one yard. Tom Derough added teh second touchdown in the first period when he darted 64 yards and Brad Shain ended the scoring with a fourth quarter 14-yard dash.

Sikeston will host to Caruthersville Saturday at 10:30 a.m. at public school stadium.

BRIAN MONTGOMERY, center, was named Sikeston Jaycees football player of the week after the Bulldog's 7-0 victory over Dexter last week. Making the presentation were Jaycees Tom Nunnelee and Steve Sikes.

Alston Named Manager

NEW YORK (AP) — Venerable Walt Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who says, "I can't think of anything I'd rather do than manage," was named today as The Associated Press' Manager of the Year in the National League for the fifth time.

The 59-year-old Alston, in his 18th season as manager of the Dodgers, piloted Los Angeles to a second-place finish in the NL's West Division. Los Angeles wound up one game behind San Francisco after trailing the Giants by eight games going into the final month of the season.

Alston, whose 18 consecutive seasons with the same club is tops among active major league managers, received 72 votes from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportcasters.

Charlie Fox, in his first full season as San Francisco manager, was a close second with 65 votes. Danny Murtaugh, the 1970 Manager of the Year who led the Pittsburgh Pirates to this year's World Series championship was third with 57 votes. The voting was based only on regular season performances.

The modest, effable Alston, however, paid tribute to Murtaugh's effort. "That guy in Pittsburgh did quite a job," said Alston from his home in Darrtown, Ohio.

But the Dodgers' pilot also was grateful to receive the award again. "It's quite an honor," he said. "I really appreciate it."

Alston also was named NL Manager of the Year in 1955,1959, 1965 and 1956, all seasons in which he guided the Dodgers to the league championship. He also took them to the NL title in 1956 and 1963.

Asked about the Dodgers' near-miss this year, he said, "We were all disappointed that we didn't win after getting so close. But you've got to give the players credit, from the youngest rookie to the oldest veteran. Nobody quit. They all gave 100 per cent, and that's all I could ask."

Alston, a former school teacher, has been working on one-year contracts since he succeeded Charlie Dressen as Dodgers' manager in 1954. Apparently that's the way he wants it. "I'm satisfied, and I hope they are," he said.

Dick Williams of the Oakland Athletics was named earlier in the week as American League Manager of the Year.

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — Daily double bettors had a case of heartaches after Ardaches and Toothache won the first two races Wednesday at Timonium Race Track.

Each odds-on favorite paid $3.20 for a $2 winning ticket, and combined for a 1-2 double of only $5.60, one of the smallest in the history of Maryland racing.

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — The British Columbia Lions of the Canadian Football League say they are giving a five-day tryout to defensive end Pete Newell, fifth round draft choice this year of the Detroit Lions. Newell played last year for the University of Michigan.

Pennsylvania's starting quarterback against Princeton has been hurt, and the reserve is calling signals on a long, 10 to 12 second count. What do you, the Princeton defensive captain, know about this strategy:

1. Neither team has an advantage?
2. It gives Princeton an edge?
3. It gives Penn an edge because Princeton will frequently jump offside?
4. It gives Penn an edge because although Princeton will not often be offside, they will still fear a quick count play?

Answer

No. 2. Defense generally has an edge if opponents consistently go on long count. Defense digs in but it's hard for offensive linemen to keep set.

Ahead Of The Game

COLUMBIA — If you happen to pull up to your house some day and see a fellow sitting on the front porch measuring a deer head, don't be alarmed and call for the nearest policeman.

It's probably just Wayne Porath on a measuring mission for the Show Me Big Bucks Club.

Porath, deer biologist for the Department of Conservation, is one of the Big Bucks' official measurers. Measuring a deer rack is no small chore and involves quite a bit of time and experience.

Recently, Porath had the names of three hunters who had taken big deer in past seasons that could qualify for the Club, which honors the state's top deer hunters at a banquet each October.

All were in north Missouri. On the road to a meeting in that area he went by to measure the heads. At Brookfield, he found William Johnson's trophy rack in a sporting goods store. It scored 164 4/8, enough to top the 150-point minimum for deer taken north of the Missouri River. Minimum is 140 points south of the river.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Pennington of Keytesville were delighted to find that Mr. Pennington's 161 3/8-point buck made the club. "Now I'll get a trip to Columbia," Mrs. Pennington told her husband.

At Macon, Porath looked up the Dwight Williams home, but there was no one there. "I started back to the car and happened to look in the garage," he says. "And there was this big deer head. So I got it and went up on the porch and started in measuring.

"Pretty soon a car drove up and this lady gave me a very suspicious look. I rushed right up and introduced myself -- told her what I was doing -- but she still watched like a hawk."

Mr. Williams' Big Buck scored 162 3/8 and earned him membership in the club.

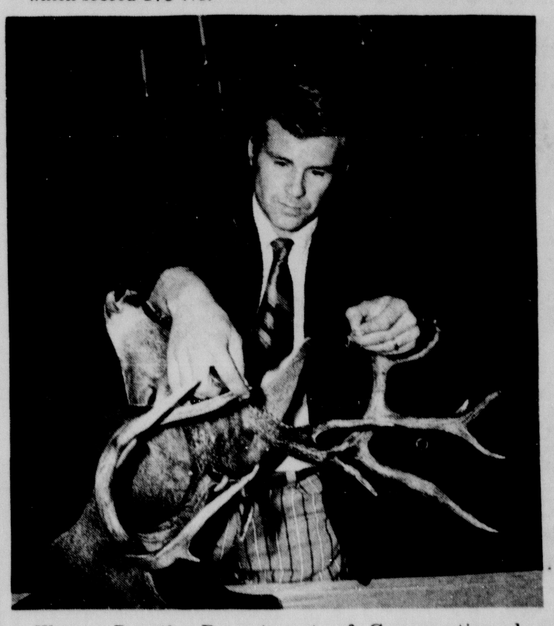
There's no time limit on eligibility in the club, as long as the rack still is attached to a skull cap or head and as long as the rack has dried for 90 days or more. In fact, the club has recognized deer racks as old as 40 years.

Anyone with a potentially eligible rack can contact Porath, Game Research, Department of Conservation, 1110 College Avenue, Columbia, Mo. 65201.

This year's Big Bucks Club banquet was Oct. 10. Featured speaker was Dr. Robert Robel, Kansas State University. There were 95 peopel attending.

The best typical deer rack went to E. L. Burch, Kansas City, for a score of 180 2/8 on a deer taken in Linn County last year. Gary Rosier, Butler was found second with a score of 177 4/8 on his Bates County trophy.

Top non-typical rack scored 181 2/8. Bill Belzer, Bucklin, took the buck in Linn County. Ed Cockerell, Columbia, was second with a rack from Benton County which scored 173 7/8.



Wayne Porath, Department of Conservation deer biologist, measures a trophy deer rack to see if it qualifies its owner for membership in the Show Me Big Bucks Club.

Sikeston athletes in the punt, pass and kick competition bowed out of action Sunday in St. Louis at the district meet.

Hal Butler placed second in the 11-year-old division and Dave Smith took fourth in the division.

Butler was seeking his fourth straight district title and a trip to the zone competition at Busch stadium in November when his passing fell off and he lost by seven feet.

The nation's fourth best Junior college basketball team, Three Rivers Raiders of Poplar Bluff, will compete against Florrissant Valley of St. Louis at Sikeston high school field house Jan. 27, SHS principal Roger Sherman announced today.

The team is composed mainly of players from Southeast Missour. Among the notables on the squad are Larry Lawrence of Sikeston, Charleston's Henry Hall and Mark Baker of New Madrid.

Sikeston High School Basketball Coach N. P. McDaniel welcomed 50 athletes as drills opened Monday. An additional 12 is expected to report after the football season ends.

"We are primarily working on conditioning," the sixth year head Bulldog mentor noted.

Jack Miles, Columbia, assistant executive secretary of the Missouri State High School Activities Association, will conduct a basketball rules interpretation meeting Thursday night in Poplar Bluff. It is one of three scheduled for Southeast Missouri.

Bill Arment, cage official and football coach at Kennett high school, will conduct the remaining meetings scheduled Oct. 25 at Illmo-Scott City high school and Oct. 27 at New Madrid high school.

The first meeting in the district was held Tuesday at Kennett under Arment's direction.

MOSCOW (AP) — Vasily Alexeyev, holder of the world weightlifting record Friday was awarded the order of the Red Banner of Labour, one of the top decorations in the Soviet Union.

Court To Hear Flood's Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Curt Flood's two-year fight to make baseball subject to antitrust laws may be settled finally at the middle of next season by the U.S. Supreme Court.

For the first time since 1953 the high court agreed Tuesday to hear arguments on a legal attack on the structure of professional baseball.

In 1922 the court decided baseball is essentially a sport and not a business. In 1953 the court said any change in baseball's status should be up to Congress.

Flood's case may be delayed by two court vacancies, but a final decision is expected by June. Former Justice Arthur J. Goldeberg will argue for the one-time all-star centerfielder at a hearing tentatively set for mid-January.

Flood and Goldberg objected in their suit mainly to the "reserve system," which binds a player to the team that holds his contract.

Baseball commissioner Bowie K. Kuhn and other baseball officials have argued successfully in lower courts that it should be up to Congress, and not the courts, to make any change in baseball's status.

Kuhn said Tuesday that the court's decision to hear arguments "does not affect the merits of the case. We have complete confidence in the fairness of the court's ultimate decision."

Richard Moss, counsel for the Players' Association, said: "We are very gratified that the court has seen fit to review the case on its merits."

Flood filed suit after the St. Louis Cardinals traded him in 1969 to the Philadelphia Phillies. He refused to report and sat out the 1970 season while two lower federal courts rejected his claim.

He played briefly with the Washington Senators last spring but left the team at midseason and is believed to be living in Majorca, Spain.

In their appeal to the high court, Goldberg and Fpood acgued that a series of events since 1953 calls for a re-examination of the two previous decisions.

They said other sports have been put under antitrust laws, that baseball frunchises have been switched frequently and that national television is a source of mounting revenue.

Hello! From last week being a nothing week this one has been almost unbelieveable, at least the week-end. Everything started out okay. Tony, my son, had to go to guard meeting so the rest of us thought this would be an ideal time to take Tammy , my new granddaughter to see Mother and Daddy and also my Grandma.After all this is a great- great granddaughter. We made the trip just fine and the first night was okay but from then on nothing was okay. My uncle Wilson was accidently shot (Daddys' brother-in-law), then going home Mother and Daddy had a wreck (they're okay) and then the next day Uncle Wilsons' daughter Barbara had a wreck. Needless to say we drove home very very carefully but I think we will stay at home for a while.

AP Top 10 Favored

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — This week it looks like the Associated Press' top ten teams will keep on winning.

Nebraska at Oklahoma State—State's Floyd Gass says the Cowpokes will "play well against Nebraska," but he didn't say which year. The fine sophomores may be in over their heads against the Cornhuskers, ranked by the AP as the best team in the nation. Gass isn't from Brooklyn but wait 'til next year, anyway. NEBRASKA.

Oklahoma at Kansas State— Everything may be up to date in Kansas City but things aren't even up to last year at Kansas State, when the Wildcats knocked off ... OKLAHOMA.

Michigan at Minnesota—Illinois just got through playing Ohio State and Michigan. Now it's Minnesota's turn to tangle with Michigan and Ohio State. MICHIGAN.

Houston at Alabama—Bear Bryant is running Bill Yeoman's triple option disguised as the Wishbone. An upset is possible, such as last year's 30-21 'Bama victory over the favored Cougars. Surprise, surprise? Nope. ALABAMA.

Clemson at Auburn—Clemson has come alive the last two weeks but the reincarnation has to stop somewhere. Hold That Tiger is the theme, since both teams are nicknamed Tigers. Doing the legal holding ... AUBURN.

Southern California at Notre Dame—The Irish were 10-1 last season and the 1 was named Southern Cal to the tune of 3828. It cost Notre Dame the national championship and, even though there's a freeze on, the Trojans will pay through the nose. NOTRE DAME.

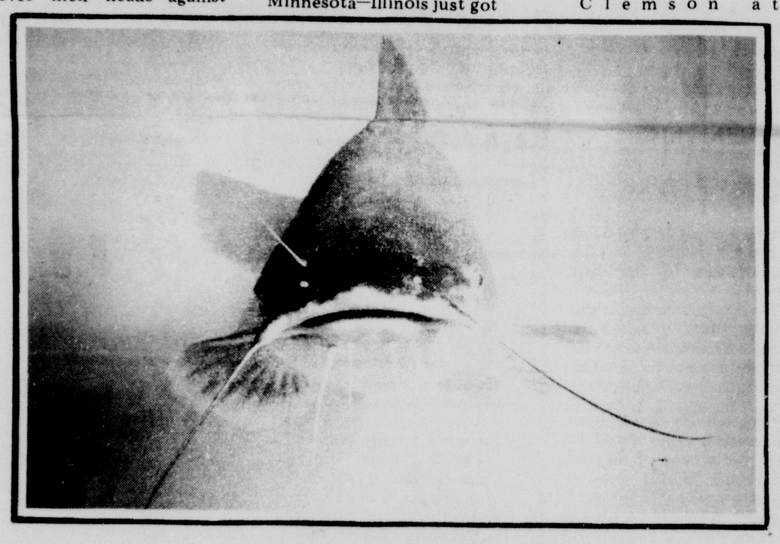
Texas Christian at Penn State—The Christians and the Lions? Have mercy ... PENN STATE.

Wisconsin at Ohio State— Badgers are on the rise and Buckeyes are hurting. That, however, is when Woody Hayes is most dangerous. Besides, how many times in one year can the Buckeyes lose in Columbus? OHIO STATE.

Arizona State at New Mexico—Both teams may have been looking ahead last week to this Western Athletic Conference showdown when the Sun Devils lost to Oregon State and New Mexico tied San Jose State. Frank Kush is one of the winningest coaches around. Add one win. ARIZONA STATE.

Wake Forest at North Carolina—Bill Dooley was awed by Notre Dame's defense last week. This week he gets a taste of offense as supplied by ... WAKE FOREST.

Oregon State at Washington— The Beavers have had their fling and the Huskies have had their slump. WASHINGTON.



Old Blue 1935 - 1971

MOUNT VERNON — Old Blue has passed on to the Great Fishpond. Star of many Department of Conservation State Fair exhibits, Old Blue's mighty heart was stilled recently as old age caught up with him.

Old Blue was a huge blue catfish, but he was more than that. He was the star of the exhibit. Snakes and raccons and deer and red tailed hawks came and went, but Old Blue endured.

Upstart gars challenged him. Mouthy bigmouthed bass backtalked him -- but they vanished into Missouri's lakes and streams, but Old Blue returned again and again to center stage, finning quietly and professionally and, no doubt, humming to himself snatches of "There's no business like show business...."

In the 1971 State Fair, an estimated 350,000 persons passed through the Department of Conservation's exhibit. Of that number, an estimated 349,000 saw Old Blue in his pool at the end of the fish exhibit. The other 1,000 were arguing or thinking about whether they'd lost their car keys or something.

Allowing for population growth and increasing popularity of the Fair exhibit in recent years, Old Blue was seen by 11 million Missourians or more than two times the population of the state. Obviously, some people went back for a second look.

There have been approximately 25 fish in the pool with Old Blue each year which means he was a direct influence on 825 fish over his 33-year career. Many of these same fish have gone on to individual glory in exhibits or at the end of an angler's line -- a direct tribute to the inspiration of Old Blue.

Old Blue is survived by a large family of more than 1,000 different species of catfish including 34 in the United States and Mexico. Largest member of his immediate family, the blue or Mississippi catfish, weighed 150 pounds, according to "American Food and Game Fishes" and was netted in the Mississippi River at St. Louis.

The present world record blue catfish also was caught in Missouri -- on the Osage River July 25, 1964, on a trotline by Anzel Goans and his sons of Osceola. The fish weighed 117 pounds.

Keith Hendricks, hatchery manager at Chesapeake Hatchery, Old Blue's off duty home, reported the demise of Old Blue. "We found him dead in the display lake," Hendricks said with a catch in his voice.

He talked to A. George Morris, former superintendent of hatcheries for the Department of Conservation and the man who took Old Blue from the minor leagues and made him a star.

"George caught Old Blue on a trotline in the Osage River about four miles below the Osceola Dam," Hendricks reports. "Old Blue was brought back to the hatchery in a 10-gallon cream can with the idea of using him for fair displays. George thought this was about 1938, probably in the month of June.

"At that time, Old Blue weighed about three pounds. So, at the time of his passing, he would have been about 36 years old. And he would have made some 33 trips to the State Fair at Sedalia.

"We've always thought that if Old Blue could walk he could get to Sedalia by himself. We know this is possible because last August when the guys were on their way to the State Fair, they had to make a detour because of road repairs.

"Old Blue stuck his head out of the fish tank and said to the driver, 'Hey -- you're going the wrong way!'"

THE SPEED QUEEN LAUNDRY AND DRY CLEANING SERVICE to be open to the public Thursday at Midtowner Village Shopping Center. The new enterprise is owned by Hutson Enterprises of Cape Girardeau.

New Coin Laundry Will Open

A new business enterprise has been added to the Midtowner Village Shopping Center, with the grand opening Thursday of the Speed Queen Coin Laundry and Dry Cleaning, by Hutson Enterprises of Cape Girardeau.

The new 3,000 square foot building was erected at the south edge of Oglanders and across the street from Barkett's Big Star.

The new firm will open Thursday and will have almost 90 pieces of automatic equipment at the public's disposal. Included are 64 washers, 23 dryers and three dry cleaners. It will also have a steam cabinet that takes out wrinkles in dry cleaning.

Miss Bonnie Brewer will be the manager. She will be assisted by Misses Tricia and Patricia Eaves, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Eaves, as attendants.

The firm will be open seven days a week, from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., with an attendant present.

For the ribbon cutting occasion, free gifts will be given to children, and free drinks to the public, beginning at 11 a.m. The public may register for three grand prizes.

It is the fourth such enterprise in the area. Others located at Cape Girardeau, Poplar Bluff and Charleston.

Masons To Honor Past Chiefs

Sikeston Lodge 310 A.F. and A.M. will honor its past presiding officers Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Masonic Temple.

A business meeting will be at 7 p.m. and at 8 p.m., the doors of the lodge will be opened to families and friends of members of the lodge.

A highlight will be the presentation of 50- year service buttons to three lodge members.

Receiving buttons will be Jean Herschberg, of Park Ridge, Ill.; Merritt S. Gwinn, state highway department employe and Herman C. Henry, Buckner - Ragsdale Company store employe, both of Sikeston.

In charge of the program are Chris L. Francis, A. A. Harrison, and Ira L. Taylor.

I can't believe this is happening to me — why do I ever let myself get talked into all these ridiculous situations — when will I ever learn — boy, am I ever stupid!! In one short week the fellas have dragged up the aquarium tank and all the aparatus that goes with it from the basement and gotten started on that kick again; and to top it off, its not bad enough I'm the mother of twelve new fish (two of which are due any day now to fill the tank with an overflow of little ones — why does Lee always manage to buy pregnant fish), I'm also mama to a chameleon who resides on my library table in the sun room. I really am getting right fond of the little fella, though, and when I take him out and love him and scratch his stomach he gets so happy he just turns beautiful colors and stretches his little neck every which way to get rubbed. And, I really don't mind having his home on my table or catching the live flies to feed him; but these repulsive mealworms that are residing in the cheese tray in my ice box are really beginning to get to this ole gal. You see you have to keep them cool or they turn into beetles and thats hard on the digestive system of a lizard, so, the icebox. After all mom, he paid a penny a worm for them and a guy just can't have his savings going up in beetles now can he? I am so happy that fish just eat fish food, and if they would just quit having babies; and if they would just quit having to have their water temperature at 80 degrees so you wouldn't have to go to the store three times in four days for new systems at $5.00 a whack; and if the air pump didn't vibrate so loudly all over the upstairs bedrooms it made it impossible to sleep at night; and if the tank didn't have to be cleaned; and if the big guys would quit eating the little guys, why then I think I wouldn't mind the acquarium either!

Man Rescued 7 Hours After Fall In Cave

GREENFIELD, Mo. (AP) — A 22-year-old Mount Vernon, Mo., man, knocked unconscious in a fall and trapped in a cave nearly seven hours Monday, was treated by a doctor in Mt. Vernon following his rescue and released.

Larry Box, who had entered the cave some 10 miles south of Greenfield with two other Mount Vernon men, reportedly fell about 50 feet down a steep incline.

Steve Brecht, 19, went for help as Jim Turk, 24, who found Box unconscious, revived him by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Authorities said rescue attempts were complicated by an overhanging ledge in the passageway where Box and Turk were trapped.

COOKING-UP with judy gazette

Recipes submitted by three readers this week constitute a nearly complete menu.

If you've mailed food ideas -- holiday items in particular -- and haven't seen them published yet, keep watching this space. Many of the more festive recipes are being saved for holiday issues. Once again, if you are in need of a rule and can't seem to locate it in your files, send a request in care of this column. It will be printed along with your name and address. Chances are someone will be able to find it readily -- in time for turkey season.

Mrs. Willard Sexton, 529 Clayton, sends a good rule for meat loaf with details for tasty sauce.

"FOR THE SAUCE"
3/4 cup tomato catsup
1/3 cup brown sugar
1½ tsp. prepared mustard
2 T. cider vinegar
½ tsp. ground nutmeg

Cook all ingredients together until the mixture begins to boil. Let cool.

FOR THE MEAT LOAF"
2 pounds ground beef
2 eggs
1 cup corn flakes
2 tsp. salt
2 tsp. pepper
2 T. minced parsley
1 small onion, chopped

Add about half of the sauce to the meat loaf. Mix well and shape mixture into loaf. Wrap bacon strips around loaf.

Bake in 350-degree oven about 50 minutes.During last 20 minutes of baking, baste loaf with rest of sauce.

"This loaf when cool slices nicely and is very good for sandwiches," Mrs. Sexton writes.

CHOCOLATE CAKE
2 cups flour
2 cups sugar
2 sticks butter or margarine
4 T. cocoa
1 tsp. vanilla
1 cup water
2 eggs, beaten
½ cup sour cream
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. baking powder

Bring to boil the butter, water and cocoa, stirring to prevent lumps. Cool. Pour this over flour, sugar and salt.

In another bowl, put the eggs, sour cream and vanilla. Stir well and mix with the four and chocolate mixture. Blend well. Pour into well greased sheet cake pan. Bake 20 minutes in 350-degree oven.

Ice while still warm.

ICING
1 box powdered sugar
1 cup chopped nuts (Mrs. Sexton says the nuts are optional)
1 tsp. vanilla
2 T. cocoa
1 stick margarine
6 T. milk

Bring the margarine, cocoa and milk to a boil, stirring to prevent lumps. Remove from heat and add powdered sugar, vanilla and nuts. Mix well and spread on cake while still warm.

"This cake is very good for picnics and will serve a crowd. If any is left over, it keeps very well!"

OLD FASHIONED POTATO SALAD
6 medium sized potatoes, boiled with peelings on 'til tender
3 eggs, cooked to hard boil stage
½ cup salad dressing
3 medium sized sweet pickles
1/3 tsp. salt
1 T. sugar
1/3 tsp. black pepper

Pare potatoes and cube. Remove shells from eggs and cube. Chop pickles and mix first three ingredients in bowl. Add salad dressing.

Salt, sugar and pepper and mix all together.

Last, but not least noteworthy, is a dessert receipe from one of our male counterparts. I have tried a close cousin to these Peanut Butter Fingers and can vouch for the good taste. Kids love them.

PEANUT BUTTER FINGERS
Cream: ½ cup butter
Add: ½ cup sugar and ½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
Cream well.
Blend in: 1 unbeaten egg, 1/3 cup peanut butter, ½ tsp. soda, ¼ tsp. salt., ½ tsp. vanilla.
Add: 1 cup flour and 1 cup quick-cooking oats (uncooked).

Spread in greased 13 x 9-inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes.

Sprinkle with one 6-ounce package of semi-sweet chocolate morsels. Let stand for five minutes. The morsels don't lose their shape, but are soft enough to spread.

Combine ½ cup sifted powdered sugar, ¼ cup peanut butter and two to four tablespoons evaporated milk. Mix well.

Spread chocolate evenly over baked layer. Drizzle with peanute butter mix. Cool and cut into bars.

New Optimism Builds For Treating Multiple Sclerosis

Editors's Note: For years scientists believed multiple sclerosis was always a progressive, wasting disease. The following article, fourth in a five-part series on "The Great Cripplers," reports on new optimism about the disease's course.

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With sociological and geographical selection, multiple sclerosis strikes young adults in the prime of life and often condemns them to a life of tremor, paralysis and physical weakness.

Of the great cripplers-arthritis, cerebral palsy, cerebral stroke, muscular dystrophy-multiple sclerosis appears the most precise in choosing its victims.

MS strikes most often among higher social and economic groups. Persons in temperate latitudes, except in central Asian nations, are more vulnerable to the disease than those in warmer climates.

The most common disease of the nervous system affecting men and women in the prime of life in North American and Northern Europe, multiple sclerosis most often picks its victims from persons between ages 20 and 40.

And for the 250,000 victims in the United States and two million worldwide, there is no known cure, preventive or fully effective treatment for the often crippling disease.

Lately, though, a growing cautious optimism has developed among scientists that something can be done about preventing or controlling MS. The volunteer National Multiple Sclerosis Society says it costs the nation $2 billion annually in medical expenses and wasted human resources.

"There is considerable hope about multiple sclerosis today," says the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Stroke (NINDS). "More and more knowledge is being gathered as investigators dig deeper into its origins and behavior."

"The multiple sclerosis patient today lives longer than was thought possible years ago," NINDS adds. "Many people with mild or even moderately severe cases can live normal lives and work regularly for years."

Some scientists believe that up to 50 per cent of MS cases are not inexorably progressive, totally crippling nor fatal at once thought.

The disease is characterized by spotty degeneration of the fatty sheath of a substance called myelin that normally acts as a protective covering for nerve fibers, much as insulation protects telephone wires.

This multiple scarring, or sclerosing, of the nerve pathways can lead to distortion, sometimes even blockage, of nerve messages from the brain and spinal cord that control such functions as seeing, speaking, walking and balance.

The symptoms of MS can include shaking or tremor, extreme weakness, progresave paralysis. Early warnings signs are slurred speech, tingling sensations and numbness. But the disease in its early stages often is difficult to diagnose.

As the disease progresses, symptoms can wax and wane. Periods of worsening often are followed by symptom-free periods and sometimes a slight, overall improvement.

The new guarded optimism for eventually preventing and controlling MS is based on several promising leads and educated hunches that include:

—Relatively recent recognition that periods of remission from the disease's symptoms may last months or even years, possibly opening the way toward uncovering a means of protective treatment during such periods.

—The geographic distribution of the disease, suggesting that an environmental factor may play a role in the disease.

—Growing suggestive evidence that multiple sclerosis may be a so-called auto-immune disease in which the victim becomes allergic to his own tissue, such as nervous system tissue.

Future Of Business Will Be Discussed

WASHINGTON — College students and business leaders will meet in Washington for three days beginning Wednesday to discuss "Business Tomorrow."

Business is a dirty eight - letter word on many campuses and no wonder. William H. Whyte's The Organization Man portrayed businessmen as bloodless souls who worshipped "the System." Edwin H. Sutherland's White Collar Crime painted them as bandits. Generations of social commentators have sneered at the businessman's adulation of what William James called, that "bitch goddess, Success."

Between Matthew Josephson's The Robber Barons of 1934 and Robert Townsend's Up the Organization in 1970 there is an endless list of books that rake the business image. Not unpredictably, 94 per cent of the students polled by Fortune magazine in 1969 believed that business was too profit - minded and not concerned enough with public welfare.

The attitude may be changing. A year after the Fortune poll, professor James M. Lahiff wrote that in a survey of 28 colleges, "Students, by and large, favor corporate business." Now the Foundation for Student Communication is sponsoring a convention of 200 businessmen of the 1890's: "I owe the and 200 students this month in Washington to discuss the corporation and "its relation to today's changing world." More than 80 big corporations — including American Tel & Tel, Xerox and Zenith — have put up $2,500 apiece to finance the meeting.

"The public be damned," was the attitude of railroad tycoon William H. Vanderbilt in 1882. Times change. In 1971, the view of Gulf Oil President B. R. Dorsey is that "the first responsibility of business is to operate for the well -being of society." Only a suicidal executive would dare echo J. P. Morgan's sentiment public nothing."

Some historians feel the business image was blemished beyond rehabilitation in the Great Depression. Others see the distrust of corporations beginning at the turn of the century -- the muckraking era of Lincoln Steffens and Ida Tarbell. Things had obviously gone too far by 1913 when then Theordore Roosevelt demanded that "big business give the people a square deal."

Causes of the current crop of student disillusionment over business are all about us. Pollution, poverty, racial tension and all the evils of urbanized society have been laid -- sometimes unfairly -- at the door of big business. Business has been forced to respond, especially since Ralph Nader raised consumer advocacy to an art form. According to one observer, "executives throughout the country are busily, and noisily, initiating programs aimed at appeasing complaints and demands of American buyers."

Ralph Nader, in fact, will be a principal speaker at the student - businessman meeting. The moguls had better look out. Richard Armstrong wrote recently that Nader "is not primarily interested in protecting consumers. The passion that rules in him ... is aimed at smashing utterly the target of his hatred, which is corporate power."

Nader and others deeply distrust the business community's newly found social conscience. Author David Finn believes the corporation is now intent on saving American society but only "lest the corporation itself be destroyed in the process." In Washington, the students will argue whether corporate conscience is the voice of the future or an artful piece of flim - flam.

USDA Thinks Plants Can Replace Whale Sperm Oil

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has come up with a whale of an idea to help replace sperm oil and it's not as fishy as it sounds.

New conservation regulations, aimed at protecting the world's dwindling whale herds, will bar imports of sperm oil after Dec. 1. The oil is highly favored in the manufacture of a number of industrial products, including transmission fluids and specialty lubricants.

But USDA scientists think several exotic-sounding plants have potential as alternate oil sources. They are jojoba, meadowfoam and crambe.

Jojoba is a shrub native to Arizona, California and Mexico and produces nuts with liquid waxes similar to sperm oil. Unfortunately, the USDA says, it takes five years for plants to start producing seed.

Meadowfoam is native to the Pacific coast but snows promise of being widely adapted. Test plantings have proved encouraging in Alaska, California, Maryland and Oregon.

Crambe has similar report said.

Production of drambe would require another already is in gear, with two varieties being grown commercially in California, Illinois, Indiana, Louisiana, Montana, Nebraska, Oregon, Texas and Washington. the report said.

"With the headstart it has, crambe could probably be filling the sperm oil void within another two years," the American colonists brought hourglasses with them from England, and colonial minsters timed their sermons with them.

Fire Damages Arbyrd House

ARBYRD — A fire swept through the home of Mrs. Jessie Murel Crum, Saturday night and gutted the four - room house. Firemen from Arbyrd were called to the home at 8:45 p.m. to extinguish the blaze but were called back at 12:30 a.m. when the fire broke out again.

Mrs. Crum and her son, Johnny, were out of town when the fire broke out. The fire reportedly started in some wiring. Mrs. Crum is an employe of the Dunklin County Memorial hospital.

Vocational Schools Visited

HOWARDVILLE — New Madrid County R-1 school district was represented in an all-day field trip to visit vocational programs in Selmer and Memphis, Tuesday.

Those participating were Dr. George S. Reuter, Jr., Superintendent; Max Timmons, Sam J. Bodine, James B. Lovett, Bill Nance, Joe L. Scott, Lester M. King, H. B. Mitchell, Harold A. Dial and J. Robert Blades.

Rocks Given To Survey

ROLLA — An impressive collection of 56 examples of Precambrian igneous rocks from Missouri was donated to the Missouri Geological Survey by Richard E. Wagner, Flat River, and Rosser C. Brophy, River Mines. This display is interesting because of the iron and copper deposits discovered in Missouri's Precambrian rocks.

The collection has samples that range from mottled black and white Knoblick granite from near Knob Lick to a colorful specimen of lapilli tuff found at Redmondville. All of the state's Precambrian rock types are represented. The polished rock samples are cut into 2-inch x 3-inch blocks and are mounted on an attractive light gray background set in a brown frame. The entire collection is to be displayed at the Survey headquarters in Rolla, Mo.

Geologic interest in Precambrian igneous rocks has increased manyfold nationwide during the past several years. Missouri is fortunate in that these rocks are exposed at the surface in the St. Francois Mountain and Eminence areas are readily accessible for investigation.

Approximately 2,000 people take advantage of conducted tours of Survey facilities each year. The new display will be of particular interest to school children, rock hounds, earth science enthusiasts, and geologists.

Gains Claimed In War On Heroin Among GIs

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. Command apparently is winning its war against heroin addiction among GIs in Vietnam, says President Nixon's chief of drug abuse prevention.

Dr. Jerome Jaffe, speaking to a symposium at Stanford University Monday night on the future of drug abuse, said 103,000 U.S. personnel have undergone urine tests for evidence of heroin before being allowed to leave Vietnam for return to the United States.

Of these, 3.7 per cent have been found to have used heroin in the three days preceding their test, he said.

"The rate seems to be constantly falling," indicating that the program begun about three months ago is succeeding, Jaffe said.

Men who show positive test results are sent to treatment centers to undergo heroin withdrawal before being allowed to leave for the United States.

"The mere idea of quarantine seems to have an effect without other disciplinary action being necessary," Jaffe said.

Jaffe said that when he reported July 16 to President Nixon on heroin addiction levels in Vietnam 22,000 GIs had been tested with about 4.5 per cent positive.

Environment Specialist To Serve Bootheel

BENTON — The Phelps County Extension Council executive committee approved the addition of Bill Young as area environmental quality specialist for the Meramec Area and geographic counties including the Bootheel of Mississippi, New Madrid, Dunklin, Pemiscot, Scott and Stoddard counties.

Young became the first environmental quality specialist for the state in April of 1969. He spent four months in training and developing content materials for this program. Until Sept. 14 he was assigned to work in West Central Missouri in 15 counties headquartered at Sedalia.

Young has a Bachelor of Science degree in political science from Drury College in Springfield, and a master of education administration from the University of Missouri at Columbia. His previous work experience was as a youth agent in Bollinger, Madison, and Wayne counties from 1966 to 1969.

He is available for educational work in environmental quality for the area. To receive his services contact the Delta Center, University of Missouri, Portageville, Area Code 314 - 379-5431 through Tom B. Stroup, acting area director, or Glenn Patton, area director, after Dec. 25.

Young and his wife, Shiela, live in Rolla.

Damage Suit Against Son, Administrator

BENTON — Mrs. Ima Satterfield of Cairo, has filed a personal injury and damage suit for $250,000 against her son, Robert Donald Satterfield, also of Cairo, and Hodge Decker, of Sikeston, administrator in the estate of George Wells.

Mrs. Satterfield's suit was filed in the office of Scott county circuit clerk Lynn F. Ingram.

Mrs. Satterfield's attorney said under a non - resident motorist statute for Missouri, it is possible to file a lawsuit in any county in the state providing the defendant is a non - resident of Missouri.

The suit states Mrs. Satterfield was a passenger in her son's automobile on Nov. 11, 1970, when involved in an accident that resulted in permanent disability and loss of all earning power.

Mr. Satterfield's car and one driven by Wells collided one mile north of route H in Pemiscot county. Both were reported traveling at over 70 miles per hour and both were reported to be on the wrong sides of the highway.

Wells died as a result of the injuries sustained in the crash.

Mrs. Satterfield states that because of the accident she has suffered severe and permanent injuries.

Paterson Business School Dean

ROLLA -- Robert W. Paterson, who has been serving as acting dean since March, became dean of the School of Business and Public Administration on the University of Missouri -Columbia Campus.

His appointment was approved Oct. 15 by the Board of Curators of the University of Missouri in a regular meeting here. He also retains his title as professor of economics and Faculty Research Professor of the B&PA Research Center.

A member of the UMC faculty since July 1, 1959, Dr. Paterson is well -known for his annual economic forecasts of United States business conditions and his contributions to the formation of the School of Business and Public Administration's Research Center, an organization of faculty from seven social science disciplines.

Dr. Paterson's business forecasts are widely used by American business firms and have been condensed by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, Va., in its compendium of major forecasts since 1954.

A native of Columbus, Ohio, he earned his Ph.D. degree in economics at the University of Virginia. He also taught at Virginia and the University of South Carolina, where he organized the first business and economic research unit, from 1953 until he came to Missouri.

In recent years Dr. Paterson has served as a tax study, economic, and management consultant to private and governmental agencies. In this capacity he served three state governments, agencies of the federal government, and five major national business concerns.

Dr. Paterson is a past - president of the National Association of University business and Economic Research. He is serving a third three - year term as a member of the National Academy of Sciences, Highway Research Board, Committee on Socio - Economic Aspects of Highways.

Dr. Paterson served as a foreign service officer in the U.S. Department of State from 1945 through 1949. In that capacity he was an economic and political analyst at U. S. embassies in Brazil and Cuba, and was officer -in -charge of U.S. consulates in Vitoria Brazil, and the Embassy in Barbados, British West Indies. Prior to this service, he worked with firms in the manufacturing and construction industries.

As a representative of the U. S. Department of State and during his academic career, Dr. Paterson has lectured, given papers, and been a discussant at conferences in South America, Europe, and Africa, as well as in the United States.

Dr. Paterson is author of articles, monographs, and books and is a member of academic and trade associations in the fields of economics and business. Among published studies are "Forecasting Techniques" and "The Rise of Disorganization in Metropolitan Communities." He is currently engaged in a study of "Congressional Response to U. S. Business Cycles."

Three generations of Dr. Paterson's family have been intimately involved in education. His grandfather, Robert Paterson, was the first superintendent of the Ohio School for Deaf. His mother, Alma Wacker Paterson, was the first woman trustee of the Ohio State University; his father, Robert G. Paterson, a public health executive, was a co-founder of the School of Social Administration at Ohio State. His sister, Ann, is a professor at San Francisco State. His father -in -law, William Neff, is a former president of the Virginia State Board of Education.

Dr. Paterson is married to Gene Neff, formerly of Virginia and they have two daughters, Ann (21) a senior at the University of New Mexico, and Ellen (18), a freshman at the University of Missouri - Columbia.

Dr. Paterson replaces Pinkney Walker who was dean of the B&PA School for six and one-half years. Walker was appointed recently to the Federal Power Commission in Washington, D.C.

Easing Of Medical Shortage Expected

By Editorial Research Reports

WASHINGTON -- The 82nd annual meeting of the Association of American Medical Colleges will be held in Washington Oct. 28 - Nov. 1.

An easing of the doctor shortage in the United States is expected within a few years, despite the continuing crisis in medical education. According to the association, the national goal of 50,000 more doctors by the end of the 1970s is likely to be met several years before the decade is out. there are now approximately 280,000 active physicians giving patient care on a regular and full -time basis in the nation. This represents a ratio of roughly one for every 700 inhabitants.

One sign of the expansionist trend is the opening this fall of five new medical schools: Rush Medical College in Chicago, the Missouri School of medicine in Kansas City, and medical units at the University of Southern Florida in Tampa, the University of Nevada in Reno, and at Stony Brook, Long Island.

In addition, older medical schools are expanding their intake. A preliminary count shows first admissions in the fall of 1971 at 12,150. This is 800 more than were accepted for medical training in the fall of 1970. At this rate the goal of graduating at least 10,000 fledgling doctors each year is well within reach by the mid-1970s.

This is not to say that the medical school crisis is over. Many of them are in such financial strats that they are living hand -to -mouth. Some are dipping into rapidly shrinking and irreplaceable endowment funds. Johns Hopkins, one of the nation's most renowned medical schools, was recently compelled to appeal to the Maryland legislature for $800,000 so it could pay its current bills. But this is what institutional budgeteers call "soft money" -- money that can not be counted on as a steady source of income.

"Some 61 of the nation's 108 medical schools are involved in a disaster derby," Dr. John A. D. Cooper, president of the Association of American Medical colleges, told Editorial Research Reports. "They have been forced to apply for emergency loans from the federal government because of their financial situation." One-half of these schools were said to be on the brink of bankruptcy.

That optimism can flower amid such tales of woe is due largely to the prospect that government financing will become a regular and continuing source of medical school support. Medical schools got their first taste of federal aid in the post-World War II decade when they received sizeable sums for research.

Government funding to help pay the cost of training future medical practitioners is a relatively new development, dating mainly from enactment of the Health Professions Educational Assistance Act of 1963. Thought the aid provided under this legislation was for a limited time, Congress is in the process of extending the measure. the new act will authorize $2.9 billion over the next three years for various forms of aid to medical schools and medicalstudents, with emphasis on encouraging the expansion of enrollments and the founding of additional medical schools.

Extension of the program gives leaders in medical education hope that it represents more than mere stop- gap aid. More significantly, it may represent a big step toward their major goal: acceptance of the basic principle that the nation can not attain the level of health care now demanded by the American people unless government -- state and federal -- takes on responsibility for supporting education of medical personnel.

Prospects Good For Mushrooms

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Agriculture Department says the new mushroom season getting under way this fall is expected to continue the fast pace set last year.

In Pennsylvania, the leading producer, growers in the Kennett Square area have built additional facilities and expect to boost production at least seven per cent, officials say.

During the marketing year ended last June 30, the nation's output was 207 million pounds, with Pennsylvania producing 60 per cent. Total production compared with 194 million pounds nationally a year earlier.

Last season's crop was worth nearly $90 million to growers, up sharply from $73 million in 1969-70 because of greater demand and higher prices.

The Republic of the Philippines is the only Christian nation in Asia.

VA Medical District 24 Regionalized

POPLAR BLUFF -- The Administrator of Veterans Affairs, Donald E. Johnson, announced the regionalization of VA medical district 24 comprising the VA Hospitals at Little Rock -North Little Rock, Ark.; Fayetteville, Ark.; Memphis, and Poplar Bluff.

William W. Leak, hospital director of the VA Hospital, Poplar Bluff, Missouri, which will be a part of the newly formed Hospital District, states that the objectives of the regionalization of this Medical District are to improve the quality and accessibility of medical care to veterans in the geographical areas served by the District.

It is anticipated that regionalization will encourage more complete joint use of training facilities, consultants, specialized equipment and will enhance the recruitment capabilities now available to the four hospitals in this district.

Under the regionalization plan no VA Hospital in the District will lose any of its present capabilities and in fact, should have the opportunity to provide additional service. Each VA Hospital in the District is to assume a role which will enhance its strengths without loss of status. No hospital in the newly formed District will be placed in a secondary role.

The medical district concept provides that the District is a health care system and patients are to be admitted, transferred and discharged from the Region as a system. They may be admitted to any hospital in the District and through the medium of transfer, if necessary, will be cared for in the hospital which is best able to treat their particular medical problems.

The district concept will be administered by a Board of Directors made up of the Hospital Directors of the four hospitals involved in the District. Chairmanship of the board will be rotated. The Hospital Director of the VA Hospital in Little Rock is serving as Chairman of the Board during its original phase. The Hospital Directors of the four VA Hospitals in the Medical District will provide information to service organizations and interested health care representatiives in their communities as the regionalization process develops.

Jackson County Juvenile Court Uses Computer

KANSAS CITY — A pioneering, computer -based information system is helping Jackson county juvenile court break the paperwork logjam which clogs many of the nation's courts.

"Already the computing system has given us, for the first time, real management control over the flow of events in Juvenile Court," James Walsh, director of juvenile services, explained. "Soon it will process all data connected with a case, from the time a youngster is referred to us to the time he is released.

"This means we can provide him both due process of law and proper, adequate treatment in a quicker, more profesional manner."

Mr. Walsh said the program clears the way for such improvements in the juvenile justice system by using IBM visual display stations to maintain accurate, current and convenient records on an average of 350 cases per month. From these records, the Court can generate regular reports encompassing every phase of every case.

"Although we have yet to document the benefits, we know that we no longer lose or mishandle data, that we process referrals faster and that we can research any file in seconds," he said. "Time which used to be spent looking for information can now be spent planning and managing our workload more efficiently than ever."

POLICE LINK

The Court initiated the system early this year when it connected the four TV-like terminals to the Kansas City Police Department's IBM System/360 Model 40 computer.

Mr. Walsh, who also is president of the National Association of Juvenile Court Service Administrators, said such close cooperation with the police department was unique among juvenile justice programs and "provided the link which gave us one of the few, and the most advanced, such systems in the nation."

Minimum age for membership in the U.S. Senate is 30 years.

Test Car Lighting Before Inspection

JEFFERSON CITY — Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, today reported lighting equipment as one of the major reasons for passenger vehicles being rejected at inspection stations.

"An average of 28 per cent of passenger vehicles which failed to pass the motor vehicle inspection during the first seven months of this year were rejected because of defective lighting equipment," Hockaday noted. "At some point in the inspection of the lighting equipment, the inspector found inoperative headlights, non - functioning taillights, and defective stop lights or signal lights. Since from the standpoint of safety, adequate and properly functioning lighting equipment are so very important, car owners should always make it a point to keep such equipment in proper operating condition."

The superintendent said it is easy for a car owner to detect defects in his vehicle's lighting equipment. For example, just a walk around the vehicle by the owner after the lights have been switched on will tell him if any lights are inoperative. A member of the family or a friend can verify if the stop and directional lights are operating properly.

"Proper functioning headlights are an absolute necessity for driving at night and under conditions of poor visibility," Hockaday continued. "You must be able to see and be seen in order to avoid danger. It is also important that all stop lights and signal lights are operating properly so that others will know of a decrease in speed or recognize an intention to change direction. I urge car owners, therefore, to be alert for defective lighting equipment and to have any defects corrected before they are required to do so under the vehicle inspection program."

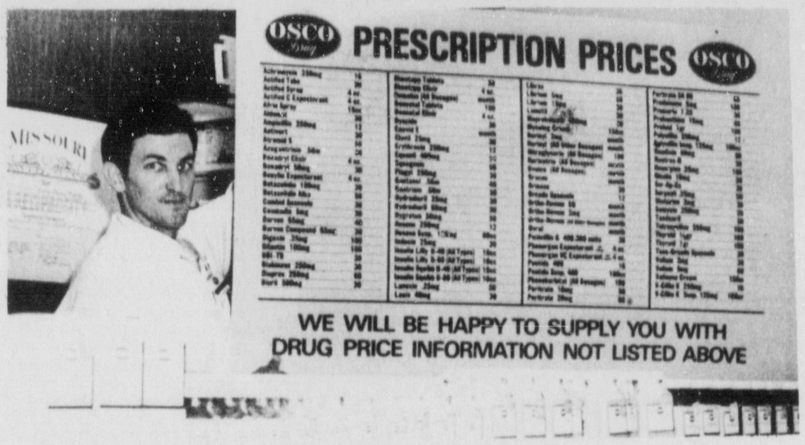
JACK ANDERSON SAYS: U.S. Fumbles Administration Of 2,000 Pacific Islands; Islanders Unhappy; Many Would Rather Japan Rule Again; Americans, Not Natives, Enriched By Spending Millions



A DRUG CHART of prescription prices on the 100 most commonly used drugs went on display today as part of a policy change at Osco Drug, at Kingsway Plaza Mall. Gary Howard, an employe, holds the chart.

Posting Of Drug Prices Brings Wide Controversy

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The head of the Iowa Board of Pharmacy Examiners, Paul Crews, says his department is "definitely going to get involved" in a plan by a nationwide drug store company to post prescription prices on store counters.

The Chicago-based Osco Drugs, Inc., has ordered the prices of 100 best-selling drugs posted Monday in all 176 Osco stores in 16 states—including Iowa. Richard G. Cline, president of the firm, said the move was to aid the consumer in getting the best prescription deal.

Cline released a letter Tuesday that he said he received from the Justice Department commending his company's plan.

Roland Sorum, store manager of Osco Drug in Sikeston, Mo., said many people have difficulty obtaining prescription price information.

"I definitely think it will be a great thing for the customer to see what the prescription will cost," Sorum said, "and this has been a long time mystery for the customer."

He said the store will display price lists today of the 100 most frequently prescribed drugs in the pharmacy and the 100 items represents approximately 40 per cent of the total prescription drug volume.

"The whole idea is for the customer to know the cost of the prescription," Sorum commented. "It is not a price war or anything like that."

He said the main objection to the posting of prices comes from the pharmaceutical association.

"I personally feel it (the objection) is purely economic," he said.

He added that the reason all the prices for nearly 4,000 drugs are not posted "is simply a matter of space" but said the store would be glad to give price information on any drug price not posted.

Pharmacy control officials in several states have been investigating the project.

The letter was signed by Richard W. McLaren, an assistant to the U.S. Attorney General in the antitrust division.

McLaren wrote, "We are pleased to learn of the initiation of a program with the apparent potential to effectively provide much-needed price information in this area."

In a postscript, McLaren noted, "We should point out that in at least two states, restrictions on drug advertising have been invalidated by state courts."

Spokesmen for pharmacy boards in Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, South Dakota and North Dakota said regulations in their states prohibit such advertising and that action is planned against the company. In Arkansas and Minnesota, spokesmen said investigations are planned.

Originally For Asst. Fire Chief

Federal Funds Given City

But City Has Asst. Fire Chief | Now Wants Police Detective

BY MIKE JENSEN

The city may be on the verge of hiring a police detective investigator apparently as a result of protest against the police force. The possibility of obtaining the detective is confused.

Hiring of a detective apparently would involve a request for a rechanneling of federal funds originally sought for an assistant fire chief.

The confusion began in mid-September when city manager Raymert Miller applied for and received preliminary approval of $8,000 in federal money for the hiring of an assistant fire chief.

Miller had submitted nearly 20 different requests to the Regional Planning Commission asking for part of the $160,000 in federal money made available under the emergency employment act.

The preliminary approval apparently backfired - leaving Miller in an embarassing position.

Miller said the assistant fire chief was "probably the worst choice and least needed" of the positons submitted for consideration.

The Federal money granted to Sikeston was made available under the emergency employment act, which offered nearly $650 million nationally to finance the hiring of needed personnel for cities and counties.

The program would finance 90 percent of the salaries for the new personnel for one year and the cities would be obligated to continue the program after the federal money was exhausted.

With the strong possibility of receiving final approval for an assistant fire chief, Miller apparently was in doubt as to his next move. The city was nearly certain of final approval of $8,000 for the assistant chief, but at such a high salary, the assistant would be making considerabley more than the fire chief, and also, the city already has an assistant chief.

If an assistant fire chief were hired at the $8,000 salary, he would be among the highest paid city employes, including the city manager, police chief, city collector and clerk.

Fire Chief Dolph Webb's salary is $4,850 plus housing and utilities and his assistant, Sam Melton, earns $3,870 plus housing and utilities.

Webb said yesterday he had never received official notice that the city was considering hiring an assistant chief. He said the first time he had heard money was available for an assistant was from a newspaper reporter. Soon after reading the newspaper account of the federal funding notification, Webb went to the city administrative building where Miller reportedly told him to "pay no attention to the story."

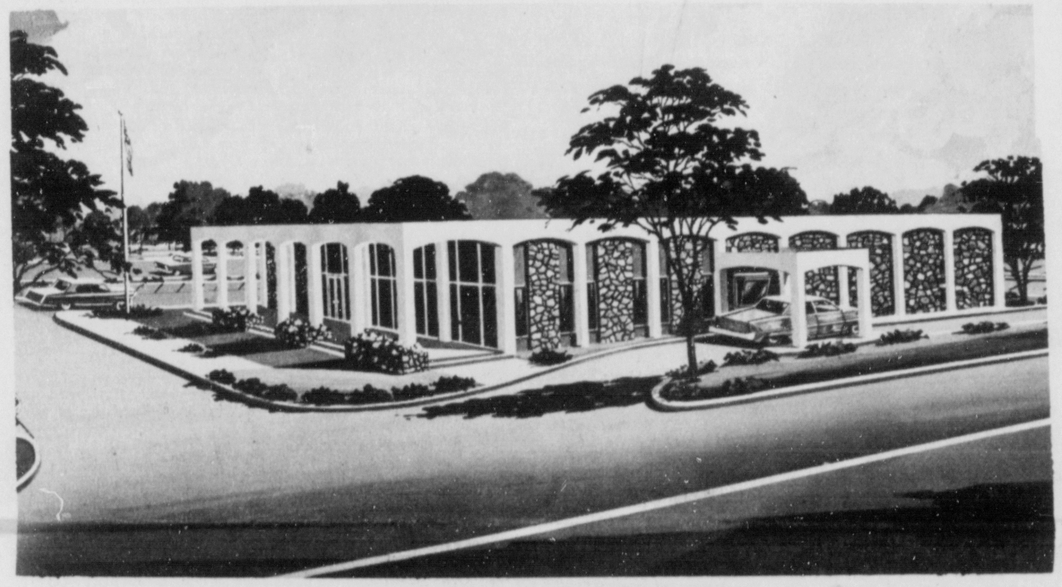
"I could use two or three firemen," Webb said, "But $8,000 a year would be way out of line with our salaries. I don't even make that much money."

Miller said Monday the city had not received final approval for the funding but Phillips Shelton, director of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, said Monday night that the final approval had been received and the cities and counties could begin hiring their new personnel immediately.

Officials in Jefferson City confirmed Shelton's statement and said final approval was "merely a formality, once the cities have sent in their contracts."

Miller's choice to modify the city's earlier request from an assistant fire chief to a detective was apparently for two reasons. First, the city could not possibly hire an assistant fire chief at substantially more money than the fire chief or other personnel within he fire department, and a protest of problems within the police department have apparently brought pressure on Miller to strengthen the department. The city manager is investigating charges of a lack of leadership and lack of law enforcement against Chief of Police Authur Bruce.

Miller would not say whether the choice of the detective would come from the existing force or whether someone outside of the force would be considered. Miller again declined to comment on his investigation into the department."



AN ARCHITECT'S DRAWING of the new Security Federal Savings and Loan Association building under construction at 820 North Main.

New Loan Office Here

Brown Construction Company of Dexter was awarded the building contract for construction of a new Security Federal Savings and Loan Association building at 820 North Main, James Beaird, executive vice president of Security Federal, announced today.

The new building has been in the planning stages one year, Beaird said, and according to Architects Patrick Donnellen and Harold Porterfield of Poplar Bluff, construction should be completed in 11 months.

"The construction people may begin site preparation today," Beaird said.

Having more than 13,000 square feet of total employe customers area, the building will have four private offices, board room, kitchen, lounge and a wide expanse of secretary and teller space on the main floor. The finished basement will have a large community room and a smaller meeting room as well as a larger kitchen for group functions.

Security Federal employes 15 and has the three branch offices at Dexter, Malden and New Madrid. The home office is at 124 East Center.

Beaird said the staff may be increased after the new facility is completed.

Hill Bound On Robbery Charge

Lim Hill, 22, of Sikeston was ordered bound over to circuit court Tuesday, following a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Judge Lloyd "Jerry" Briggs on a charge of armed robbery.

Hill is charged with the Aug. 28 armed robbery of four Morehouse men in Sunset Addition. Larry James Johnson, charged with Hill, was convicted on two counts of assault last week and sentenced to one year in the county jail.

Odis Norris, a third man accused in the case, was arrested soon after the alleged assault, but was released by police.

He failed to appear in court last week and remains unapprehended.

Bennie Newton, 23, of Morehouse was the first witness called by prosecutor Tom Gilmore Tuesday. Newton said he, with Charles Wilson, 25 of Morehouse, went to the Sunset Community Club in the early morning hours of Aug. 28 where they could purchase beer after hours.

Newton said he and Wilson drank several beers at the Community Club and walked across the street to the Bugaloo Club where they also drank beer. They returned to the Community club where Wilson entered a dice game with several of the blacks in the club, he said, including at least one of the accused. Wilson and Newton are white.

Newton said a dispute erupted among participants in the dice game and Wilson reportedly was struck in the face by one of the blacks. The dice game ended and Newton and Wilson left the club to return to their car.

Once outside the club, Newton testified the blacks involved in the dice game dispute ordered Wilson and Newton to halt and demanded their money. Wilson agreed, and gave an undisclosed amount of money to the blacks and began to resume his walk to the automobile.

The blacks began to follow the two and when the Morehouse men began to run to their car, Newton said, the blacks caught them and Hill allegedly pulled a knife, placed it to Newton's throat and ordered him from his car.

Wilson and Newton got from their car and the blacks took their watches, billfolds, and a carton of cigarettes from the glove compartment of the car, Newton said. The blacks also took Newton's automobile ignition keys and opened his trunk. A tool box was taken from the trunk.

The blacks then assaulted the men and fled, Newton testified.

Wilson confirmed Newton's testimony and said he had identified Hill, Johnson and Norris from police mug shots.

Donald Stroud and Garrell Lee, both of Morehouse, were then called by Gilmore. The two had been outside of the Community Club when Wilson and Newton had first been stopped by the group of blacks.

When Wilson and Newton fled from the blacks, Lee and Stroud gave chase in an attempt to give assistance, but also were assaulted by the blacks, the two charged. Stroud was struck in the face and Lee said a knife was put into his back by an unidentified black.

The four men reported the incident to police and Newton required medical attention for a cut to his throat apparently by the knife, which Hill allegedly held.

Defense attorney James Green asked for a dismissal of Hill's charges, but Briggs refused and ordered Hill bound over for an Oct. 28 appearance date.

Hill's bond was first set at $25,000 but later reduced to $15,000.

Briggs said the bond was set at a large amount because Hill "has a tendency to depart without leave." Hill walked away from the police station two weeks ago, but was later recaptured by Deputy Sheriff Gerald Inman.

The armed robbery took place one week before another dice game incident claimed the life of 22- year- old Ken Ellison of Sikeston. Ellison had been a participant in a dice game when he was shot in the chest.

Police have charged James Herrington with murder but he has not been apprehended.

Tavern Keeper

Accident Fatal

CHARLESTON — A ruling of accidental death was returned Tuesday afternoon by a coroner's jury at the inquest into the shooting death of Theodore Rogers, 51, of route three, Charleston.

Rogers was killed Monday afternoon in Brewer's Lake Taver. He was part owner and operator.

Mississippi County Coroner Elgin McMikle said Rogers died instantly when a single shot from a 12 gauge pump shotgun struck him in the left side of the chest.

Dennis "Butch" Burgess, of Charleston, who was loading the gun when it dischrged, identified the gun as belonging to Rogers and testified he and Billy Ray Nolen had been outside the tavern target shooting to see who would buy the next round of beer. They had gone back inside to buy more targets cards and two shells.

Burgess demonstrated how he was loading the gun and said:

"I did not intend to shoot him."

Witnesses, who were present at the tavern and testified at the inquest, included Barbara Stone of Wyatt, part owner of the tavern, Nolen, and Marilyn Easter of East Prairie.

Also testifying were Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons and Wyatt City Marshal John Pearson.

Members of the coroner's jury were Bill Owens, Fred Bevil, Herbert Borwn, Marvin Baker, Oscar Tiby, and Don Daughhetee Jr.

Services for Rogers were at 2 p.m. today in McMikle Funeral Home chapel with the Rev. Rodney DeGroot, pastor of the First Christian church, officiating.

Burial was in Oak Grove cemetery.

He was born Jan. 14, 1920 and had no known survivors.

Juvenile Arrested

A 15-year-old juvenile boy has been charged with the July 15 burglary of the Shae Keuhle home at 405 Clayton. Sheriff John Dennis said the juvenile was arrested Tuesday and turned over to juvenile authorities.

The Keuhle home was entered in July and a clock radio, camera and other small items taken. Keuhle's car, parked in a drive of his home, was entered twice during July and a stereo tape player and two stereo speakers were removed. The stereo tape player, valued at $120 was recovered.

Dennis said three and possibly four more youths were involved in the thefts.

The juvenile boy was arrested when he sold a stereo tape player for $15.

Charleston Community Award

JEFFERSON CITY — Charleston won $700 first place award at the Community Betterment banquet Tuesday night. The city placed first in its population category of 5,000 to 10,000.

Other communities in the Sikeston area winning cash prizes were East Prairie, Malden, and Caruthersville.

In the over 10,000 population category no cash prizes were given but Cape Girardeau was one of five communities receiving a plaque. Charleston was one of six communities to be awarded a youth plaque.

Mrs. Olivia Lee, mayor of Morley, and wife of J. R. Lee and Dr. Lowell Nicholas of Charleston, were two of 10 individuals receiving the governor's leadership award. Mrs. Lee is office manager of the Sikeston Daily Standard.

Others receiving the award were Mrs. Roland Epperson, Sumner; Mrs. Dougan Jones, Lee's Summit; Miss Judy Plunkett, Monroe City; Mrs. Joe Phillips, Hughesville; Robert W. Segi, Golden City; Larry Webb, Drexel; Fred Wilmot, Nevada; and Mrs. Earl Zieler, Osceola.

East Prairie won second place in the 2,500 to 5,000 population category. Malden won second place in the 5,000 to 10,000 category and Caruthersville was third in that group.

Four other communities besides Charleston won $700 first place awards for their population categories. Sumner, under 500 class; Birch Tree, 500 to 1,000 class; Cabool, 1,000 to 2,500 class; and Mountain Grove, 2,500 to 5,000 class.

The small Chariton County community of Sumner flew off with top honors.

It is located at the edge of Swan Lake waterfowl refuge and calls itself the Canada Goose Capital of the World.

Olivia Lee

Three cities — Jackson, Lee's Summit and Monett — were given five -star recognition for having completed standards in education, transportation, utilities, community services and community planning. That brings the number of five -star communities to 21.

Other communities awarded cash prizes of $600 for second place to $100 for fifth place were:

under 500 - Hughesville second, Maitland third, Summersville fourth, Lock Springs, fifth.

500 - 1,000 — Fairfax second, Bourbon, third, Drexel fourth and Osceola fifth.

1,000-2,500 — Albany second, Glasgow third, Brunswick fourth and Monroe City fifth.

2,500-5,000 — Marshfield third, Bethany fourth, Harrisonville fifth.

5,000 -10,000 — Perryville fourth, Webb City fifth.

Other communities awarded plaques were Carthage first, Florissant second, Lee's Summit third, and Mexico fifth

Other communities receiving youth plaques were:

Under 500 Graham, 500-1,000; Lowry City, 1,000 -2,500 Albany, 2,500-5,000 Mountain Grove, over 10,000 Florissant.

The Beckoning Trails tree planting program is administered by the state conservation department. Communities receiving this year's awards were Eldon, Fulton, Glasgow, Shelbina, Steelville and Viburnum.

Bently Mackey of Mountain Grove received the Governor's Youth Leadership award and the city of Springfield received the Governor's Merit award.

Recipient of the 1971 special leadership award was Glenn Smith of Mountain View. The state's first recipient of the title of MCB Ambassador went to Mrs. Viola Blechle of Perryville.

Commission Talks Of Doctor Shortage

A shortage of doctors in the city was the topic of planning and zoning commission discussions last night as Commission Member Chuck Grant proposed the commission initiate plans to increase the number of doctors.

Grant said the doctors in the city are performing excellently but added "We just can't get enough doctors." "it's not a matter of replacing the doctors who retire, we need more."

The commission said the waiting period to see a doctor was too long and said it was often faster to drive to Memphis to see a doctor than it was to get an appointment in Sikeston.

Grant pointed out that new arrivals in the city often find it difficult to get a doctor's appointment and once they arrive at the doctors office they were required to wait for hours before receiving attention.

The commissioners said they would investigate the shortage before making any recommendations to the city, but added that the Chamber of Commerce possibly will be consulted for their assistance in beginning a campaign to bring doctors to the city.

There are 21 medical doctors in Sikeston and commissioners last night said at least four are expected to retire soon.

DOES MOM HEAR
MY HEART?

The following article was issued recently by Poland's fighting Cardinal Stefan Wyszynski when the Communist government in Poland tried to force the Church there to give up its opposition to abortion. He is one of the few churchmen who has fought the Reds all the way, yet is still free. The story was used by pastors throughout Poland, defying Communist opposition.

October 5: Today my life began. My parents do not know it yet. I am as small as a seed of an apple, but it is I already. And I am to be a girl. I shall have blond hair and azure eyes. Just about everything is settled though. Even the fact that I shall love flowers.

October 19: I have grown a little, but I am still too small to do anything by myself. My mother does just about everything for me. And what is odd — she still doesn't even know that she is carrying me here under her heart, and that she is helping me already, that she is even feeding me with her own blood. She is so good.

Some say that I am not a real person yet, that only my mother exists. But I am a real person, just as a small crumb of bread is yet truly bread. My mother is. And I am.

October 23: My mouth is just beginning to open now. Just think in a year or so I shall be laughing, and later talking. I know that my first word shall be — mama.

October 25: My heart began to beat today all by itself. Without ever stopping to rest. And after many years it will tire. It will stop, and then I shall die.

November 2: I am growing a bit every day. My arms and legs are beginning to take shape. But I have to wait a long time yet before those little legs will raise me to my mother's arms, before those little arms will be able to gather flowers and embrace my father.

November 12: Tiny fingers are beginning to form on my hands. Funny how small they are! I shall be able to stroke my mother's hair with them. And I shall take her hair to my mouth and she will probably say: "Oh, nasty!"

November 20: It wasn't until today that the doctor told mom that I am living here under her heart. Oh, how happy she must be! Are you happy, mom?

November 25: My mom and dad are probably thinking about a name for me. But they don't even know that I am a little girl. They are probably saying Andy. But I wanted to be called Cathy. I am getting so big already.

December 10: My hair is growing. It is smooth and bright and shiny. I wonder what kind of hair mom has?

December 13: I am just about able to see. It is dark around me. When mom brings me into the world, it will be full of sunshine and flowers. I have never seen a flower, you know. But what I want more than anything else is to see my mom. How do you look, mom?

December 24: I wonder if mom hears the whispering beat of my heart? Some children come into the world a little sick. And then the delicate hands of the doctor perform miracles to bring them to health. But my heart is strong and healthy. It beats so evenly - tup-tup, tup-tup ... You'll have a healthy little daughter, mom!

December 28: Today my mother killed me.

We noticed in the paper where Manual Drumm, the efficient City Attorney for many years, has handed in his resignation to the City Manager. We believe that the citizens of Sikeston owe Manuel a debt that will be impossible to pay. He has worked right along with Raymert Miller and saved the City many dollars. I don't always agree with him and neither does he always agree with me, but that's one of the things that this country is made up of. We don't expect people to agree with us. We think that it would be a hell of a country if everybody had the same ideas and thoughts and did things the way we do or the way we would like for them to do. But we will say this much, we believe that Manuel's successor, Kenny Dement, will be very efficient, but we still think that many times in the future we will wish old Manuel was back there doing sometimes what we think was wrong, but most times doing what we thought was right.

CANADA'S MOODY
PROVINCES

This is not a good time for the establishment in Canada. In the past two and one-half years, the voters have dumped six incumbent provincial governments. In Alberta last August the Progressive Conservatives ousted a Social Credit government that had been in power since the Great Depression -- 38 years. Two months before that, a socialist New Democratic Party deposed the Liberal government in Saskatchewan. A year ago, in October 1970, the Conservatives defeated the Liberal government in New Brunswick while the Liberals defeated the Conservative government in Nova Scotia. And in April 1970, the Liberals defeated the incumbent Union Nationale in Quebec.

Now an election has been called for Thursday, Oct. 21, in Ontario, the wealthiest and most populous (7.8 million) province. The Conservatives have been in power for 28 years and that may be their greatest liability, given Canada's wish to throw out the old and welcome in the new. The Conservatives have a brand new leader, however, in Premier William Davis, a 42-year-old lawyer who took over when John Robarts retired last March. He is opposed by Liberal leader Robert Nixon, 43, a farmer, and Stephen Lewis, 33, a former teacher who leads the New Democratic Party. When the legislature was dissolved on Sept. 13, there were 68 Conservatives opposed by 27 Liberals, 21 New Democrats and one independent.

The Major issue in Ontario, as it is throughout Canada, appears to be unemployment. The jobless rate is 5 per cent, less than in most other jobs. But at the same time, the environment and the quality of life are catching on as issues. "Overall economic growth is cruical for all of us," editorialized the Toronto Globe and Mail (Sept. 14). "But it isn't much comfort if you haven't got a job, if you can't get a doctor when you need one, or if your kid has just been busted for smoking pot."

Sensing the demand for change, Davis extended the vote to 18 year olds earlier this year. They will make up an estimated 400,000 of the four million eligible voters in the province. On the day he called the election, Davis also announced free health service for pensioners and the poor, and said medical insurance costs would be reduced. His opponents have described these moves as old-fashioned political husting. In Canada's change-seeking mood, being old-fashioned is the most damning of all political slurs.

SPANISH- AMERICAN UNITY

A National Spanish-Speaking Coalition Conference planned for Oct. 23-24 in Washington aims to make the nation's second largest minority group difficult to ignore. Its cochairman, Reps. Edward R. Roybal (D Calif.) and Herman Badillo (D N.Y.), says they are tired of waiting for the government to take an interest in the problems of their people. They have invited representatives of 500 groups to "develop a national strategy and to explore the possibility of a national coalition of Spanish-speaking groups to deal with social, economic and political problems" of Spanish-Americans.

A Census Bureau report released last March supports the Congressmen's contention that "recent statistics indicate our expectations over the last decade in terms of social justice have not materialized." The average family income of citizens who identify themselves as of Spanish origin is $5,600 -- about 70 per cent of the national average. Their unemployment rate is almost twice that of the nation's, and they are the most poorly educated of the seven major ethnic groups surveyed.

Estimates of the Spanish-speaking population vary widely, and accuracy is impossible because untold numbers of immigrants enter the country illegally. The Census Bureau estimates they are 9.2 million, or five per cent of the nation. Antonio Rodriguez of the Cabinet Committee on the Spanish-Speaking says the correct figure is closer to 12 million, and others have put it as high as 16 million. Since 1960, Spanish-Americans increasingly have supplied the decisive balance of electoral power in districts where their numbers are substantial.

The task of creating a powerful and unified coalition of Spanish-Americans is complicated by their diversity. Members of La Raza, or Spanish-American race, stem from a dozen or more separate national origins, and live in nearly every state. The largest group is Mexican-Americans, followed by Puerto Ricans and Cubans. Cultural differences may make progress even more difficult than it has been for blacks.

"I visited Europe shortly after World War II. The devastation in Germany, England, France, and other countries was astonishing. In London, in a block where 20 buildings once stood, only one remained. In Germany, entire cities were flattened. In those days, when I was riding in an elevator, the operator would stop between floors and ask me if I had any dollars to sell. I was also approached any number of times by people on the street with the same mission in mind. Depending upon what country I was in at the time, these people were willing to offer a premium in their currency over the official market varying between 20 per cent and 100 per cent ... I have recently been in touch with several people who have just returned from extensive trips to the Continent. They have related numerous incidents where hotels, restaurants or stores refused to accept their dollar in payment for merchandise already ordered. It mattered little if the individual offered to pay them extra. The dollar was not wanted at any price. I was amazed to read that some of the major European airlines would not accept dollars for payment... Times have changed." --

A POLITICAL ISSUE

For several years, the protracted "strike" of table grape workers against grape growers in California has periodically been highlighted in the news. The public has been urged to support a boycott of California table grapes. The true facts of the whole sad story strip away the misleading appearance of a righteous cause carried forward against odds in the grape fields.

The grape boycott is a political, rather than an economic, issue through which consumers have been deprived of the right of free choice in the marketplace and a number of grape growers forced into bankruptcy. Moreover, calling the action in the grape fields a "strike" is a misnomer. Very few workers have rallied to the cause--perhaps only two per cent of the total work force. During the years of the "strike," table grapes have continued to be picked. The provisions of those contracts that some of the grape growers have signed with the organizers are chilling--contracts that incidentally were not submitted to a vote of the grape pickers. Among other things, a closed shop is imposed, no provision is made for elections or worker determination of any kind, and no one can be discharged for incompetence. One clause requires continuation of the union contract as a condition of selling, leasing or transferring the owner's property. There is much more in a similar restrictive vein.

The threat to agriculture and to the future of food and fiber production, posed by the pressures exerted against California table grape growers, is beyond calculation. In recognition of the threat, a spokesman for the American Farm Bureau Federation declares,"We will work towards legislation that will protect farmers against political boycotts and strikes at harvest time; and that will protect farm workers in the selection or rejection of union representation in federally-supervised secret ballot elections." It is time that millions of consumers knew the facts about the California table grape "strike."

ABSOLUTE AS TO LIBERTY

The retirement of Justice Hugo L. Black from the Supreme Court, because of ill health, deprives the public of one of its greatest judicial champions of individual liberties. This was so, it should be noted, because Justice Black has been a "strict constructionist" —the very kind of justice that President Nixon has always claimed he wanted on the court.

In the 1960 James Madison Lecture in New York, Justice Black said: "I believe that our Constitution, with its absolute guarantees of individual rights, is the best hope for the aspirations of freedom which men share everywhere." And as those who saw the memorable television interview with him observed, he often referred to a dog-eared copy of the Constitution that he carried in his coat pocket.

His belief that the Constitution and its Bill of Rights meant just what they said ruled his judicial career. It made him the spokesman for free speech, press and assembly and vindicated his idea that the Fourteenth Amendment requires these freedoms of states. It led him to oppose the congressional witch-hunts of the McCarthy period, to uphold separation of church and state in behalf of the right of conscience, and to support the one man, one vote principle making government truly representative. His belief induced this former police judge to combat confessions forced by police, and obliged this son of rural Alabama to stand strongly for civil rights.

Passing the temptation to quote from his decisions, which combined a forceful grasp of American language with deep knowledge of American history, we offer one example of his impact. In 1942 he dissented bitingly from a ruling upholding the conviction of a man too poor to afford counsel. In 1964 he spoke for the high court in requiring counsel for indigents.

In later years the elderly justice seemed to move to the right in terms of political ideology, by upholding states' rights in some cases. But he did not change in his own view of constitutional principle, for he could refer to a strict construction of powers given to the state or denied the Federal Government and its courts.

Nowhere did Hugo Black alter his firm conviction that speech, associations and conscience must be unalterably free. Political ideologies change, but the nation will always recognize Justice Black for his contribution to its freedom. —Post-Dispatch.

WE HOPE IT WILL,
BUT BELIEVE
IT WON'T

President Nixon announced last week that he would end the wage-price freeze when the original 90-day period is up.

He added that an attempt would be made to set up "stabilization measures" (he doesn't call them controls), on a voluntary basis so that economic conditions would be improved and inflation defeated.

We will be happy if such controls are put into effect and operated on a voluntary basis by everyone.

But—perhaps we're too pessimistic—we seriously doubt that voluntary controls will work now or ever. Human nature being what it is, some of us are not going to pass up the opportunity to make more money than the other fellow if all we have to violate is our own conscience—and not a federal law.

All of which reminds us of a friend who was violating a principle, not a law, and when we asked him if his conscience did't hurt, he answered:

"What conscience?"

And—while we're on the subject, the Appeal along with most other middle income folks in the nation, hope that any new controls will include limitations on both interest and profits. It is not right to control wages and prices without also controlling these two, especially interest. It gives too much advantage to the "haves," to the disadvantage of the "havenots." ——Paris Appeal.

PRIVATE FUNDS
BACK MODEL
'DOWNTOWN
SUBURB'

A $200-million redevelopment project in Kansas City, Mo., that is transforming 85 blighted downtown acres into a model business, residential and recreational community willl cost taxpayers not one cent.

Crown Center, a vast new complex of office buildings, apartments, shops, theaters, parks, hotels and underground garages, is being financed without federal or local subsidies by a private firm, Hallmark Cards, Inc.

The project, conceived by the greeting card company's founder and chairman, Joyce C Hall, got under way less than two years ago. Now the first phase is nearing completion, with a 3,700-car underground garage already operating, five office buildings comprising 660,000 square feet renting to tenants for summer occupancy, and construction of a 750-room luxury hotel already begun.

The intention at Crown Center is to create a "downtown suburb" or city-within-a-city that will eventually have more than 50 new buildings and a daytime population of 50,000 people. There will be more than a million square feet of office space, a special computer center, 2,240 apartments, two motor inns as well as the de luxe Crown Center Hotel, a landscaped 10-acre park and sculpture garden and facilities like restaurants, theaters, cinemas, cafeterias, specialty shops and boutiques. All this, when completed by 1983, will replace what was once a seedy, decaying neighborhood.

"We believe business corporations should interest themselves in this kind of renewal of our cities," said Donald J. Hall, Hallmark's president. "Our prime consideration in the Crown Center project was to rehabilitate a badly run-down urban area. However, we are approaching it as an undertaking that will ultimately bring us a fair profit on our investment. We think civic improvement can also be good business."

NEW YORK (AP) — "People like to spread wings," said singer Dionne Warwicke, whose last name last year lacked its present last letter.

"I don't believe in putting people in pigeonholes and expecting them to stay there. It stunts their growth."

That's why the vibrant and versatile young Negro vocalist doesn't like to be classified as any single type of singer. She doesn't want to be confined to any type of music—such as blues and rhythm, folk, rock folk, pop, middle of the road, straight blues, jazz or acid rock.

"I don't categorize myself, and I don't like to be categorized by anyone else," said Miss Warwicke. "I simply sing to the listening ear."

A strong individualist in anything she undertakes, Dionne added a final "E" to her name this year because of her interest in numerology, the occult science of the significance of numbers. 2

"The name Warwick carried good vibrations," she said, "but putting an 'E' at the end should produce even better vibrations, numerologically speaking, and speed sooner to me the things promised."

There may be no connection with the changed spelling of her name, but the latest album by Dionne, issued three weeks ago, has already sold more than 300,000. That means $1 million in sales.

Her latest hit is no surprise to the industry. Since she hit the big time with "Don't Make Me Over" and Anyone Who Had a Heart," Dionne has been regarded as the most consistently successful feminine recording star since Patti Page.

Miss Warwicke, now winding up an engagement at the Copacabana night club here, started singing gospels at 6 in the church of her grandfather, a Methodist minister.

She began her professional career in a Miami night club at 20 for $325 a week. In a peak week last year she earned $100,000.

She gives more than 100 college concerts a year now, sings six to eight weeks in Las Vegas, four weeks in Miami, and four weeks in New York.

"My schedule would put a lot of people in the grave," she remarked, "but it keeps me trim and alert. Between my schedule and taking care of my son David — he's 2½ now — I'm in better shape than any football player."

Deeply religious and quite generous, Dionne donates some $50,000 a year to a scholarship fund for both black and white music students who are "economically unable but academically inclined.

"It isn't only the black child who needs education," she observed quietly. "It's every child."

In a world of anxiety, what is her greatest fear?

"I'm a nut," she laughed. "I'm not afraid of anything." Here are the things Dionne likes:

"Good food of any kind -- shoes and boots -- dressy clothes and jewelry -- Every minute of every day I'm alive -- cities, because that's where people are -- occult novels, such as 'The Exorcist' -- hues of lavender, purple or blue -- gardenias -- the sound of laughter -- the feeling of soft things like fur, velvet, silk and babies -- making hooked rugs -- contact sports -- and honest people who are themselves."

And here are her dislikes:

"Phonies and liars but not all thieves, because some are honest thieves -- being rushed or hurried -- snails and oysters and steak tartare -- the color red because it means stop to me -- insomnia -- the smell of a city, because it smells like an overworked horse -- mididresses -- yelling or being yelled at -- the sound of acid rock music -- baseball, badminton and people who paw you."

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON– The smell of scandal is blowing in from Micronesia far out in the Pacific. The ugly odor could forebode serious trouble on islands where Americans fought some of the bloodiest battles of World War II.

More than 10,000 islands are scattered like dust specks throughout the Pacific. Exactly 2,141 of them, known collectively as Micronesia, are ruled by the U.S.

These islands, like idle volcanoes, have been quiet since World War II. But now that the U.S. is pulling back from Asia, military leaders are quietly eyeing the Pacific islands as a forward line of defense. Secret proposals are already under study to establish new bases in the Pacific.

But the U.S. tragically has botched its trusteeship of Micronesia. A succession of political hacks from the States have governed the islands, often in the manner that Northern carpetbaggers ruled the South after the Civil War.

Today, many islanders who hailed their liberation from the Japanese nearly three decades ago would prefer to have the Japanese back.

The Interior Department, which administers Micronesia, has gotten wind of the distant scandal and has sent investigator Ivan Kestner to find out what's brewing. He has received an earful of charges. Here are just a few of them:

-GROSS IRREGULARITIES

Since the end of World War II, the U.S. has spent hundreds of millions of dollars throughout the trust territory. However, the money has been largely squandered, and the Micronesians have received only minimum benefits. "Gross irregularities" have been alleged in the administration of government contracts.

These include illegal change orders that have benefitted favored contractors. There has also been too little monitoring of construction contracts.

High Commissioner Edward E. Johnston, formerly a Republican hanger- on in Hawaii, allegedly "has used his office to support his various business interests and the business interests of his friends and associates." he has also been accused of neglecting his duties and lording it over the natives.

Both the high commissioner and his top law officer, Richard Miyamoto, have been charged with violating the basic principles of contracting. One contract inspector, Robert Meyer, reported several serious contract violations, but he was ignored or overruled so often that last month he resigned in disgust. Cited as "typical" of what's going on in the islands is the case of a procurement official who three years ago was a low-paid clerk but now allegedly owns three expensive houses on Guam.

These are just a few of the charges Kestner is investigating -- charges of course, that haven't been proven and that Johnston and Miyamoto have denied. Yet something evidently is amiss in Micronesia. The natives, once passive, are becoming restive, and the islands no longer seem as remote from the world's hurly-burly.

-WASHINGTON WHIRL-

Ecology Be Damned -- House Interior Chairman Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo., is asking the taxpayers for $133,995 to show that strip mining and oil drilling is good for the environment. He hired New York lawyer Edward Weidenfall as a committee consultant to help mastermind the campaign. In a confidential, 12-page memo, Weidenfall proposed holding hearings on oil, gas, coal and other sources of energy. This is a subject that has been neglected by Congress. But Weidenfall's memo is heavy on how the public should swallow the demands of the energy industry and short on what strip mining and oil spills will do to the ecology. Weidenfall also proposes press conferences and off-the- record briefings: for the old Colorado pepper pot to promote the oil-gas -coal side of the ecology issue.

Money for Mills -- House Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., grumped to friends the other day that he was "going broke" traveling around the country to make speeches. With an eye on the White House, he has been accepting just about every speaking engagement he can get. He has received "thousands of offers" of financial help, he said, to finance his unannounced presidential campaign. But so far he has turned down all contributions. Sitting in his shirt sleeves, he quickly leafed through a newspaper as he chatted with his friends. He paused briefly at the comic section. "I might have to start taking some financial help from somewhere," he allowed.

Reverse Discrimination -- Some contractors feel President Nixon is doing too good a job for minority businesses. Nine small contractors have protested to Rep. Joel Broyhill, R-Va., that they have been discriminated against by the federal government in favor of black firms. They have cited construction contracts that were awarded to minority-owned businesses without bids by various government agencies. The white contractors claim they could do the jobs, in some cases, for half what the taxpayers are paying the minority firms.

Peace Prize To Brandt

OSLO, Norway, (AP) — West German Chancellor Willy Brandt today won the 1971 Nobel peace prize.

The 57-year-old Socialist head of the Bonn government receives the equivalent of $88,000 from funds endowed by Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite. The peace prize is awarded annually by the Norwegian parliament.

Danish Socialists and fellow German Social democrats had recommended Brandt for the prize, saying his efforts to improve his country's relations with East Europe were the most important initiative for relaxation of tension in the last decade.

Last week Dr. Earl W. Sutherland Jr. of Vanderbilt University won the Nobel Prize for medicine and Dr. Simon Kuznets of Harvard University won the award in economics. The prize for literature will be awarded in Stockholm on Thursday and the final prize, chemistry-physics, Nov. 2.

Brandt this year signed nonaggression treaties with Poland and the Soviet Union. While the treaties have yet to be ratified, their signing improved the East-West climate and made possible a tentative four power agreement on Berlin. Details of the latter agreement have yetto be worked out.

Brandt has said an agreement to improve the situation of West Berlin, a chronic EastWest trouble spot, is a precondition to submitting the treaties for ratification by his parliament.

Brandt also has made efforts to achieve a modus vivendi with Communist East Germany. He took an unprecedented trip to East Germany for a meeting with the East German premier, Willi Stoph, in the city of Erfurt. Stoph repaid the call by journeying to Kassell in West Germany later.

Brandt took office as West Germany's first Social Democratic chancellor Oct. 21, 1969. This ended 20 years of Christian Democatic rule. He immediately declared that his aim was to be the leader "not of a defeated Germany, but a liberated Germany."

He had been among the favorites for the prize.

Fifteen Perish In Nursing Home Fire

HONESDALE, Pa. (AP) — Fifteen elderly persons, most in their 80s and 90s and many of them bedridden, perished Tuesday night in a fire that swept rapidly through a private nursing home near this tiny northeastern Pennsylvania community.

Wayne County Coroner Robert Jennings said he would ask for a state investigation.

All of the victims, trapped in their rooms on either side of a corridor, were believed to have died of smoke inhalation, Jennings said.

Only a licensed practical nurse, on duty alone at the time, escaped the blaze as it filled the residential wing of the Geiger Nursing Home with thick, black smoke.

"I intend to request the state Department of Labor and Industry and the Department of Welfare to conduct an immediate investigation at the state level," Jennings said.

"If there is any criminal negligence involved here it will be brought out in the investigation," he said.

"The entire area was engulfed with smoke, there wasn't too much flames," Jennings said. "It was very dense smoke and you could see it for a mile."

Jennings said the fire was believed to have started shortly before 8 p.m. in a laundry room at the rear of the residential wing of the L-shaped, one-story frame structure. "There's almost no question of that," he said. "Physical evidence shows that."

The fire was discovered by the nurse, Vaudine Lyon, 41, of nearby Hawley.

The corner said Mrs. Lyon reported she had gone to check clothes in a dryer and found they were still damp.

"She said she then went back to the office area and a little later heard a noise like glass breaking," Jennings said.

"She then started down the hallway and that's when she saw the flames in the laundry."

"When she discovered the fire it was too late," he said.

"She couldn't get down a hall. When she tired to use the phone it was dead. She went outside and tried to yell for help but it's in a rural area and when firemen arrived all they remember seeing was a person in a white uniform outside. She couldn't even get back inside because of the intense heat and smoke."

She was taken to Wayne County Memorial Hospital suffering from burns. The hospital listed her condition as satisfactory.

Jennings said all but one of the bodies were found in their rooms, in bed, in chairs and on the floor.

Another wing-jutting off to he right of the rooms and containing the dining room and kitchen, offices and the apartment of the owners - was virtually untouched by the flames.

The owners, Harvey and Joyce Geiger, were out when the fire began.

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — The elevation on the Navajo Reservation in Arizona, New Mexico and Utah ranges from 4,500 feet to 10,416 feet.

The reservation consists of nearly 16 million acres of land or about 25,000 square miles, an area almost the size of Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts combined.

The reservation comprises 1,503,693 acres of wildlands, such as canyons and mesas.

An estimated 135,000 Navajos reside on or near the reservation.

Laborer Wanted In Sex Slaying Of Boy Arrested In Illinois

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — A 30-year-old laborer wanted in connection with the brutal stabbing and sexual assault of a 12-yearold Omaha boy was arrested Tuesday in Rock Island, Ill.

Fletcher Thompson, special agent in charge of the Omaha division of the FBI, said that Robert Julian Jacobs was taken into custody by local authorities in rock Island.

The FBI had obtained a federal warrant charging Jacobs with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution earlier in the day.

Omaha police earlier had traced Jacobs trail to Davenport, Iowa, after Harvey L. Avis of Council Bluffs, Iowa, who works at a Treynor, Iowa, service station reported that a man believed to be Jacobs had boarded a Des Moines-bound Continental Trailways bus at Treynor Monday evening.

Avis said a man matching Jacobs description had inquired at the service station about where he could catch a bus to Davenport.

Raymond Grim, a Continental Trailways driver, said he started his run at Des Moines and a man he thinks was Jacobs was on the bus and wanted to go to Davenport, but didn't have a ticket. Grim said he sold the man a ticket.

The bus arrived in Davenport at 12:25 a.m. Tuesday.

Davenport police had told Omaha police they received word from Rock Island, Ill., police that the suspect left the bus at a street intersection in a "slum area" at Davenport.

Douglas County Attorney Donald L. Knowles told a news conference Monday night a complaint had been filed against Robert Julian Jacobs, also known as Anthony Ruiz. Jacobs was described by Knowles as a Mexican male, 4feet tall, weighing 175 pounds, with black hair, brown eyes and a tatoo on the upper left arm reading "Bob."

Jacobs was charged with the first-degree murder of Allen Dale Schmidt and kidnaping and stabbing with intent to kill, wound or maim Leslie Schmidt, Knowles said.

He also told newsmen the search was continuing in the Omaha area but refused to disclose any of the evidence leading to the filing of the charges.

"I think at the proper time these matters will be brought to the attention of the press," Knowles said.

Bruce Hartford, Omaha Police Detective Captain, said a car, believed to be the one used by the murderer, was in possession of the police Monday night. Hartford would not reveal where the car had been found.

Hartford said Jacobs is believed to have a record for minor offenses in Omaha, but he said none of the offenses involved sex.

The boy's stabbed and sexually assaulted body was found along the bank of the Missouri River near the South Omaha bridge.

Attendants at St. Joseph Hospital reported that Leslie, who was stabbed about the head, was listed in serious condition.

The reports tell of three fingerprints that could be the killer's. They were found on a card-type holder upon which the apparent murder weapon, a 4-cent knife with a white handle, was mounted at the time of purchase.

The bloody knife, found near the body, was described as a fruit and vegetable slicer with a serrated stainless steel blade.

Investigators also have some auto paint scrapings from a pole in the area where the body was found.

The biggest single hope of solving the case appears to be the account given by Leslie, who suffered about eight knife cuts and had several teeth punched in.

The killer, who lured the boys into his car late Saturday afternoon as they sold candy for the Bancroft Junior High School, "threw me into the trunk" of the car, Leslie told a policeman.

Leslie said the man offered the boys $5 to help find the man's dog. The man said the animal had wandered while he was fishing along the river.

The boys were driven to a wooded area near the bridge, Leslie said. As they reached a closed gate, Leslie said, the man tried to swing the car past the gate but the car hit a post, breaking the mirror.

The man stopped the car at a point beyond the gate and Leslie said the man asked him to get a dog leash from the trunk. But when Leslie opened the trunk lid, the man shoved him in.

About five minutes later, the man opened the trunk. Leslie saw Allen "standing in water"—apparently along the river bank. The man slammed the lid, hitting Leslie on the head.

Leslie lost track of time. Then the man opened the trunk and Leslie said the man's hands and arms were covered with blood.

Leslie did not see Allen's body.

Suddenly, the man tried to strangle Leslie, using Allen's shirt. Leslie said the man hit him in the face. Leslie broke free and ran into the woods. Where he collapsed.

Dr. Blaine Roffman, a pathologist, said Allen's body had 29 stab wounds and a long, deep cut across the throat.

When Police Sgt. Emil Slama found the body, Allen's gray socks were the only item of clothing on it. Nearby were his shoes, his shorts and his glasses. His shirt was between a road and the body.

Slama found the body after an anonymous caller telephoned police saying he was fishing when he saw a "little boy's body" under the bridge.

The boys' father, xLoyal Schmidt, a supervisor of maintenance at Grace Bible Institute, said the boys left home early Saturday on the candyselling mission. Neighbors and police searched until 3 a.m. Sunday for the youngsters.

Leslie stumbled from an area some 200 feet southwest of where the body was found and collapsed more than an hour after Allen's body was found.

Suspect Got Out Of Prison In April

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A 31-year-old man wanted in Omaha on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the knife-slaying of a 12-year-old Omaha boy, was released from Missouri's penitentiary last April 19 after serving almost exactly five years of a seven-year sentence.

Robert Julian Jacobs was arrested in Rock Island, Ill., Tuesday.

Jacobs was convicted in St. Louis Circuit Court in April, 1966 on charges of first degree robbery and second degree burglary. His sentences of five years and three separate ones of seven years were to be served concurrently.

In 1964 his fingerprint record was started when he was captured as a runaway. Thereafter he had several arrests in connection with vagrancy, robbery and assault charges.

During his time in prison he had a home address of Pleasant Hill, Calif.

More than 9,000 overnight guests can be accommodated in Yellowstone National Park's inns, cabins and lodges.

National Business Women Recognized This Week

Mayor Lee Shell has proclaimed this week for observance of National Business Women's Week.

National Business Women's Week was initiated in 1928 by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs to focus on the thousands of career women, who are working together to solve the nation's problems.

The 1971-72 theme of the more than 3800 BPW clubs is an "Era of Responsibility" with a strong focus on legislative action, action to insure a quality society, action to bring world peace, action to promote productive change and action to raise the status of women.

Betty Cole, president of the Sikeston BPW club, has announced that a coffee will be held at the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company building front lobby Saturday from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. in observance of National Business Women's Week.

WELFARE DECLINES

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) -- Kentucky reports its welfare rolls down by 4,300 persons from April 1970 to March 1971. Spokesmen said part of the decline is due to a program under which private citizens help find work for qualified welfare clients.

Unanswered Door Bell Too Much For Gabby Neighbor

Dear Ann Landers: I took your advice and it sank. For years I have been bothered with a pesty neighbor who used to come over in the morning and follow me around from room to room --gabbing and interferring with my housework. Then I read in your column about another woman who had the same problem. You told her to keep her door locked and not answer the bell. It sounded like a sensible approach so I tried it last Monday.

Do you know what my neighbor did? She broke open my basement window with a hammer and a crowbar and came upstairs. I was shocked when I saw her. Her first words were, "Thank God you're all right! I thought something terrible had happened to you when you didn't answer the bell."

So, you see, when a person has neighbors like mine she is defenseless. Any more suggestions? ---Sitting Duck

Dear Ducky: Yes. Tell your neighbor you appreciate her concern but when you don't answer the bell it means one of two things.(1) You are not at home or (2) you are at home and too busy for company -- so will she please not take it upon herself to break and enter.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a high schooler (a non-smoker, by the way) who did not agree with your advice against setting up smoking rooms in high schools for kids who smoke. There's another side to the story which you obviously don't know.

The break between classes is about four minutes. A person barely has time to use the bathroom. The student who needs the bathroom can't get in because all the stalls are filled with kids who are grabbing a cigaret. Another problem is that the kids who smoke have wrecked our school bathrooms. There are cigaret burns on the toilet seats, the floors, the walls, on the towel racks, and once someone accidentally set fire to the place.

I envy the students whose school has a smoking room. It's better not only for the smokers, but for the non-smokers, too. I know you will print this letter because you are fair about presenting both sides.---Burned In Schenectedy

Dear Burned: Your letter does indeed, present some valid arguments infavor of smoking rooms in high schools. I have received several other thoughtful rebuttals---an especially good one from Arthur N. Pierce, Superintendent of Schools, Hanover, New Hampshire. However, I am still against the idea.

Cigaret smoking has been proved unquestionably harmful to health. Facilities for smokers, in my opinion, condone and encourage smoking. As an alternative, I suggest monitors in the bathrooms at class-break time, with penalties for those who break the rules. The notion that you have to permit students to smoke is nonsense. Nicotine addicts can work on their lung cancer before 9 a.m. and after 3 p.m.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married nine years. When we were going together he used to tell a few lies but since we've been married he.s been a lot better at that sort of thing.

Last week he called me "Rose" in his sleep. I thought I was imagining things because it was sort of a mumble. Last night I heard him plain as day. "Move over, Rose, " he said. This morning I asked what it was all about. He said Rose is the nickname of a fellow he works with - - - Rosenheim is his real name. I have heard him talk about this guy before. Should I phone up the personnel director? Would it get back to him if I did? Please advise. - - - No Rose

Dear No: Don't start poking around your husband's place of employment. Trust him. If he's playing around you'll smell something sooner or later and it won't be a rose.

Drinking may be "in" to the kids you run with ---but it can put you "out" for keeps. You can cool it and stay popular. Read "Booze And You --For Teen-Agers Only. " Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Peeling Can Remove Fine Wrinkles

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) -- A Miami surgeon has described a method for removing fine face wrinkles that cannot be treated easily by conventional plastic surgery.

Dr. Thomas J. Baker Jr. told a session Tuesday on "The Aging Face" at the 57th annual clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons that "chemical peeling off" of the skin successfully removes the fine wrinkles.

The treatment dates back many years and has been practiced in studios run by laymen in the Miami area, Baker said.

In recent years, this treatment has been refined by trained surgeons, he said.

The treatment is relatively simple but painful and only for carefully selected cases — mostly persons with light, fair complexions because it permanently bleaches the skin.

"It is not fun to have done," Baker told reporters, giving this description:

A chemical -- usually what is known as carbolic acid, which is actually an alcohol -- is applied to the face and the face is covered, except for the eyes, nose and mouth, with waterproof adhesive tape.

It is applied in small strips to fit the contours of the face.

The procedure requires about five to seven days of hospitalization. For the first day or two, the patient is "rather uncomfortable" and narcotics are used for the first six to eight hours.

The chemical causes a burning that is "quite severe" at first he said. When the tape is removed, the patient is tranquilized, but in 21 to 28 days new skin is generated that has "a fresh look," Baker said. The patient must avoid sunlight for six months.

On the basis of a 10-year followup of more than 1,000 cases, Baker said, the changes in skin "are quite permanent." He said the procedure "may actually prevent skin malignancy."

Of the 150 or so procedures he does a year, Baker said the number of men is increasing from one to two or three a month.

Most of those seeking operations are average people, Baker said, not the wealthy despite his charge of $1,000 plus hospitalization costs which push the total to $1,300 or $1,400.

Asked if he would have the operation himself, Baker said he did not think he would need it, but if he did, "I'd be damn selective about who operated on me."

Tipton-Shipley

POINT PLEASANT — On Sept. 17 Point Pleasant Church was the scene for the wedding of Miss Linda Darlene Shipley and Lynn Edward Tipton, with the Rev. Floyd Grindstaff officiating.

The double ring candlelight ceremony was performed before an altar adorned with arch candelabra and yellow and white chrysanthemum floral arrangements. Miss Judy Bock of Sturdivant was the pianist and soloist.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Omar Shipley of Fenton, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tipton of Lutesville are parents of the bridegroom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of Chantilly lace with sequin trim. The dress was fashioned with a high neckline, bishop sleeves and a chapel-length train. A headpiece of petals and pearls held her veil, and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses and yellow and orange chrysanthemums.

The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Mary Stone of Cape Girardeau was matron of honor and Miss Dorothy Eaker of Patton was the bridesmaid. They wore yellow formal gowns styled along empires lines. Matching veils topped with yellow gladioli were worn in their hair, and each carried a long-stem yellow rose.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Null of Sikeston were candlelighters.

Larry Stone of Cape Girardeau was best man and Jay Boyer of Glen Allen was groomsman.

A reception followed at the bridegroom's home, where Mrs. Stone, Mrs. Pat Parson and Mrs. Linda Shiverdeck, all of Cape Girardeau, served. Miss Barbara Conrad of Grassy was guest book attendant.

The bride graduated in 1968 from Zalma high school, and in 1969 from Ozark Beauty School in Poplar Bluff.

Tipton graduated from Woodland high school in 1969, and completed two years at Three Rivers Junior College, Poplar Bluff.

He is employed by Cape Vending in Cape Girardeau where the couple lives.

College News

Tricia Huff has been elected secretary of the freshman class at Vanderbilt University in Nashville. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Huff, 274 North Ranney.

Thomas Allen Smitten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Holmes Smitten of 915 Moore Ave., has enrolled as a freshman at Southwestern at Memphis. He is a graduate of Sikeston high school.

Bridge Tournament Starts Monday At P.B.

POPLAR BLUFF — The SEMO unit of American Contract Bridge League will have a tournament sponsored by the Poplar Bluff Duplicate Bride Club.

There will be four elimination tournaments with the winners competing early in 1972 at the district tournament in St. Louis. Winners of the district play will compete with the Dallas Aces, World Championship Bridge team, early in the spring in St. Louis.

The first elimination tournament will be Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Al Edco's Copper Kettle. The next three elimination tournaments will be in November, December and January. Dates and times will be announced later.

Master points will be awarded.

Dr. John Hunt and Mrs. George Lemon will be directors of the Poplar Bluff tournament.

Girl Scout Troop 190 Camps Over Weekend

Girl Scout Troop 190 camped at Camp Latonka over the weekend. They joined with troop 156 from Poplar Bluff for a campfire sing-out near the waters edge.

The troop earned the troop camper badge and parts of the sign of the arrow. They participated in a nature scavenger hunt, an outdoor cook-out, a Scout's own program and an outdoor worship service.

Troop members attending were Pam Gady, Dinah Kendall, Dianne Ellison, Kathy Daume, Judy Crismon, Janet Dockins, Karen Malone, Tamara Hunt, Robin Green, Judy Brock, Karen Love, Dawn Gutherie, Pam Miller, Alberta Looney, Suzanne Hatley, Cindy Myrick, Crystal Rippy, Rachel Looney, Debbie Imhoff, Brenda Imhoff and Sheryl Urbain.

Accompanying the girls were Mrs. James Brock, troop leader, Mrs. Bill Looney, Mrs. Leon Urbain, Mrs. Thomas Ellison and Martha Ellison.

Mrs. Gary Lee Shelton

Shelton-Karnes

DEXTER — The Crowder Church of Christ was the setting for the Sept. 14 wedding of Debra Yevonn Karnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Karnes of Essex, and Gary Lee Shelton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Shelton of Dexter.

C. G. Lemmons, minister of the Crowder Church of Christ, officiated at the double ring ceremony preformed before a basket of white mums and blue carnations and an arch candalabra.

Escorted down the aisle by her father, the bride wore a gown of bridal satin and chantilly lace. The gown, designed by the brides mother, featured and empire waist line, a scooped neck on the underbodice of satin and an overbodice of lace. The wedding ring collar and bishop sleeves were also of chantilly lace. The A-line skirt of satin featured an overskirt of taffetta. A chapel length train of lace highlighted the back. The veil of illusion was accented with a loop bow of satin. The brides' bouquet was of white carnations and blue baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Miss Patricia Shelton, sister of the groom. Diana Shelton, sister of the groom, and Darla Kay Karnes, niece of the bride, served as the bride's maid and junior brides maid.

Serving as best man was Steve Shelton, cousin of the groom. Lloyd Hyten and Danny Shelton, brother of the groom, served as groomsman and junior groomsman.

A reception was held at the Vanduser city hall. Brenda Allen cousin of the bride, presided at the guest book. Becky Karnes and Geraldine Karnes, sisters-in-law of the bride, and Brenda Allen served at the reception table.

After a wedding trip, the couple made their home at 319 Fannatta in Dexter.

Sesquicentennial Cookbooks Available

JEFFERSON CITY — Missouri Sesquicentennial year is drawing to a close and the Sesquicentennial Cookbook is still available in limited numbers. It would make an excellent gift for Thanksgiving or Christmas, and will increase in value as the years go by.

The Sesquicentennial Cookbook contains approximately 400 pages, in 16 sections. Each section depicts a segment of Missouri history from 1821 to the present. The book containes 500 recipes from all parts of Missouri and the United States. It is dedicated to our First Lady, Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes. The front cover is red, with gold imprint of the Missouri State Seal, and the imprint of the Sesquicentennial medallion is on the back cover.

Remit your check in the amount of $3.50, plus twenty-one cents for postage, for each book you wish to purchase to: The First State Capitol Restoration and Sesquicentennial Commission, P. O. Box 234, Jefferson City, Missouri 65101, and your book will be mailed to you. Make check payable to the Sesquicentennial Commission.

Wife Dons Hard Hat

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Where regulations call for a two-man crew on crane operations, the B&B Construction Co. gets away with one.

But it's all legal, because the pilot of the lit truck which holds steel joists for Bernard Ellinger's crane is Bertha Ellinger, his wife and the other "B" in the company title.

The two have been operating as a steel construction team for three years, mainly as a result of Bertha's desire to save money—and her family's laughter when she first suggested donning a hard hat.

Now that she's there, she'll be hard to get rid of. "I own the equipment," she said as she pulled a stool up to a drafting table at the Westwood Shopping Center construction site.

Nurses Aide Class To Start At Dexter

GRAY RIDGE — The Gray Ridge Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation Center will begin a nurses aide class Nov. 1.

The class will give Stoddard county residents an opportunity to receive training to assist registered nurses and licensed practical nurses.

The class will be taught in Dexter by Mrs. Betty Parsons, a registered nurse.

EARL BRASWELL

Toboggans originated with the prehistoric man when he used animal skins to haul food to his cave. The modern toboggan was developed in Canada about 1880. More and more people are finding the excitement and delight of toboggans and competition in sports than ever before.

Busy homemakers will find more leisure time to enjoy a favorite sport or hobby with built-in "Maid Service." Cleaning hard to remove spots on tile, fixtures, walls, linoleum, etc., will be a breeze with a water refiner. Call now for home demonstration.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOICATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Oct. 20, the 293rd day of 1971. There are 72 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1918, Germany accepted U.S. terms to end World War I and ordered German submarines to their home bases.

On this date—

In 1632, English architect Sir Christopher Wren, was born in Wiltshire, England.

In 1740, Maria Theresa became ruler of Austria, Hungary and Bohemia.

In 1873, showman P.T. Barnum opened the hippodrome in New York City.

In 1910, Woodrow Wilson resigned as president of Princeton University to run for the governorship of New Jersey.

In 1941, in World War II, Joseph Stalin proclaimed a state of siege in Moscow.

In 1955, thousands of people in Tokyo cheered the New York Yankees baseball team as it arrived in Japan to play 16 exhibition games.

Ten years ago: A new crisis over Algeria was brewing in France, and government security forces were reinforced in Paris.

Prep Grid Coaches Comment On Games

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Coach Gary Lynch's Tigers will be seeking their third northern division win against the ever improving Sikeston Bulldog football team Thursday night.

The Bengals trail the Perryville Pirates by a half game in the standings and the Pirates are 3-0 against the Tigers 2-0 record. Sikeston is in third place with a 2-1 record.

Cape Girardeau Central opened defense of their northern division title two weeks ago as it shut out a fighting Jackson team 8-0. Last week the Tigers beat an unpredictable team in the Poplar Bluff Mules, 21-6.

Central uses a two-platoon system. It is the deepest team in talent in the area.

It has good, quick linebackers and the front four are strong against the rush.

Last week the Tigers stopped the Mules rushing and held them to only four first downs.

Cape Central has two big strong backs that it likes to run at its opponents behind a strong charging front line.

Willie Colon and Paul Schermann are the men who do the bulk of the running. Last week they scored one touchdown apiece in their win over the Mules.

The Tigers will try a few tricky plays that the Bulldogs will have to be on the guard against like the touchdown they got off a fake field goal. Quarterback Don Zimmerman passed to Gary Slattery for the touchdown.

Coach Lynch is aware of the team he will be facing Thursday night. "They're a real good team," said Coach Lynch. They haven't been beaten bad by anyone."

PORTAGEVILLE — The Bulldogs of Coach Jim McKay put their perfect 5-0 record on the line against their greatest rival Caruthersville in a southern division football game Friday night.

There's nothing the Tigers would like better than ending the winning streak the Bulldogs have built up this season.

"They look as good as anybody we've played," commented Coach McKay.

EAST PRAIRIE — The Eagles will be going into the Friday night football game against rival Charleston without their leading scorer and number one threat Annise Davis.

Davis, who is tied with Mark Amick of Illmo-Scott City for the scoring lead in Southeast Missouri with 50 points, suffered a shoulder separation and will be operated on Wednesday.

The Eagles lost their quarterback Larry McCutchen with a broken finger.

Coach Ed McWilliams will replace McCutchen with senior Haifback Larry Gross and Freshman Jeff Johnson will take over the halfback spot.

"We hope to get through the game without anyone else getting hurt," said Coach McWilliams.

MALDEN — The Greenwave with a 2-1-1 record in southern division football play and 3-2-1 overall will be host to the Chaffee Red Devils, who have yet to win a football game this season in six tries and are 0-3 in conference play, Friday night in a southern division contest.

Coach Jack Phillips started the season with hopes of repeating as the conference champs but injuries have about destroyed his starting team.

The Greenwave will start eight freshman against Chaffee. Coach Phillips has 17 freshman on his squad.

All the Greenwave can do now is prepare for the future. "We have two natural receivers," said Coach Phillips. "This is something that we've never had before," he continued. Concerning the game Friday night Coach Phillips said, "We'll just try to hang in there."

CARUTHERSVILLE — The Tigers of Coach Ron Wene will try to improve their 2-1-1 southern division football record when they go to Portageville to take on the undefeated Bulldogs.

"We feel that we will have to score three times to win", commented Coach Wene.

The Tigers will be without George Carr, a middle linebacker and Jeff Boyd, who is doubtful. Both boys injured their knees.

The Tigers have Chris Hoskins to run at the Bulldogs along with Joe Cagle at quarterback to do the passing.

CHAFFEE — "We're hopeful of a good game and we're about due for one," said Coach Terry Glenzy referring to the Friday southern division football game between the Red Devils and the Malden Greenwave at Malden.

Chaffee hasn't won a game this season but the team has played better ball than the record would indicate.

POPLAR BLUFF — Coach C. E. Wyatt's Mules travel to Dexter Friday night to play the Bearcats in a non-conference football game.

The Mules have several bruises from last weeks loss to Cape Girardeau Central in a northern division game.

"We will have to be really up for the game," said Coach Wyatt.

STEELE — Coach Joe Pritchard's Bulldogs are looking for their first football victory of the season Friday night as they play host to the Delta C-7 Chargers in their homecoming game.

The Bulldogs will be without one of their starters. Richard Jones has a knee injury.

"We're planning on winning our first game," said Coach Pritchard. "They're the only team in our class that we will play."

DEERING — The Delta C-7 Chargers will try to spoil the homecoming of the South Pemiscot Bulldogs and win their first Bootheel division game. They take on the Bulldogs in Steele Friday night.

At stake will probably be last place in the conference for the losers. So both teams will be playing as if first place were at stake.

"We hope to play our best game of the year," commented Coach Bob Andrews of the Chargers.

"Our young team has done an excellent job and we're looking forward to next year," said Coach Andrews.

The Chargers will be without Guard Wayne Lair due to an ankle injury and Center Keller, who has a kidney injury.

Alston Named Manager

NEW YORK (AP) — Venerable Walt Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who says, "I can't think of anything I'd rather do than manage," was named today as The Associated Press' Manager of the Year in the National League for the fifth time.

The 59-year-old Alston, in his 18th season as manager of the Dodgers, piloted Los Angeles to a second-place finish in the NL's West Division. Los Angeles wound up one game behind San Francisco after trailing the Giants by eight games going into the final month of the season.

Alston, whose 18 consecutive seasons with the same club is tops among active major league managers, received 72 votes from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportcasters.

Charlie Fox, in his first full season as San Francisco manager, was a close second with 65 votes. Danny Murtaugh, the 1970 Manager of the Year who led the Pittsburgh Pirates to this year's World Series championship was third with 57 votes. The voting was based only on regular season performances.

The modest, effable Alston, however, paid tribute to Murtaugh's effort. "That guy in Pittsburgh did quite a job," said Alston from his home in Darrtown, Ohio.

But the Dodgers' pilot also was grateful to receive the award again. "It's quite an honor," he said. "I really appreciate it."

Alston also was named NL Manager of the Year in 1955,1959, 1965 and 1956, all seasons in which he guided the Dodgers to the league championship. He also took them to the NL title in 1966 and 1963.

Asked about the Dodgers' near-miss this year, he said, "We were all disappointed that we didn't win after getting so close. But you've got to give the players credit, from the youngest rookie to the oldest veteran. Nobody quit. They all gave 100 per cent, and that's all I could ask."

Alston, a former school teacher, has been working on one-year contracts since he succeeded Charlie Dressen as Dodgers' manager in 1954. Apparently that's the way he wants it. "I'm satisfied, and I hope they are," he said.

Dick Williams of the Oakland Athletics was named earlier in the week as American League Manager of the Year.

Pennsylvania's starting quarterback against Princeton has been hurt, and the reserve is calling signals on a long, 10 to 12 second count. What do you, the Princeton defensive captain, know about this strategy:

1. Neither team has an advantage?
2. It gives Princeton an edge?
3. It gives Penn an edge because Princeton will frequently jump offside?
4. It gives Penn an edge because although Princeton will not often be offside, they will still fear a quick count play?

Answer

No. 2. Defense generally has an edge if opponents consistently go on long count. Defense digs in but it's hard for offensive linemen to keep set.

Sikeston athletes in the punt, pass and kick competition bowed out of action Sunday in St. Louis at the district meet.

Hal Butler placed second in the 11-year-old division and Dave Smith took fourth in the division.

Butler was seeking his fourth straight district title and a trip to the zone competition at Busch stadium in November when his passing fell off and he lost by seven feet.

The nation's fourth best Junior college basketball team, Three Rivers Raiders of Poplar Bluff, will compete against Florrissant Valley of St. Louis at Sikeston high school field house Jan. 27, SHS principal Roger Sherman announced today.

The team is composed mainly of players from Southeast Missour. Among the notables on the squad are Larry Lawrence of Sikeston, Charleston's Henry Hall and Mark Baker of New Madrid.

Sikeston High School Basketball Coach N. P. McDaniel welcomed 50 athletes as drills opened Monday. An additional 12 is expected to report after the football season ends.

"We are primarily working on conditioning," the sixth year head Bulldog mentor noted.

Jack Miles, Columbia, assistant executive secretary of the Missouri State High School Activities Association, will conduct a basketball rules interpretation meeting Thursday night in Poplar Bluff. It is one of three scheduled for Southeast Missouri.

Bill Arment, cage official and football coach at Kennett high school, will conduct the remaining meetings scheduled Oct. 25 at Illmo-Scott City high school and Oct. 27 at New Madrid high school.

The first meeting in the district was held Tuesday at Kennett under Arment's direction.

SHS Freshman Lose

POPLAR BLUFF – Speedy Tyron Blackman scored four touchdowns, each on long runs, to lead the Mules frosh to a 32-18 football victory over Sikeston Tuesday night. It was the third straight loss for the Bulldog team.

The game started to be a high scoring affair. Each team posted two touchdowns in the first period.

Blackman started the scoring when he raced 37 yards and John Casey ran for two points to put the host outfront for good.

The speedy back used the option around end to race for scores of 43 and 65 yards in the second quarter and had a 13-yard scoring jaunt in he fourth period.

John Casey scored the Mules only other touchdown running 54 yards for the second touchdown in the first period.

Ray Shaver hat the Bulldogs on the scoreboard in the first, plunging one yard. Tom Derough added teh second touchdown in the first period when he darted 64 yards and Brad Shain ended the scoring with a fourth quarter 14-yard dash.

Sikeston will host to Caruthersville Saturday at 10:30 a.m. at public school stadium.

Ahead Of The Game

COLUMBIA — If you happen to pull up to your house some day and see a fellow sitting on the front porch measuring a deer head, don't be alarmed and call for the nearest policeman.

It's probably just Wayne Porath on a measuring mission for the Show Me Big Bucks Club.

Porath, deer biologist for the Department of Conservation, is one of the Big Bucks' official measurers. Measuring a deer rack is no small chore and involves quite a bit of time and experience.

Recently, Porath had the names of three hunters who had taken big deer in past seasons that could qualify for the Club, which honors the state's top deer hunters at a banquet each October.

All were in north Missouri. On the road to a meeting in that area he went by to measure the heads. At Brookfield, he found William Johnson's trophy rack in a sporting goods store. It scored 164 4/8, enough to top the 150-point minimum for deer taken north of the Missouri River. Minimum is 140 points south of the river.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Pennington of Keytesville were delighted to find that Mr. Pennington's 161 3/8-point buck made the club. "Now I'll get a trip to Columbia," Mrs. Pennington told her husband.

At Macon, Porath looked up the Dwight Williams home, but there was no one there. "I started back to the car and happened to look in the garage," he says. "And there was this big deer head. So I got it and went up on the porch and started in measuring.

"Pretty soon a car drove up and this lady gave me a very suspicious look. I rushed right up and introduced myself -- told her what I was doing -- but she still watched like a hawk."

Mr. Williams' Big Buck scored 162 3/8 and earned him membership in the club.

There's no time limit on eligibility in the club, as long as the rack still is attached to a skull cap or head and as long as the rack has dried for 90 days or more. In fact, the club has recognized deer racks as old as 40 years.

Anyone with a potentially eligible rack can contact Porath, Game Research, Department of Conservation, 1110 College Avenue, Columbia, Mo. 65201.

This year's Big Bucks Club banquet was Oct. 10. Featured speaker was Dr. Robert Robel, Kansas State University. There were 95 peopel attending.

The best typical deer rack went to E. L. Burch, Kansas City, for a score of 180 2/8 on a deer taken in Linn County last year. Gary Rosier, Butler was found second with a score of 177 4/8 on his Bates County trophy.

Top non-typical rack scored 181 2/8. Bill Belzer, Bucklin, took the buck in Linn County. Ed Cockerell, Columbia, was second with a rack from Benton County which scored 173 7/8.

Wayne Porath, Department of Conservation deer biologist, measures a trophy deer rack to see if it qualifies its owner for membership in the Show Me Big Bucks Club.

Court To Hear Flood's Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Curt Flood's two-year fight to make baseball subject to antitrust laws may be settled finally at the middle of next season by the U.S. Supreme Court.

For the first time since 1953 the high court agreed Tuesday to hear arguments on a legal attack on the structure of professional baseball.

In 1922 the court decided baseball is essentially a sport and not a business. In 1953 the court said any change in baseball's status should be up to Congress.

Flood's case may be delayed by two court vacancies, but a final decision is expected by June. Former Justice Arthur J. Goldeberg will argue for the one-time all-star centerfielder at a hearing tentatively set for mid-January.

Flood and Goldberg objected in their suit mainly to the "reserve system," which binds a player to the team that holds his contract.

Baseball commissioner Bowie K. Kuhn and other baseball officials have argued successfully in lower courts that it should be up to Congress, and not the courts, to make any change in baseball's status.

Kuhn said Tuesday that the court's decision to hear arguments "does not affect the merits of the case. We have complete confidence in the fairness of the court's ultimate decision."

Richard Moss, counsel for the Players' Association, said: "We are very gratified that the court has seen fit to review the case on its merits."

Flood filed suit after the St. Louis Cardinals traded him in 1969 to the Philadelphia Phillies. He refused to report and sat out the 1970 season while two lower federal courts rejected his claim.

He played briefly with the Washington Senators last spring but left the team at midseason and is believed to be living in Majorca, Spain.

In their appeal to the high court, Goldberg and Fpood acgued that a series of events since 1953 calls for a re-examination of the two previous decisions.

They said other sports have been put under antitrust laws, that baseball frunchises have been switched frequently and that national television is a source of mounting revenue.

AP Top 10 Favored

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — This week it looks like the Associated Press' top ten teams will keep on winning.

Nebraska at Oklahoma State—State's Floyd Gass says the Cowpokes will "play well against Nebraska," but he didn't say which year. The fine sophomores may be in over their heads against the Cornhuskers, ranked by the AP as the best team in the nation. Gass isn't from Brooklyn but wait 'til next year, anyway. NEBRASKA.

Oklahoma at Kansas State— Everything may be up to date in Kansas City but things aren't even up to last year at Kansas State, when the Wildcats knocked off ... OKLAHOMA.

Michigan at Minnesota—Illinois just got through playing Ohio State and Michigan. Now it's Minnesota's turn to tangle with Michigan and Ohio State. MICHIGAN.

Houston at Alabama—Bear Bryant is running Bill Yeoman's triple option disguised as the Wishbone. An upset is possible, such as last year's 30-21 'Bama victory over the favored Cougars. Surprise, surprise? Nope. ALABAMA.

Clemson at Auburn—Clemson has come alive the last two weeks but the reincarnation has to stop somewhere. Hold That Tiger is the theme, since both teams are nicknamed Tigers. Doing the legal holding ... AUBURN.

Southern California at Notre Dame—The Irish were 10-1 last season and the 1 was named Southern Cal to the tune of 3828. It cost Notre Dame the national championship and, even though there's a freeze on, the Trojans will pay through the nose. NOTRE DAME.

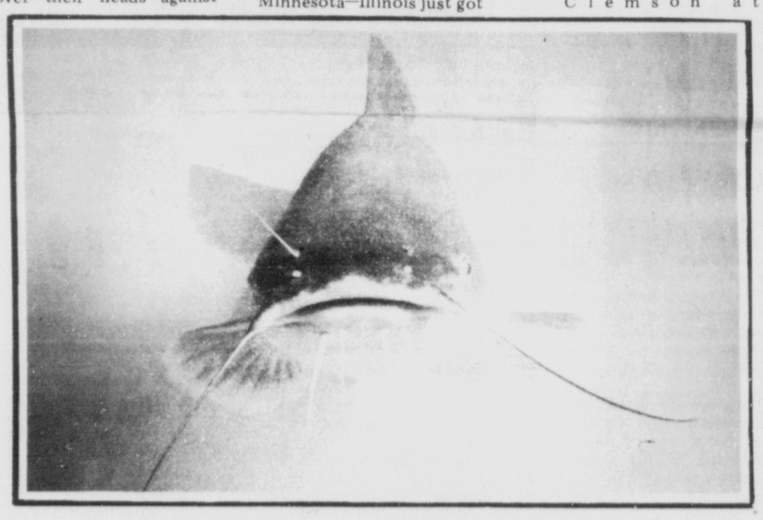
Texas Christian at Penn State—The Christians and the Lions? Have mercy ... PENN STATE.

Wisconsin at Ohio State— Badgers are on the rise and Buckeyes are hurting. That, however, is when Woody Hayes is most dangerous. Besides, how many times in one year can the Buckeyes lose in Columbus? OHIO STATE.

Arizona State at New Mexico—Both teams may have been looking ahead last week to this Western Athletic Conference showdown when the Sun Devils lost to Oregon State and New Mexico tied San Jose State. Frank Kush is one of the winningest coaches around. Add one win. ARIZONA STATE.

Wake Forest at North Carolina—Bill Dooley was awed by Notre Dame's defense last week. This week he gets a taste of offense as supplied by ... WAKE FOREST.

Oregon State at Washington— The Beavers have had their fling and the Huskies have had their slump. WASHINGTON.



Old Blue 1935 - 1971

MOUNT VERNON — Old Blue has passed on to the Great Fishpond. Star of many Department of Conservation State Fair exhibits, Old Blue's mighty heart was stilled recently as old age caught up with him.

Old Blue was a huge blue catfish, but he was more than that. He was the star of the exhibit. Snakes and raccons and deer and red tailed hawks came and went, but Old Blue endured.

Upstart gars challenged him. Mouthy bigmouthed bass backtalked him -- but they vanished into Missouri's lakes and streams, but Old Blue returned again and again to center stage, finning quietly and professionally and, no doubt, humming to himself snatches of "There's no business like show business...."

In the 1971 State Fair, an estimated 350,000 persons passed through the Department of Conservation's exhibit. Of that number, an estimated 349,000 saw Old Blue in his pool at the end of the fish exhibit. The other 1,000 were arguing or thinking about whether they'd lost their car keys or something.

Allowing for population growth and increasing popularity of the Fair exhibit in recent years, Old Blue was seen by 11 million Missourians or more than two times the population of the state. Obviously, some people went back for a second look.

There have been approximately 25 fish in the pool with Old Blue each year which means he was a direct influence on 825 fish over his 33-year career. Many of these same fish have gone on to individual glory in exhibits or at the end of an angler's line -- a direct tribute to the inspiration of Old Blue.

Old Blue is survived by a large family of more than 1,000 different species of catfish including 34 in the United States and Mexico. Largest member of his immediate family, the blue or Mississippi catfish, weighed 150 pounds, according to "American Food and Game Fishes" and was netted in the Mississippi River at St. Louis.

The present world record blue catfish also was caught in Missouri -- on the Osage River July 25, 1964, on a trotline by Anzel Goans and his sons of Osceola. The fish weighed 117 pounds.

Keith Hendricks, hatchery manager at Chesapeake Hatchery, Old Blue's off duty home, reported the demise of Old Blue. "We found him dead in the display lake," Hendricks said with a catch in his voice.

He talked to A. George Morris, former superintendent of hatcheries for the Department of Conservation and the man who took Old Blue from the minor leagues and made him a star.

"George caught Old Blue on a trotline in the Osage River about four miles below the Osceola Dam," Hendricks reports. "Old Blue was brought back to the hatchery in a 10-gallon cream can with the idea of using him for fair displays. George thought this was about 1938, probably in the month of June.

"At that time, Old Blue weighed about three pounds. So, at the time of his passing, he would have been about 36 years old. And he would have made some 33 trips to the State Fair at Sedalia.

"We've always thought that if Old Blue could walk he could get to Sedalia by himself. We know this is possible because last August when the guys were on their way to the State Fair, they had to make a detour because of road repairs.

"Old Blue stuck his head out of the fish tank and said to the driver, 'Hey -- you're going the wrong way!'"

Hello! From last week being a nothing week this one has been almost unbelieveable, at least the week-end. Everything started out okay. Tony, my son, had to go to guard meeting so the rest of us thought this would be an ideal time to take Tammy , my new granddaughter to see Mother and Daddy and also my Grandma.After all this is a great- great granddaughter. We made the trip just fine and the first night was okay but from then on nothing was okay. My uncle Wilson was accidently shot (Daddys' brother-in-law), then going home Mother and Daddy had a wreck (they're okay) and then the next day Uncle Wilsons' daughter Barbara had a wreck. Needless to say we drove home very very carefully but I think we will stay at home for a while.

THE SPEED QUEEN LAUNDRY AND DRY CLEANING SERVICE to be open to the public Thursday at Midtowner Village Shopping Center. The new enterprise is owned by Hutson Enterprises of Cape Girardeau.

New Coin Laundry Will Open

A new business enterprise has been added to the Midtowner Village Shopping Center, with the grand opening Thursday of the Speed Queen Coin Laundry and Dry Cleaning, by Hutson Enterprises of Cape Girardeau.

The new 3,000 square foot building was erected at the south edge of Oglanders and across the street from Barkett's Big Star.

The new firm will open Thursday and will have almost 90 pieces of automatic equipment at the public's disposal. Included are 64 washers, 23 dryers and three dry cleaners. It will also have a steam cabinet that takes out wrinkles in dry cleaning.

Miss Bonnie Brewer will be the manager. She will be assisted by Misses Tricia and Patricia Eaves, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Eaves, as attendants.

The firm will be open seven days a week, from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., with an attendant present.

For the ribbon cutting occasion, free gifts will be given to children, and free drinks to the public, beginning at 11 a.m. The public may register for three grand prizes.

It is the fourth such enterprise in the area. Others located at Cape Girardeau, Poplar Bluff and Charleston.

Masons To Honor Past Chiefs

Sikeston Lodge 310 A.F. and A.M. will honor its past presiding officers Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Masonic Temple.

A business meeting will be at 7 p.m. and at 8 p.m., the doors of the lodge will be opened to families and friends of members of the lodge.

A highlight will be the presentation of 50-year service buttons to three lodge members.

Receiving buttons will be Jean Herschberg, of Park Ridge, Ill.; Merritt S. Gwinn, state highway department employe and Herman C. Henry, Buckner - Ragsdale Company store employe, both of Sikeston.

In charge of the program are Chris L. Francis, A. A. Harrison, and Ira L. Taylor.

I can't believe this is happening to me — why do I ever let myself get talked into all these ridiculous situations — when will I ever learn — boy, am I ever stupid!! In one short week the fellas have dragged up the aquarium tank and all the aparatus that goes with it from the basement and gotten started on that kick again; and to top it off, its not bad enough I'm the mother of twelve new fish (two of which are due any day now to fill the tank with an overflow of little ones — why does Lee always manage to buy pregnant fish), I'm also mama to a chameleon who resides on my library table in the sun room. I really am getting right fond of the little fella, though, and when I take him out and love him and scratch his stomach he gets so happy he just turns beautiful colors and stretches his little neck every which way to get rubbed. And, I really don't mind having his home on my table or catching the live flies to feed him; but these repulsive mealworms that are residing in the cheese tray in my ice box are really beginning to get to this ole gal. You see you have to keep them cool or they turn into beetles and thats hard on the digestive system of a lizard, so, the icebox. After all mom, he paid a penny a worm for them and a guy just can't have his savings going up in beetles now can he? I am so happy that fish just eat fish food, and if they would just quit having babies; and if they would just quit having to have their water temperature at 80 degrees so you wouldn't have to go to the store three times in four days for new systems at $5.00 a whack; and if the air pump didn't vibrate so loudly all over the upstairs bedrooms it made it impossible to sleep at night; and if the tank didn't have to be cleaned; and if the big guys would quit eating the little guys, why then I think I wouldn't mind the acquarium either!

Man Rescued 7 Hours After Fall In Cave

GREENFIELD, Mo. (AP) — A 22-year-old Mount Vernon, Mo., man, knocked unconscious in a fall and trapped in a cave nearly seven hours Monday, was treated by a doctor in Mt. Vernon following his rescue and released.

Larry Box, who had entered the cave some 10 miles south of Greenfield with two other Mount Vernon men, reportedly fell about 50 feet down a steep incline.

Steve Brecht, 19, went for help as Jim Turk, 24, who found Box unconscious, revived him by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Authorities said rescue attempts were complicated by an overhanging ledge in the passageway where Box and Turk were trapped.

COOKING-UP with judy gazette

Recipes submitted by three readers this week constitute a nearly complete menu.

If you've mailed food ideas -- holiday items in particular -- and haven't seen them published yet, keep watching this space. Many of the more festive recipes are being saved for holiday issues. Once again, if you are in need of a rule and can't seem to locate it in your files, send a request in care of this column. It will be printed along with your name and address. Chances are someone will be able to find it readily -- in time for turkey season.

Mrs. Willard Sexton, 529 Clayton, sends a good rule for meat loaf with details for tasty sauce.

"FOR THE SAUCE"
3/4 cup tomato catsup
1/3 cup brown sugar
1½ tsp. prepared mustard
2 T. cider vinegar
½ tsp. ground nutmeg

Cook all ingredients together until the mixture begins to boil. Let cool.

FOR THE MEAT LOAF"
2 pounds ground beef
2 eggs
1 cup corn flakes
2 tsp. salt
2 tsp. pepper
2 T. minced parsley
1 small onion, chopped

Add about half of the sauce to the meat loaf. Mix well and shape mixture into loaf. Wrap bacon strips around loaf.

Bake in 350-degree oven about 50 minutes. During last 20 minutes of baking, baste loaf with rest of sauce.

"This loaf when cool slices nicely and is very good for sandwiches," Mrs. Sexton writes.

CHOCOLATE CAKE
2 cups flour
2 cups sugar
2 sticks butter or margarine
4 T. cocoa
1 tsp. vanilla
1 cup water
2 eggs, beaten
½ cup sour cream
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. baking powder

Bring to boil the butter, water and cocoa, stirring to prevent lumps. Cool. Pour this over flour, sugar and salt.

In another bowl, put the eggs, sour cream and vanilla. Stir well and mix with the four and chocolate mixture. Blend well. Pour into well greased sheet cake pan. Bake 20 minutes in 350-degree oven.

Ice while still warm.

ICING
1 box powdered sugar
1 cup chopped nuts (Mrs. Sexton says the nuts are optional)
1 tsp. vanilla
2 T. cocoa
1 stick margarine
6 T. milk

Bring the margarine, cocoa and milk to a boil, stirring to prevent lumps. Remove from heat and add powdered sugar, vanilla and nuts. Mix well and spread on cake while still warm.

"This cake is very good for picnics and will serve a crowd. If any is left over, it keeps very well!"

OLD FASHIONED POTATO SALAD
6 medium sized potatoes, boiled with peelings on 'til tender
3 eggs, cooked to hard boil stage
½ cup salad dressing
3 medium sized sweet pickles
1/3 tsp. salt
1 T. sugar
1/3 tsp. black pepper

Pare potatoes and cube. Remove shells from eggs and cube. Chop pickles and mix first three ingredients in bowl.

Add salad dressing.

Salt, sugar and pepper and mix all together.

Last, but not least noteworthy, is a dessert receipe from one of our male counterparts. I have tried a close cousin to these Peanut Butter Fingers and can vouch for the good taste. Kids love them.

PEANUT BUTTER FINGERS
Cream: ½ cup butter
Add: ½ cup sugar and ½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
Cream well.
Blend in: 1 unbeaten egg, 1/3 cup peanut butter, ½ tsp. soda, ¼ tsp. salt., ½ tsp. vanilla.
Add: 1 cup flour and 1 cup quick-cooking oats (uncooked).

Spread in greased 13 x 9-inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes.

Sprinkle with one 6-ounce package of semi-sweet chocolate morsels. Let stand for five minutes. The morsels don't lose their shape, but are soft enough to spread.

Combine ½ cup sifted powdered sugar, ¼ cup peanut butter and two to four tablespoons evaporated milk. Mix well.

Spread chocolate evenly over baked layer. Drizzle with peanute butter mix. Cool and cut into bars.

New Optimism Builds For Treating Multiple Sclerosis

Editor's Note: For years scientists believed multiple sclerosis was always a progressive, wasting disease. The following article, fourth in a five-part series on "The Great Cripplers," reports on new prime of life and often optimism about the disease's course.

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With sociological and geographical selection, multiple sclerosis strikes young adults in the prime of life and often condemns them to a life of tremor, paralysis and physical weakness.

Of the great cripplers-arthritis, cerebral palsy, cerebral stroke, muscular dystrophy-multiple sclerosis appears the most precise in choosing its victims.

MS strikes most often among higher social and economic groups. Persons in temperate latitudes, except in central Asian nations, are more vulnerable to the disease than those in warmer climates.

The most common disease of the nervous system affecting men and women in the prime of life in North American and Northern Europe, multiple sclerosis most often picks its victims from persons between ages 20 and 40.

And for the 250,000 victims in the United States and two million worldwide, there is no known cure, preventive or fully effective treatment for the often crippling disease.

Lately, though, a growing cautious optimism has developed among scientists that something can be done about preventing or controlling MS. The volunteer National Multiple Sclerosis Society says it costs the nation $2 billion annually in medical expenses and wasted human resources.

"There is considerable hope about multiple sclerosis today," says the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Stroke (NINDS). "More and more knowledge is being gathered as investigators dig deeper into its origins and behavior."

"The multiple sclerosis patient today lives longer than was thought possible years ago," NINDS adds. "Many people with mild or even moderately severe cases can live normal lives and work regularly for years."

Some scientists believe that up to 50 per cent of MS cases are not inexorably progressive, totally crippling nor fatal as once thought.

The disease is characterized by spotty degeneration of the fatty sheath of a substance called myelin that normally acts as a protective covering for nerve fibers, much as insulation protects telephone wires.

This multiple scarring, or sclerosing, of the nerve pathways can lead to distortion, sometimes even blockage, of nerve messages from the brain and spinal cord that control such functions as seeing, speaking, walking and balance.

The symptoms of MS can include shaking or tremor, extreme weakness, progressive paralysis. Early warnings signs are blurred speech, tingling sensations and numbness. But the disease in its early stages often is difficult to diagnose.

As the disease progresses, symptoms can wax and wane. Periods of worsening often are followed by symptom-free periods and sometimes a slight, overall improvement.

The new guarded optimism for eventually preventing and controlling MS is based on several promising leads and educated hunches that include:

—Relatively recent recognition that periods of remission from the disease's symptoms may last months or even years, possibly opening the way toward uncovering a means of protective treatment during such periods.

—The geographic distribution of the disease, suggesting that an environmental factor may play a role in the disease.

—Growing suggestive evidence that multiple sclerosis may be a so-called auto-immune disease in which the victim becomes allergic to his own tissue, such as nervous system tissue.

Future Of Business Will Be Discussed

WASHINGTON — College students and business leaders will meet in Washington for three days beginning Wednesday to discuss "Business Tomorrow."

Business is a dirty eight - letter word on many campuses and no wonder. William H. Whyte's The Organization Man portrayed businessmen as bloodless souls who worshipped "the System." Edwin H. Sutherland's White Collar Crime painted them as bandits. Generations of social commentators have sneered at the businessman's adulation of what William James called, that "bitch goddess, Success."

Between Matthew Josephson's The Robber Barons of 1934 and Robert Townsend's Up the Organization in 1970 there is an endless list of books that take the business image. Not unpredictably, 94 per cent of the students polled by Fortune magazine in 1969 believed that business was too profit - minded and not concerned enough with public welfare.

The attitude may be changing. A year after the Fortune poll, professor James M. Lahiff wrote that in a survey of 28 colleges, "Students, by and large, favor corporate business." Now the Foundation for Student Communication is sponsoring a convention of 200 businessmen and 200 students this month in Washington to discuss the corporation and "Its relation to today's changing world." More than 80 big corporations – including American Tel & Tel, Xerox and Zenith – have put up $2,500 apiece to finance the meeting.

"The public be damned," was the attitude of railroad tycoon William H. Vanderbilt in 1882. Times change. In 1971, the view of Gulf Oil President B. R. Dorsey is that "the first responsibility of business is to operate for the well-being of society." Only a suicidal executive would dare echo J. P. Morgan's sentiment of the 1890's: "I owe the public nothing."

Some historians feel the business image was blemished beyond rehabilitation in the Great Depression. Others see the distrust of corporations beginning at the turn of the century – the muckraking era of Lincoln Steffens and Ida Tarbell. Things had obviously gone too far by 1913 when even Theordore Roosevelt demanded that "big business give the people a square deal."

Causes of the current crop of student disillusionment over business are all about us, Pollution, poverty, racial tension and all the evils of urbanized society have been laid – sometimes unfairly – at the door of big business. Business has been forced to respond, especially since Ralph Nader raised consumer advocacy to an art form. According to one observer, "executives throughout the country are busily, and noisily, initiating programs aimed at appeasing complaints and demands of American buyers."

Ralph Nader, in fact, will be a principal speaker at the student - businessman meeting. The moguls had better look out. Richard Armstrong wrote recently that Nader "is not primarily interested in protecting consumers. The passion that rules in him ... is aimed at smashing utterly the target of his hatred, which is corporate power."

Nader and others deeply distrust the business community's newly found social conscience. Author David Finn believes the corporation is now intent on saving American society but only "lest the corporation itself be destroyed in the process." In Washington, the students will argue whether corporate conscience is the wave of the future or an artful piece of flim - flam.

Fire Damages Arbyrd Home

ARBYRD — A fire swept through the home of Mrs. Jessie Murel Crum, Saturday night and gutted the four - room house. Firemen from Arbyrd were called to the home at 8:45 p.m. to extinguish the blaze but were called back at 12:30 a.m. when the fire broke out again.

Mrs. Crum and her son, Johnny, were out of town when the fire broke out. The fire reportedly started in some wiring. Mrs. Crum is an employe of the Dunklin County Memorial hospital.

Vocational Schools Visited

HOWARDVILLE — New Madrid County R-1 school district was represented in an all-day field trip to visit vocational programs in Selmer and Memphis, Tuesday.

Those participating were Dr. George S. Reuter, Jr., Superintendent; Max Timmons, Sam J. Bodine, James B. Lovett, Bill Nance, Joe L. Scott, Lester M. King, H. B. Mitchell, Harold A. Dial and J. Robert Blades.

Rocks Given To Survey

ROLLA — An impressive collection of 56 examples of Precambrian igneous rocks from Missouri was donated to the Missouri Geological Survey by Richard E. Wagner, Flat River, and Rosser C. Brophy, River Mines. This display is interesting because of the iron and copper deposits discovered in Missouri's Precambrian rocks.

The collection has samples that range from mottled black and white Knoblick granite from near Knob Lick to a colorful specimen of lapilli tuff found at Redmondville. All of the state's Precambrian rock types are represented. The polished rock samples are cut into 2-inch x 3-inch blocks and are mounted on an attractive light gray background set in a brown frame. The entire collection is to be displayed at the Survey headquarters in Rolla, Mo.

Geologic interest in Precambrian igneous rocks has increased manyfold nationwide during the past several years. Missouri is fortunate in that these rocks are exposed at the surface in the St. Francois Mountain and Eminence areas are readily accessible for investigation.

Approximately 2,000 people take advantage of conducted tours of Survey facilities each year. The new display will be of particular interest to school children, rock hounds, earth science enthusiasts, and geologists.

USDA Thinks Plants Can Replace Whale Sperm Oil

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has come up with a whale of an idea to help replace sperm oil and it's not as fishy as it sounds.

New conservation regulations, aimed at protecting the world's dwindling whale herds, will bar imports of sperm oil after Dec. 1. The oil is highly favored in the manufacture of a number of industrial products, including transmission fluids and specialty lubricants.

But USDA scientists think several exotic-sounding plants have potential as alternate oil sources. They are jojoba, potential but its oil probably would require another meadowfoam and crambe.

Gains Claimed In War On Heroin Among GIs

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. Command apparently is winning its war against heroin addiction among GIs in Vietnam, says President Nixon's chief of drug abuse prevention.

Dr. Jerome Jaffe, speaking to a symposium at Stanford University Monday night on the future of drug abuse, said 103,000 U.S. personnel have undergone urine tests for evidence of heroin before being allowed to leave Vietnam for return to the United States.

Of these, 3.7 per cent have been found to have used heroin in the three days preceding their test, he said.

"The rate seems to be constantly falling," indicating that the program begun about three months ago is succeeding, Jaffe said.

Men who show positive test results are sent to treatment centers to undergo heroin withdrawal before being allowed to leave for the United States.

"The mere idea of quarantine seems to have an effect without other disciplinary action being necessary," Jaffe said.

Jaffe said that when he reported July 16 to President Nixon on heroin addiction levels in Vietnam 22,000 GIs had been tested with about 4.5 per cent positive.

Environment Specialist To Serve Bootheel

BENTON — The Phelps County Extension Council executive committee approved the addition of Bill Young as area environmental quality specialist for the Meramec Area and geographic counties including the Bootheel of Mississippi, New Madrid, Dunklin, Pemiscot, Scott and Stoddard counties.

Young became the first environmental quality specialist for the state in April of 1969. He spent four months in training and developing content materials for this program. Until Sept. 14 he was assigned to work in West Central Missouri in 15 counties headquartered at Sedalia.

Young has a Bachelor of Science degree in political science from Drury College in Springfield, and a master of education administration from the University of Missouri at Columbia. His previous work experience was as a youth agent in Bollinger, Madison, and Wayne counties from 1966 to 1969.

He is available for educational work in environmental quality for the area. To receive his services contact the Delta Center, University of Missouri, Portageville, Area Code 314 - 379-5431 through Tom B. Stroup, acting area director, or Glenn Patton, area director, after Dec. 25.

Young and his wife, Shiela, live in Rolla.

Damage Suit Against Son, Administrator

BENTON — Mrs. Ima Satterfield of Cairo, has filed a personal injury and damage suit for $250,000 against her son, Robert Donald Satterfield, also of Cairo, and Hodge Decker, of Sikeston, administrator in the estate of George Wells.

Mrs. Satterfield's suit was filed in the office of Scott county circuit clerk Lynn F. Ingram.

Mrs. Satterfield's attorney said under a non - resident motorist statute for Missouri, it is possible to file a lawsuit in any county in the state providing the defendant is a non - resident of Missouri.

The suit states Mrs. Satterfield was a passenger in her son's automobile on Nov. 11, 1970, when involved in an accident that resulted in permanent disability and loss of all earning power.

Mr. Satterfield's car and one driven by Wells collided one mile north of route H in Pemiscot county. Both were reported traveling at over 70 miles per hour and both were reported to be on the wrong sides of the highway.

Wells died as a result of the injuries sustained in the crash.

Mrs. Satterfield states that because of the accident she has suffered severe and permanent injuries.

Paterson Business School Dean

ROLLA -- Robert W. Paterson, who has been serving as acting dean since March, became dean of the School of Business and Public Administration on the University of Missouri -Columbia Campus.

His appointment was approved Oct. 15 by the Board of Curators of the University of Missouri in a regular meeting here. He also retains his title as professor of economics and Faculty Research Professor of the B&PA Research Center.

A member of the UMC faculty since July 1, 1959, Dr. Paterson is well -known for his annual economic forecasts of United States business conditions and his contributions to the formation of the School of Business and Public Administration's Research Center, an organization of faculty from seven social science disciplines.

Dr. Paterson's business forecasts are widely used by American business firms and have been condensed by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, Va., in its compendium of major forecasts since 1954.

A native of Columbus, Ohio, he earned his Ph.D. degree in economics at the University of Virginia. He also taught at Virginia and the University of South Carolina, where he organized the first business and economic research unit, from 1953 until he came to Missouri.

In recent years Dr. Paterson has served as a tax study, economic, and management consultant to private and governmental agencies. In this capacity he served three state governments, agencies of the federal government, and five major national business concerns.

Dr. Paterson is a past - president of the National Association of University business and Economic Research. He is serving a third three - year term as a member of the National Academy of Sciences, Highway Research Board, Committee on Socio - Economic Aspects of Highways.

Dr. Paterson served as a foreign service officer in the U.S. Department of State from 1945 through 1949. In that capacity he was an economic and political analyst at U. S. embassies in Brazil and Cuba, and was officer -in -charge of U.S. consulates in Vitoria Brazil, and the Embassy in Barbados, British West Indies. Prior to this service, he worked with firms in the manufacturing and construction industries.

As a representative of the U. S. Department of State and during his academic career, Dr. Paterson has lectured, given papers, and been a discussant at conferences in South America, Europe, and Africa, as well as in the United States.

Dr. Paterson is author of articles, monographs, and books and is a member of academic and trade associations in the fields of economics and business. Among published studies are "Forecasting Techniques" and "The Rise of Disorganization in Metropolitan Communities." He is currently engaged in a study of "Congressional Response to U. S. Business Cycles."

Three generations of Dr. Paterson's family have been intimately involved in education. His grandfather, Robert Paterson, was the first superintendent of the Ohio School for Deaf. His mother, Alma Wacker Paterson, was the first woman trustee of the Ohio State University; his father, Robert G. Paterson, a public health executive, was a co-founder of the School of Social Administration at Ohio State. His sister, Ann, is a professor at San Francisco State. His father -in -law, William Neff, is a former president of the Virginia State Board of Education.

Dr. Paterson is married to Gene Neff, formerly of Virginia and they have two daughters, Ann (21) a senior at the University of New Mexico, and Ellen (18), a freshman at the University of Missouri - Columbia.

Dr. Paterson replaces Pinkney Walker who was dean of the B&PA School for six and one-half years. Walker was appointed recently to the Federal Power Commission in Washington, D.C.

Easing Of Medical Shortage Expected

By Editorial Research Reports

WASHINGTON -- The 82nd annual meeting of the Association of American Medical Colleges will be held in Washington Oct. 28 - Nov. 1.

An easing of the doctor shortage in the United States is expected within a few years, despite the continuing crisis in medical education. According to the association, the national goal of 50,000 more doctors by the end of the 1970s is likely to be met several years before the decade is out. there are now approximately 280,000 active physicians giving patient care on a regular and full -time basis in the nation. This represents a ratio of roughly one for every 700 inhabitants.

One sign of the expansionist trend is the opening this fall of five new medical schools: Rush Medical College in Chicago, the Missouri School of medicine in Kansas City, and medical units at the University of Southern Florida in Tampa, the University of Nevada in Reno, and at Stony Brook, Long Island.

In addition, older medical schools are expanding their intake. A preliminary count shows first admissions in the fall of 1971 at 12,150. This is 800 more than were accepted for medical training in the fall of 1970. At this rate the goal of graduating at least 10,000 fledgling doctors each year is well within reach by the mid-1970s.

This is not to say that the medical school crisis is over. Many of them are in such financial strats that they are living hand -to -mouth. Some are dipping into rapidly shrinking and irreplaceable endowment funds. Johns Hopkins, one of the nation's most renowned medical schools, was recently compelled to appeal to the Maryland legislature for $800,000 so it could pay its current bills. But this is what institutional budgeteers call "soft money" -- money that can not be counted on as a steady source of income.

"Some 61 of the nation's 108 medical schools are involved in a disaster derby," Dr. John A. D. Cooper, president of the Association of American Medical colleges, told Editorial Research Reports. "They have been forced to apply for emergency loans from the federal government because of their financial situation." One-half of these schools were said to be on the brink of bankruptcy.

That optimism can flower amid such tales of woe is due largely to the prospect that government financing will become a regular and continuing source of medical school support. Medical schools got their first taste of federal aid in the post-World War II decade when they received sizeable sums for research.

Government funding to help pay the cost of training future medical practitioners is a relatively new development, dating mainly from enactment of the Health Professions Educational Assistance Act of 1963. Thought the aid provided under this legislation was for a limited time, Congress is in the process of extending the measure. the new act will authorize $2.9 billion over the next three years for various forms of aid to medical schools and medicalstudents, with emphasis on encouraging the expansion of enrollments and the founding of additional medical schools.

Extension of the program gives leaders in medical education hope that it represents more than mere stop- gap aid. More significantly, it may represent a big step toward their major goal: acceptance of the basic principle that the nation can not attain the level of health care now demanded by the American people unless government -- state and federal -- takes on responsibility for supporting education of medical personnel.

Prospects Good For Mushrooms

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Agriculture Department says the new mushroom season getting under way this fall is expected to continue the fast pace set last year.

In Pennsylvania, the leading producer, growers in the Kennett Square area have built additional facilities and expect to boost production at least seven per cent, officials say.

During the marketing year ended last June 30, the nation's output was 207 million pounds, with Pennsylvania producing 60 per cent. Total production compared with 194 million pounds nationally a year earlier.

Last season's crop was worth nearly $90 million to growers, up sharply from $73 million in 1969-70 because of greater demand and higher prices.

VA Medical District 24 Regionalized

POPLAR BLUFF — The Administrator of Veterans Affairs, Donald E. Johnson, announced the regionalization of VA medical district 24 comprising the VA Hospitals at Little Rock -North Little Rock, Ark.; Fayetteville, Ark.; Memphis, and Poplar Bluff.

William W. Leak, hospital director of the VA Hospital, Poplar Bluff, Missouri, which will be a part of the newly formed Hospital District, states that the objectives of the regionalization of this Medical District are to improve the quality and accessibility of medical care to veterans in the geographical areas served by the District.

It is anticipated that regionalization will encourage more complete joint use of training facilities, consultants, specialized equipment and will enhance the recruitment capabilities now available to the four hospitals in this district.

Under the regionalization plan no VA Hospital in the District will lose any of its present capabilities and in fact, should have the opportunity to provide additional service. Each VA Hospital in the District is to assume a role which will enhance its strengths without loss of status. No hospital in the newly formed District will be placed in a secondary role.

The medical district concept provides that the District is a health care system and patients are to be admitted, transferred and discharged from the Region as a system. They may be admitted to any hospital in the District and through the medium of transfer, if necessary, will be cared for in the hospital which is best able to treat their particular medical problems.

The district concept will be administered by a Board of Directors made up of the Hospital Directors of the four hospitals involved in the District. Chairmanship of the board will be rotated. The Hospital Director of the VA Hospital in Little Rock is serving as Chairman of the Board during its original phase. The Hospital Directors of the four VA Hospitals in the Medical District will provide information to service organizations and interested health care representatiives in their communities as the regionalization process develops.

Jackson County Juvenile Court Uses Computer

KANSAS CITY — A pioneering, computer -based information system is helping Jackson county juvenile court break the paperwork logjam which clogs many of the nation's courts.

"Already the computing system has given us, for the first time, real management control over the flow of events in Juvenile Court," James Walsh, director of juvenile services, explained. "Soon it will process all data connected with a case, from the time a youngster is referred to us to the time he is released.

"This means we can provide him both due process of law and proper, adequate treatment in a quicker, more profesional manner."

Mr. Walsh said the program clears the way for such improvements in the juvenile justice system by using IBM visual display stations to maintain accurate, current and convenient records on an average of 350 cases per month. From these records, the Court can generate regular reports encompassing every phase of every case.

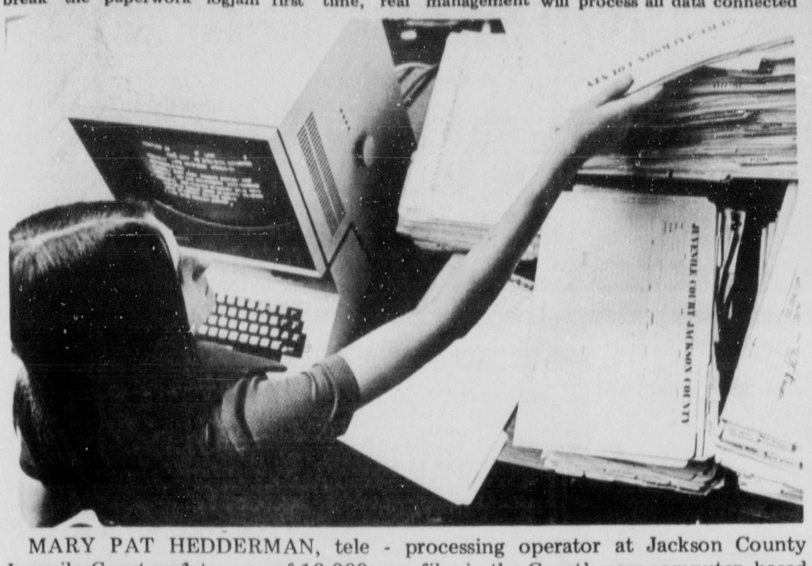
"Although we have yet to document the benefits, we know that we no longer lose or mishandle data, that we process referrals faster and that we can research any file in seconds," he said. "Time which used to be spent looking for information can now be spent planning and managing our workload more efficiently than ever."

POLICE LINK

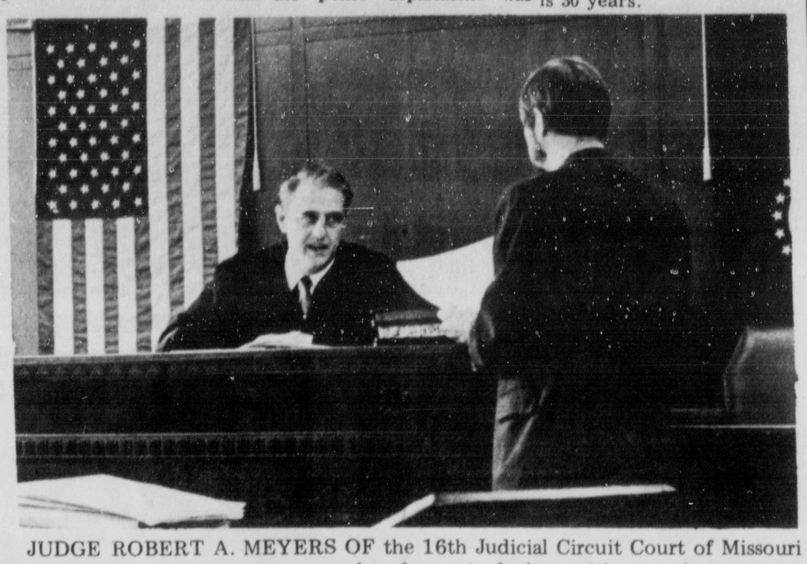
The Court initiated the system early this year when it connected the four TV-like terminals to the Kansas City Police Department's IBM System/360 Modei 40 computer.

Mr. Walsh, who also is president of the National Association of Juvenile Court Service Administrators, said such close cooperation with the police department was unique among juvenile justice programs and "provided the link which gave us one of the few, and the most advanced, such systems in the nation."

Minimum age for membership in the U.S. Senate is 30 years.



MARY PAT HEDDERMAN, tele - processing operator at Jackson County Juvenile Court updates one of 10,000 case files in the Court's new computer- based information program.



JUDGE ROBERT A. MEYERS OF the 16th Judicial Circuit Court of Missouri discusses a new computer - produced court docket with an administrative supervisor at Jackson County Juvenile Court.

Test Car Lighting Before Inspection

JEFFERSON CITY — Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, today reported lighting equipment as one of the major reasons for passenger vehicles being rejected at inspection stations.

"An average of 28 per cent of passenger vehicles which failed to pass the motor vehicle inspection during the first seven months of this year were rejected because of defective lighting equipment," Hockaday noted. "At some point in the inspection of the lighting equipment, the inspector found inoperative headlights, non - functioning taillights, and defective stop lights or signal lights. Since from the standpoint of safety, adequate and properly functioning lighting equipment are so very important, car owners should always make it a point to keep such equipment in proper operating condition."

The superintendent said it is easy for a car owner to detect defects in his vehicle's lighting equipment. For example, just a walk around the vehicle by the owner after the lights have been switched on will tell him if any lights are inoperative. A member of the family or a friend can verify if the stop and directional lights are operating properly.

"Proper functioning headlights are an absolute necessity for driving at night and under conditions of poor visibility," Hockaday contineued. "You must be able to see and be seen in order to avoid danger. It is also important that all stop lights and signal lights are operating properly so that others will know of a decrease in speed or recognize an intention to change direction. I urge car owners, therefore, to be alert for defective lighting equipment and to have any defects corrected before they are required to do so under the vehicle inspection program."
